Variety of Issues Confront Voters in Tuesday Elections

Voters in Pettis, Johnson and Benton Counties will make their spring sojourn to polling places in school houses and public buildings Tuesday to cast ballots determining the course of city and school operations.

Besides electing city councilmen, Sedalians will issue their opinion of altering city government to allow for a full-time mayor or city administrator or retaining the present part-time mayor system. Another ballot will determine whether voters feel city councilmen and the city collector should be given pay raises.

The electorate of the two-county State Fair Community College district will decide the fate of a levy issue. School board elections to fill vacancies on the Sedalia, Smithton, Pettis County and Knob Noster Boards will also be held. In connection with the Sedalia school board election, voters of District 200 will cast an advisory ballot on increasing the district's bussing services from one mile from the respective school and beyond to include students living one-half mile from their schools. LaMonte voters will determine passage of a 50-cent tax levy increase and residents of Hughesville will approve or disapprove a $280,000 bond issue to improve schools.

Three Government Options

The city administration reorganization ballot was first proposed by Major Jerry Jones at the February 20 City Council meeting. Jones has since become a leading proponent of the full-time mayor plan, though he feels voters should have the added option of retaining the present system or choosing to establish a city administrator.

Jones has articulated five primary reasons for a full-time mayor. He contends a city administrator would be only an assistant to the mayor and therefore would have virtually no authority. Secondly, Jones has said a full-time mayor would be more economical. He contended the city administrator plan would require the city to pay the salaries of two men, mayor and administrator, to do the same job.

Another reason for the full-time mayor cited by Jones has been that he would be more responsive to public views than an administrator. He has been supported in this contention by city council candidates from both parties.

Jones said a full-time mayor would be undisputably in command of the city's administration. He explained, in a Democrat-Capital interview, that because there remains some question as to what responsibilities a council would invest in the administrator, he might find it difficult to command authority.

The fifth advantage outlined by Jones was that a full-time mayor would have a closer working relationship with the various city commissions and boards than an administrator. Once again a bipartisan group of council hopefuls have expressed agreement with this point.

Four years ago, Sedalia voters soundly defeated a city administrator proposal.

When Jones called for the reorganization ballot, he also suggested voters be allowed to express their views on boosting salaries of councilmen and the city collector. The proposal, also to be offered as an advisory ballot, suggests doubling councilmen's salaries to $2,400 annually and raising the collector's monthly wage from $500 to $700.

Seek Council Posts

Two incumbents hope to maintain city council posts. Don Broaddus, First Ward Republican, is opposed in his re-election bid by J. Bartley. Broaddus has conducted a subdued campaign, relying on his past record. Bartley has conducted an extensive door-to-door campaign suggesting improved storm sewers, better streets and pay boosts for city employes.

The only other incumbent in the four-council races, Third Ward Democrat Carl Franklin, has promoted his previous service on the council as well as calling for storm sewer improvements, and improved transportation for the elderly and handicapped. He has attracted the largest crowds of any candidate.

Franklin faces political newcomer Steve Cline. The 23-year-old council hopeful has outlined his major concerns to be better storm sewers, streets, and improved wages for city employes. While not attacking Franklin's record, Cline has declared he can "do a better job."

Two past council candidates, George Dugan, Republican, and Ray Hendricks, Democrat, are seeking the fourth ward council seat vacated by George Lockett. Lockett, who narrowly defeated Dugan two years ago, is not seeking a second term. Hendricks lost a primary battle to councilman Lee Garrison last year. Dugan, who served on the council five years previous to his defeat, has cited his record as a councilman and service on the Planning and Zoning Commission and Police Personnel board as evidence of his capability to be a good alderman. Hendricks has called for a plan to be drawn up by the city council which would establish goals for the city's growth. Like Dugan, Hendricks has also served on the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Second Ward voters will choose between Larry Burnett, Republican, and Democrat Raymond Bales. Like his counterpart in the Fourth Ward, Bales ran unsuccessfully in last year's primary. He has declined comment on specific city issues, saying he has not had access to all the information. The main thrust of his bid for office has been that he would serve on the council full-time. Bales is retired. Burnett, nominated on the second ballot at the GOP's city convention, has maintained he would follow the wishes of his constituents.

Levy Retention Included

A tax levy proposal for State Fair Community College has been the center of an information campaign by school administrators and community leaders in Pettis and Benton Counties.

At issue is retention of the college's 40-cent tax levy. State law requires a junior college district which exceeds $100 million assessed valuation to automatically reduce its levy to 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation. SFCC has reached that point and is seeking retention of the 40-cent levy. Supporters of the levy have emphasized that its approval would not mean a tax hike.

Five candidates are seeking two seats on the Sedalia School Board. Seeking re-election are Mrs. Paul Hausam and Dr. Chester Kirkpatrick. Hoping to unseat them are Donald Barnes, Mrs. Glen Cromley and Gerald Rothe. All the candidates have voiced agreement on the need to regain AAA status for Sedalia schools, desegregate Hubbard School and up-date the vocational education program.

A proposal to increase the school tax levy 15 cents to finance extending bus services to children living one-half mile from their schools was dropped from the ballot by the school board in a special session almost two weeks ago. Board President George Thompson said at that time the service extension issue will remain on the ballot, but with no mention of a levy increase.

Thompson said the proposed levy hike would be placed before voters in a special election if the bus service extension is approved by the necessary two-thirds majority.

Struggling Scouts

The annual Scout-O-Rama was held Saturday at the Coliseum on the State Fairgrounds featuring Cub and Boy Scouts of the Twin Forks District, Great Rivers Council. Included in the event were demonstrations of such activities as lashing, cooking, first aid, a knot tying contest, and the Annual Pinewood Derby. All Cub Scouts participated in a physical fitness test which found John Miller, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Miller, 1619 South Wagner, struggling up a knotted rope; and Randy Paxton, above, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Paxton, 319 East 14th, handwalking across the ladder bars. Terry Reine was first place winner in the Pinewood Derby, which boasted 112 entrants. Second was Mike Carter and Barry Doty was third.

Auction in Action

Auctioneer Jim Ripley, left, asks for a $10 bid on an item during the Jaycees 17th Annual TV Benefit Auction held Saturday over KMOS-TV, Channel 6. More than $10,000 worth of merchandise was bid upon by a studio audience and by phone-in bids from persons watching the auction at home. At right, volunteer Jaycee wives take bids over the telephones. Proceeds from the auction will go to the Children's Therapy Center. About $1,000 had been collected through bids during the two-hour afternoon telecast, and one spokesman estimated $6,500 as a probable total after the last telecast which ended in the early morning hours of Sunday.

Twisters, Rain Weather Worry

A series of thunderstorms that swept across Missouri's already-drenched western half Saturday brought with them several reports of small tornadoes, three of which were sighted in the Pettis County area. Only slight property damage resulted from the severe weather, according to reports, and no injuries were recorded.

A funnel cloud touched down about 1 mile west of Clinton around 11:25 a.m. Saturday, according to the Henry County Sheriff's Department. Observers said the twister touched down on one side of Highway 7, hop-scotched across the road and touched down on the other side. The sheriff's department said the twister tore up a farmer's hog house and ripped up a section of fence. It was also reported that a number of horses were frightened by the storm and suffered minor injuries when they ran through a fence. The storm moved through the area in a northeasterly direction.

Two funnels were reported in the Gravois Mills area, one over the Lake of the Ozarks, about 2 p.m. Saturday. No property damage was reported in connection with either storm, according to the Morgan County Sheriff's office, but other sources reported slight damage.

However, the heavy rain which pelted the lake area

Workers Win Battle of Inches

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Workers fighting the flooding Missouri and Mississippi rivers won the battle by inches Saturday, keeping the high waters out of populated areas of eastern Missouri.

James Peterson of the Corps of Engineers at St. Louis and all levees in the district were holding, even though another inch of rain fell on the area Friday night. Peterson said the West Alton, Mo., area was still critical, however, with the water over the levee and near the top of a sandbag reinforcement on top of the levee.

Peterson said he expects the situation to remain about the same for several days.

Peterson added that the lower Illinois River had been closed to barge traffic during the hours of darkness. He said there was a possibility of wave wash damage to levees and homes along that stretch of that river.

Hundreds of families remained out of their homes along the Missouri and Mississippi rivers late Saturday, and spotty reports of further evacuations came from the Arnold and Crystal City areas south of St. Louis. Officials said there was no threat of severe damage in that area.

More calls for volunteers were issued in the Bridgeton, Mo., Alton, Ill., and Chouteau Island, near Granite City, Ill. Most of the 100 residents remained on Chouteau Island, but were prepared to evacuate on short notice.

The Corps of Engineers said the Mississippi, which crested yesterday at Winfield, north of St. Louis, had not gone down very much. Water is expected to remain high there for several days.

Police at Grafton, Ill., where the main street is under water, said earlier reports that the town's water supply was contaminated were incorrect. Authorities said test of the water proved negative but residents were advised to boil cooking and drinking water as a precaution.

A spokesman for the Salvation Army said the organization had 13 field kitchens in operation to feed volunteers manning the water-logged levees. The Red Cross established shelters in West Alton, St. Charles and the Old Monroe area.

Authorities said sandbagging efforts would continue as long as necessary to maintain the levees.

Officials said the Missouri River crested Saturday at St. Charles and can be expected to drop about a foot before rising to another crest, slightly higher than the first, on about April 4.

The Mississippi crest at St. Louis was extended from Sunday to Monday, at 38.5 feet.

Puzzle Pieces Beginning To Tumble Into Place

WASHINGTON (AP) — After nine months of speculation, charges and denials and painfully little hard knowledge, the pieces of the Watergate puzzle are tumbling into place with a speed and impact that has Republican politicians worrying out loud.

And developments of the past week, with some of the men closest to President Nixon being named, brought the first slacking of the administration's tight-lipped reaction to the political sabotage-espionage case.

Ever since seven men, three of them employes of either Nixon's campaign or White House staff, were arrested after the June 17 burglary of Democratic party headquarters, the administration has denied any involvement but turned aside most questions.

But last week, according to inside sources, one of the Watergate burglars began to name names that sounded like a Nixon administration Who's Who.

James W. McCord, former security chief for the Nixon campaign, faced with a possible long prison sentence and an impatient judge, decided to talk to a special Senate investigating committee.

Sources close to the Senate probe said McCord told the investigators that presidential aide H. R. Haldeman "had to be aware" of plans to wiretap Democratic headquarters.

After McCord testified in closed session Wednesday, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., who presided, said McCord had named Jeb Magruder, a former White House aide who was deputy director of the reelection campaign, and John W. Dean III, Nixon's legal counsel.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., another committee member, said McCord had told the group that John N. Mitchell, former attorney general and Nixon campaign manager, approved plans for the bugging at Democratic headquarters.

Other sources said both Mitchell and former Nixon political advisor and White House official, Charles W. Colson, had advance knowledge of plans to break into and bug Democratic offices in Washington's Watergate complex.

Columnist Jack Anderson, quoting "our own White House sources," claimed Nixon did not authorize the burglary raid but "approved the overall espionage-sabotage operation."

That left hook was followed by a right cross from Weicker who called a news conference the same day and said he thinks the Watergate bugging was part of GOP election-year espionage and sabotage against Democrats.

Weicker also said he thinks it was directed by someone in the White House. He even said he thinks he knows who it is but declined to give the name.

A source close to the Senate inquiry also said it had discovered that top White House personnel were "involved in 1972 espionage and bugging activities" and have a "history of being involved in similar activities in past elections."

"We're talking about ... people working around Nixon from 1962 on," the source added.

As the new charges began to roll out last week, Mitchell issued a statement calling the reports about him "slanderous and false," and the White House denied Dean had prior knowledge of the Watergate, saying Nixon still has "absolute and total confidence" in his official lawyer. Colson also denied involvement or prior knowledge of the affair.

After all these developments, U.S. Dist. Court Judge John J. Sirica postponed McCord's sentencing until June 15 while he

Doctors Honored

Doctors were honored Friday by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Pettis County Medical Society, who displayed a large red, white and blue top-hat floral arrangement with red carnations at Bothwell Hospital. Dr. Albert R. Maddox, left, and Dr. Arturo Gonzales, were among the staff honored with the theme, "hats off to our doctors on their day." Chairman for this year's activities, which also included a proclamation signed by Mayor Jerry Jones, was Mrs. John Brazos. Mrs. J. W. Boger was co-chairman.

Questions, Answers On Meat Price Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's ceiling on meat prices is effective immediately, but retailers have until April 9 to work out the maximum prices which they cannot legally exceed.

As of that date, they will be required to post the ceiling prices on cards at least three by four feet, displayed prominently where items are sold.

Here are some questions and answers on how the ceiling will work:

Q. Is this the same as a price freeze?

A. It's not a freeze. The difference is that a freeze would keep prices where they are, while a ceiling places a limit on the top price, but not the minimum.

Q. Does that mean prices will come down?

A. They should come down slightly, and the government hopes they will come down significantly as time goes by.

Q. But it looked as if prices might be about to fall anyway. Won't this serve as a temptation for retailers to keep them at the ceiling?

A. The administration thinks not. It says that an increasing supply of meat, already in the works, will bring down prices, especially since there will be no temptation for producers and processors to hold back meat in hopes of higher prices.

Q. How long will it last?

A. Indefinitely. Treasury Secretary George Shultz said it will last "until the problem is solved," meaning until prices come down.

Q. What happens if the butcher ignores the ceiling, or if he reduces the quantity and quality of meat at the ceiling price?

A. He'd be breaking the law. A nationwide enforcement network using Internal Revenue Service personnel is being organized. However, the government is counting on most people to cooperate.

Q. You've mentioned the retailer. Will only his prices be controlled?

A The ceiling affects meat processors, meat wholesalers and meat retailers. The cattlement and farmer are excluded. The administration says market forces will control the price at which the live animal is sold.

Q. How will the ceiling price be determined?

A. It's not the top price, but the lowest price at which 10 per cent of a particular meat item sold during the 30-day period ending March 28, starting down from the top price.

Q. What does that mean?

A. If 8 per cent of the lamb chops in a store sold for $1.85 a pound during the period and 2 per cent or more sold for $1.75 a pound, then $1.75 would be the ceiling price.

Q. What if 50 per cent sold for $1.65 Why wouldn't that be the ceiling price?

A. The administration is giving the retailer, processor and wholesaler the benefit of the doubt, assuming that it was necessary for them to charge the higher prices because of their costs, and assuming it is not unlikely their costs will return to that level. If the costs fall, then the administration is counting on them to reduce prices accordingly.

Report Serious Crime Decrease

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first decrease in serious crime in 17 years has been reported by the FBI in its Uniform Crime Reports for 1972, although the agency said rapes and murders increased.

Crimes classified as serious were down by 3 per cent overall. FBI records show that the last measurable decrease in crime was 2 per cent, in 1977.

"This is the day that we have been looking forward to for many years," said Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst. "It is an important milestone in the fight to reduce crime and is directly attributable to the strong efforts of law enforcement officers throughout the nation to turn back the wave of crime that rolled up in the 1960s."

Forcible rape, however, was up 11 per cent for the year. Murders increased by 4 per cent and aggravated assault by 6 per cent. But a 4 per cent decrease was recorded for robberies, which make up the largest number of crimes in the violent category.

The report, released by FBI Acting Director L. Patrick Gray III, said that crimes of violence increased by 1 per cent, down from a 9 per cent increase the previous year.

Decreases in the number of serious crimes were reported by 94 major cities in 1972.

An average decrease of 7 per cent was reported for cities with more than 100,000 population. Suburban areas, however, showed an increase of 2 per cent, but this was less than an 11 per cent increase in 1971.

In rural areas, crime rose by 4 per cent, compared to a 6 per cent increase the previous year.

Crimes against property were down 3 per cent, compared with a 6 per cent increase in 1971. Auto theft dropped by 7 per cent, larceny of $50 and over declined 3 per cent, and burglary showed a 2 per cent drop.

The FBI's Uniform Crime Reports are a compilation of police statistics that are supplied by local, county and state law enforcement agencies.

"Eye has not seen, ear has not heard, nor has it so much as dawned on man, what God has prepared for those who love him."
1 Corinthians 2:9

IN THE BOOK OF REVELATION WE READ:
"Never again shall they know hunger or thirst . . . for the Lamb on the throne will shepherd them. He will lead them to springs of life-giving water, and God will wipe every tear from their eyes."
Revelation 7:16

Restructure Endeavor Discussed

The Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Missouri conducted the third of ten scheduled orientation meetings Saturday at the Holiday Inn here. Volunteer workers and representatives of public health and welfare agencies in Pettis, Saline, Benton, Camden, Morgan, Cooper, and Howard Counties were invited to attend the meeting, which included an audio-visual presentation and an explanation of the new regional structure of the Society.

The audio-visual portion of the program is designed to provide volunteer workers with basic information concerning the objectives and history of the Society. Guest speakers for the presentation were John H. Kniest, Executive Director; Mrs. Catherine Hellman, public relations director; and John Farnham, field representative, all from St. Louis.

Following the audio-visual portion of the meeting, the three guests explained the "regionalization" of the Society which would divide Missouri into five regions, each controlled by a regional director, rather than the previous structure in which each county in Missouri had a committee that was responsible to the state board.

Each of the five regions will be under the control of a regional board headed by a regional director, it was learned. It will be the duty of the board to decide policy and standards of program operation and management in that particular region. The regional board will answer to the state board.

According to literature distributed during the meeting, "regionalization is justified on the basis that it facilitates the delivery of services to disabled people and their families. The existing county-to-county structure is not adequate because the limited professional staff that can be employed in a single state office does not permit the breadth and depth of service known to be necessary."

Mrs. Hellman said that regionalization should "make the Society more professional, effective, and efficient."

Pettis County will be in the Central region, headquartered in Jefferson City. Farnham has been appointed regional director for the Central District.

The regionalization structure is scheduled to begin in September, it was reported.

Owner Terminates Ambulance Service

(Democrat-Capital Service)

OTTERVILLE — Robert Painter, owner of the Hays-Painter Funeral Home and ambulance services here and in Pilot Grove, told The Democrat-Capital Saturday he would cease to offer ambulance service in the two communities effective Sunday, April 1.

Painter, who has been in business in this area for 33 years, said the difficulties he encountered in finding help for his ambulance service, in addition to trying to keep that aspect of his business in line with what he termed state and federal regulations, were determining factors in closing.

The owner also noted that it was difficult for most ambulance services to show a profit in rural areas.

Painter said he did not believe termination of his service would affect the public to a great degree. He explained that ambulance companies from Sedalia had taken care of much of the demand for business in Otterville, and that Pilot Grove residents would be able to obtain emergency medical transportation from Cooper County Hospital, Boonville.

Area Elections Also

School board elections will also take place in Smithton and Knob Noster. Six candidates are seeking to fill two vacancies on the Smithton Board. They are Joe Davis, George H. Page, Max Birdsong, Bob Calvert, Mrs. Nola Shutte and incumbent Cleo Hampy.

Knob Noster has four candidates vying for two positions on the school board. Voters will go to city hall there Tuesday to choose among Ray Morris, Chuck Foffel, Roger Boyle and John Bill Hurd.

City officials to be elected in Knob Noster Tuesday are mayor, Don Burns is the only candidate; city collector, Mrs. Alice Cowan, the lone candidate; and city aldermen. Alderman candidates are: First Ward, incumbent Adams Judd and Jack Ferraer; Second Ward, Don Gunter and Jim Hayes and Third Ward, Tom Charette.

Two special issues will also be on the Knob Noster ballot. One is whether to continue a 25 cent tax levy per $100 assessed valuation for general municipal use. The other is a 5 cent tax levy on $100 assessed valuation for funding fire department operations.

Pettis County residents find themselves in the unique position of having more vacancies on their school board than candidates. Only David I. Sevier, LaMonte, is a declared candidate for one of the two vacancies.

A recent loss of federal funds prompted the R-4 school board to ask LaMonte voters to approve a 50-cent tax levy increase.

Hughesville residents of the R-5 school district will vote on a $280,000 bond issue to improve and expand school facilities. If approved, the bond issue, in part, would provide two classrooms, a lunchroom, heating facilities for the elementary school and a gymnasium-auditorium building. The bond would require a 45-cent levy per $100 assessed valuation. The term of the bonds would be 20 years.

Twisters

throughout the day Saturday forced the Union Electric Co. to open all twelve spillway gates on Bagnell Dam.

A company spokesman reported the level of the lake at 661.58 feet at 5 p.m. Saturday, about a foot and a half above full reservoir. He explained that nearly 85,000 cubic feet of water was going through or over the spillway each second, but that about 107,000 cubic feet of water was coming into the lake through rain and surface runoff. He added that the level of the lake had risen about half a foot in a few hours but emphasized there was no immediate danger of flooding on the Osage below the dam unless a steady downpour was to cover the lake area.

"Right now we've got a pretty big river (Osage) out there," the spokesman said, "but we're in no immediate danger. The lake can handle another five feet of water. That's about how high it got during the flooding in 1943."

The spokesman said the company still had the capacity to drain water from the dam at an increased rate if necessary, explaining that the amount of drainage is dependent on the amount of water being fed into the lake.

Watergate

continues to talk to the Senate and a federal grand jury looking into the same case.

Meanwhile, Republicans on Capitol Hill were getting restless, particularly over Nixon's refusal to let Dean and other administration members testify before the Senate.

Dean in particular had been a focus of contention after acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray told another Senate Panel that he had turned over to Dean FBI records and reports of the Watergate investigation.

Gray, on another occasion, conceded to the senators that Dean "probably lied" to an FBI agent during the probe.

Republican Sens. John Tower of Texas and Norris Cotton of New Hampshire both asked Nixon last week to send Dean up to the Hill.

Actually, a prescription is a valuable document. Lindstrom, a senior computer science major, is president of the Student Union Board at UMR.

Seven Are Killed In Road Tragedies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least seven persons were killed in traffic accidents in Missouri over the weekend, including four in a head-on collision near Bixby.

Harold Jones, 35, Boss, Mo., Lucky Bill Miner, 30, also of Boss, Leroy Britton, 27, and his wife, Constance M. Britton, age unknown, died in a two-car accident on a Reynolds County road about eight miles south of Bixby Saturday. Jones and Miner were the drivers; the Brittons were passengers in the Miner auto.

Charles Porter, 35, Pleasant Hill, Mo., was killed Saturday when his car collided with another vehicle on Missouri 7 in Cass County.

Timmy Stephen Dolan, 18, and his brother, Kenny Michael Dolan, 20, both of Plano, Tex., were killed Friday night when they were struck by a car as they walked along an Interstate 70 service road in Montgomery County.

Hannibal Notes Rival Expansion

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps congratulated Hannibal Saturday on the expansion of Rival Manufacturing Co. to the city.

Phelps spoke at the announcement that Rival, of Kansas City, will build a plant in Hannibal to employ about 200 persons.

The company manufactures household appliances.

"This type of industrial expansion is brought about only by a community such as Hannibal that is continually interested in broadening its economic base," Phelps said.

Tipton Prison Escape Noted

(Democrat-Capital Service)

TIPTON — Two women walked away from the Missouri Women's Prison here sometime Friday evening, according to prison authorities.

The two are identified as Patricia Korn, 19, Elvins, Mo., admitted in Nov., 1971, serving four years for escape and assaulting a police officer; and Sandra Pogue, 22, St. Louis, admitted in January of this year, serving three years on drug related charges.

According to Miss Martha Cirkl, matron supervisor at the prison, the two women were missed shortly after 7:30 Friday evening, and, although "we really can't construct it," it is believed that the pair used a fire escape to get away.

Miss Cirkl said that although the two women lived in the same dormitory, they did not share a room. The inmates at the prison normally live either three or five to a room.

"We have no leads at this time," Miss Cirkl said late Saturday evening.

Question

My husband and I were married while he was in service. Shortly after our marriage he was killed in Viet Nam. The Army has paid his life insurance to his mother. Can they do this?

Answer

Your mother-in-law was evidently the beneficiary of her son's government insurance. A serviceman may name whomever he chooses to be the beneficiary of his SGLI (Servicemans Group Life Insurance). It is not required that this beneficiary be his wife.

You are entitled, as the serviceman's wife, to such things as his six months gratuity pay, DIC (Disability and Imdemnity Compensation) and his widow's Social Security death benefit allowance. He had the right to name a beneficiary to receive any pay due him at the time of his death as well as any accured leave or unpaid allowances. If he did not name a beneficiary these are paid to you. If your mother-in-law was dependent upon her son for her support she may receive DIC under certain income level situations. This in no way effects your DIC which is payable to you as long as you remain unmarried regardless of any other source of income you may have.

Being Tough Not Always Good

By JOE D. BATTEN

DES MOINES, Iowa — I shuddered as the man who picked me up at the airport hornblasted his way out of the parking lot and, with tires squealing, swung onto the highway.

"I'm sure glad to meet you, Batten," he bellowed. "We're all anxious to hear you speak at our company meeting tonight. I haven't read any of your books, but I know what you mean by 'tough-mindedness.' We need more gutty guys like you in business."

I cringed. Because of a book title, I'm prejudged a lot. And his prejudgment was disturbing.

"What does 'tough-minded' mean to you?" I ventured.

"Why, just what it says," he said, "running things the way they ought to be run, not tolerating weakness, not being soft."

As the white face of a driver we had cut off flashed past, he barked: "Just last week I fired a guy who talked back to me. My people have discovered I can really crack down. And," he added triumphantly, "even my family has learned how to shape up."

By the time we screeched to a stop in front of the hotel where I was to speak, it was a great relief to step into the hushed lobby. The president of the company to whose men I'd speak that night greeted me. We'd known each other for several years.

As we settled at a table in the dining room, he said, "I understand that Bill Maddon picked you up at the airport. He's one of our new managers. What did you think of him?"

"Well," I said, opening the menu, "he seems to be a hard worker."

"That's it," said the president leaning forward, "hard — too hard.

"In fact, he's one of the reasons we asked you to speak tonight. There are too many like him who confuse hardness with toughness. They're ambitious, eager to succeed, but..." He tapped the tablecloth with his spoon. "Last week he fired one of our best young men.

"It seems the boy suggested an operational change. Bill gave a flat no, and the trouble started when the young man said he thought he deserved a reason why."

Joe D. Batten

The president leaned back and studied his coffee. "Business today can't afford to keep men like Bill around."

That evening during my talk I couldn't help notice Bill in the front row when I told the men: "It takes no brains and guts to simply fire a person or chew him out when you have rank on him. But it takes courage, compassion and intelligence to look for his strengths and help him use them. That's tough-minded management."

Then I told about the tough boss I had some years ago. He gave me an assignment and a deadline. When the time was up, he called me in for a report.

I was almost petrified with fear when I entered his office, for the assignment was only half finished. I expected to be blasted — and fired — for he was an efficient no-nonsense guy.

As I stood there tautly, I told him my sad story. His penetrating eyes bored into me. Then his face softened. "Relax, Joe, relax," he said. "This isn't the first time someone hasn't finished a job on time. Let's go over it together and see where we stand."

As we talked I became really aware of his sharp mind as he pointed out my errors. But he didn't dwell on them. Instead he stressed my strong points in showing me how to complete the assignment. By the time the job was finished — quite successfully too — I loved the guy so much that if he had asked me to swim the English Channel, I would've headed for Dover.

The hard businessman is usually an insecure, self-centered frightened man. He hides within a hard shell. But a piece of granite is hard and can be fragmented — smashed by a hard blow — much like the rigid personality of one who has quit growing and changing. A piece of leather, however, may be struck just as hard, and you'll scarcely see a dent. It's pliable, flexible, tough.

The Carpenter from Nazareth showed His tough-mindedness when He dealt with evil and hypocrisy and the subtle temptations of His time. And especially when He accepted the cross. But mixed with tough-mindedness was His great warmth and gentleness which has not only won the love and devotion of millions, but also helped bring the world a new concept of the loving God.

Freeze-Thaw Cycle Creates Problem

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

County Road Engineer Ed Hall probably wouldn't be blamed at all if he crinkled his nose up at a hot three-course TV dinner set before him . . . he says he's "had enough freezing and thawing to last me a long, long time."

What Hall was referring to, of course, was not an overabundance of pop-in-the-oven meals, but, an unseasonable series of January and February thaws that, he says, have combined to create "my hardest winter since I've been here."

"We usually don't get the thaws until March," said Hall, a 15-year employe of the department. "Then, there's a little sun and wind to help dry the roads out. In January, we didn't have that."

Hall said he has traveled the entire 580-mile network of county roads this winter in an effort to determine where the greatest repair need was.

So what did he discover?

"The need was everywhere," Hall said. "However, more of the gravel roads are in the southeast section of the county, so we had to pay a little more attention to other sections. We always try to deal with the entire county as equally as we can."

Hall said the greatest problem regarding roads this winter was simply making them passable.

"In past years," Hall said, "we've been able to completely rely on our stockpile of creek gravel." He indicated the supply rapidly dwindled in the face of the unusually harsh winter weather this year. He added that the department also purchased approximately $10,000 worth of additional rock which, he said, "is the most we've ever been forced to buy during the winter as long as I can remember."

One coincidence on his side, Hall said, was that the hard weather and revenue sharing checks both hit the county at about the same time.

"It sure was good that we had extra money to help buy the gravel with," Hall said. "It would have been real bad if the county had to provide all the money themselves."

Hall's efforts to catch up on road maintenance haven't been hindered by freeze-thaw incidents in recent weeks, but that's not to say all his problems are gone.

Sixth and Harrison . . .
. . . what freezing, thaw does

"This rainy weather we've been having has still kept us from doing a lot of work," Hall said. "Also, we can't even get our dragline down to haul up any more creek gravel for our stockpiles."

However, he noted, "The rain is helpful in some ways because it packs the gravel down in some places and makes it more compact and firmer. In that case, we're benefitting, you might say."

While muddy roads have been Hall's chief headache this winter, City Street Superintendent Vernon Ditton had worries of a different nature, but for the same reason.

"We've had the largest number of cracks and pot holes I can remember this winter," he said. "But, I guess you've got to expect that when you have weather like we got this winter."

Ditton, supervisor of city street crews for 11 years, said approximately 3,500 ton of rock, at $1.34 a ton, have been used by his department this winter in addition to $750 worth of "satch rock," a specially-treated rock for street repair purposes.

"We've averaged distributing probably 10 ton of material a day from our patch mobile," Ditton added. This device, he explained, is a heating machine, pulled behind a truck, which deposits a formula of heated oil and rock to plug potholes, fill cracks, or to be used in other instances where Ditton feels an application is warranted.

"We're filling up the cracks now because we can't really seal them permanently until it gets back to zero (degrees) again," Ditton explained. "We'll have to wait till another cold day."

Both Hall and Ditton aren't in any hurry for that day to arrive. "I've had enough winter for a while," Hall said while eyeing the calendar in his office. "I just hope next year isn't as bad."

SFCC Needs Our Help!

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTERS OF THE JUNIOR COLLEGE DISTRICT:

March 28, 1973

Because, we realize how important a good education is to all of us, at our March meeting the members of the Board of Education of Sedalia School District No. 200 voted unanimously to endorse the State Fair Community College levy and to urge all citizens of the Junior College District to join with us in its support.

We do this because the levy to be voted on is for the same amount we are now paying, and is NOT an increase.

We believe that passage of the levy is necessary for these reasons:

+ Many of our graduates are taking advantage of programs at SFCC and its passage will continue to make opportunities available.
+ Many adults in the Junior College District are taking advantage of educational opportunities available to them.
+ It is to the best interest of all to keep State Fair Community College in a sound financial position so that its staff may continue to provide quality education programs.

It is important to remember State Fair Community College is not asking for an increase and that favorable action will allow its Board of Trustees to collect the same levy as in the past.

We invite everyone to join with us in voting FOR the State Fair Community College levy on Tuesday, April 3, 1973.

Seal Assures Safe Lawn Mower

By PETER WEAVER

If you're in the market for a new lawn mower this spring, be sure to look for a little, triangular seal somewhere on the handle or body.

Lawn mowers that carry this seal have passed a series of tests to meet new American National Standards Institute safety requirements. The seals are provided by the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute to all manufacturers who have voluntarily agreed to abide by the new standards.

The standards require all machines to have a back shield to keep feet from sliding under the mower, to have an extended discharge chute and a blade that won't shatter when a steel rod is poked into it at top speed.

For those who like to sleep in on weekends, the ANSI standards have a special blessing. All engines must have noise levels less than 92 decibels. While this is still far from a soft, purring sound, it's still a lot less noise than the old mowers used to make.

Even though many mowers will meet the new standards, it doesn't mean they'll all be the same. Some have special features which make them safer and more economical than others.

Most lawn mower repair pros claim a machine with a two-cycle engine is easier to maintain than a four-cycle engine. This is because two-cycle engines have only four or five moving parts compared to as many as 28 moving parts in four-cycle engines.

The four-cycle engine has a separate oil system (you mix oil in the gas for two-cycle engines) which requires regular oil changes. Most owners forget. When you mow on a slope, it's often hard for the oil to function properly in a four-cycle engine.

Whatever kind of engine you buy, make sure it gets the proper amount of fresh oil. Oil in a four-cycle engine should be changed at least twice a season and the filter in both four- and two-cycle engines should be regularly cleaned. For small yards, electric mowers are the easiest to maintain.

Here are some other features to look for in a new mower:

✔ Handles are somewhat safer if they're in a closed loop. Handles should be rigid and shouldn't bend much when you tilt the mower on its side.

✔ Wheels should be made of metal and have antifriction roller bearings. You can usually tell whether wheels have bearings by spinning them.

✔ Blades should be made of a single piece of metal. Discs that have four blades bolted onto it aren't as strong.

✔ Decks should have sturdy metal and be as deep as possible (four inches from top to bottom is ideal).

✔ Controls should be fixed solidly on the handle and should be easy to reach.

✔ Self-propelled mowers or garden tractor types should have a differential gear which can save on maintenance and repairs. Independent blade propulsion is also a good idea so you can disengage the blade while moving over rough spots.

✔ Dealers who have a good stock of parts and enough trained mechanics to service your machine can save money and aggravation later on.

Read the owner's manual. It tells, for example, whether you can use low-lead or no-lead gasoline. Many engines must still use regular leaded gasoline to keep from burning out.

When operating your mower, try to cut the speed back one-third or so. You may have to walk a little slower, but you'll cut down on engine wear, gasoline use and noise.

Red Spot Myth Broken

By S. W. Loerke

It was a shock to hear that the big red spot on the planet Jupiter that has been puzzling all of us since 1831 may be organic dye. In fact, the astronomers say that Jupiter's entire atmosphere could be composed largely of red dye.

Naturally, one's thoughts rush immediately to the appearance of the (possible) inhabitants of Jupiter and their (possible) possessions, not to mention their (possible) vegetation. With our American heritage, it is easy enough to evoke the picture of a red man, but the mind boggles at the thought of a red elephant. We can only hope that they don't play golf, because just to imagine a red greens makes my eyes hurt. Very probably the Jupiterians have developed tough red eyes — or better still, just one tough red eye. I like to think too that some Jupiterian genius long since invented dark glasses that are impervious to red dye.

As we all know, a man weighing 150 pounds on earth would weigh 396 pounds on Jupiter. This goes for women too. It doesn't take much effort to get a pretty vivid idea of the appearance of the population. We have a lot to go on. Admittedly, we don't know what color the babies are at birth but in that atmosphere it shouldn't take long to get dyed.

We can be fairly certain that a mature Jupiterian is bright red, bulky with his roughly 400 pounds of weight, and has one or possibly two tough red eyes hidden by dark glasses (or one dark glass). He must have ears (or ear) to hold up the glasses. This is all we can be sure of as far as physical attributes go. With twelve moons in his sky, he is probably romantic and might be erratic. Since Jupiter's day is only 9 hours and 55 minutes instead of a reasonable 24, we can assume he works very short hours so (through evolution) is lazy. His year being 12 years longer than ours, an ancient Jupiterian would be only eight years old.

I have a lot of new worries about our astronauts. The main question NASA is considering at present is will the dye wash off? It hardly seems fair to ask men who, heaven knows, have enough problems already, to go through life with intense scarlet complexions from head to toe simply because they made a trip to Jupiter. The astronomers have not yet been able to analyze the dye. In the meantime, NASA is playing around with the idea of a kind of porous plastic coating that can be sprayed on the astronauts to protect them.

Another question is about those large, very youthful, red women who have been exposed to the romantic rays of twelve moons throughout their history. Few men can resist flaming red hair and most of our astronauts are married.

This red dye is posing so many problems that, in my opinion, we should forget Jupiter for the time being and concentrate on Saturn and some of those smaller, easier planets. I suggest that we leave Jupiter to the Russians. Let them go up and meet the fat, red, tough-eyed, be-spectacled, romantic, erratic, lazy, eight-year old (at most) Jupiterians.

Size and Measures A Puzzle For Many

By JOHN BAILEY

A lot of people have trouble with weights and measures. For instance, some people can't remember that there are five-and-one-half yards in a rod, that twenty quires equal one ream, or that thirty-six bushels equal one chaldron. Some people have three or four chaldron and don't even realize it.

Most people don't know for sure what a cwt is, or how many cwts there are in a ton. They know that one hundred and thirty five pecks will equal a dekaliter, naturally, but they can't remember how many dekaliters there are in a hektoliter. Suppose they needed that information in a hurry?

Most people have never heard of a pwt. A pwt is very important. A jeweller has to know that you need twenty of them before you have an ounce. He has to memorize that 20 pwts equal 1 ounce.

I sympathize with him. All my life I have been plagued by a tendency to confuse a dram with a drachma. I once thought a drachma was a camel.

In Arabia they have a weight called the farsalah, which varied between thirty-three and thirty-five pounds, depending on how you feel. Very odd. The Arabians also use a system in which the foot is the same length as ours, but the yard is half an inch shorter.

The ordinary businessman seldom has any use for the ratti. But if you happen to receive a shipment from India it's good to know that it takes four dhans to make a ratti, and that a dhan equals four panks.

So, if you have received any dhans lately that weighed only three panks you are missing a pank and there is monkey business somewhere.

Q — I want to know why Pettis County firemen are allowed to waste water washing down Main Street? I was driving down the street recently and saw a fireman hosing down the street. About an hour later, while I drove by again, the fireman was still there, having used hundreds of gallons of water. — G. J.

A — Pettis County Fire Chief Robert Sisemore said you probably saw one of the firemen washing the dirt and gravel off the station's driveway. He said the road leading up to the driveway is covered by gravel road, and consequently, the driveway is hosed off frequently.

"We've never washed down Main Street," Sisemore said. He said the clean-up job never lasts as long as an hour, and more than likely, the fireman you saw wasn't there the whole time.

Q — Why does Bill Hall, Sedalia economic development director, continue to say that no Missouri city has ever had to pay off industrial obligation bonds because tenants failed to meet their obligation? Carrollton, site of a cookie plant, is currently doing just that after passing the bond issue last summer. — R. M.

A — Hall said when he made the statement in February he was not aware of the Carrollton problem. He said his information was based on facts supplied by the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, and no mention was made of the situation in Carrollton.

Hall said he only recently learned that Carrollton is paying off its industrial obligation bonds because the tenants failed to meet the obligation. The city's first payment reportedly was made in March, he added. Hall said the problem in Carrollton is "very complex," and the city's difficulties "with proper investigation would never have happened."

Q — Why can't the alley between Quincy and Park, parallel to Sixth and Seventh, be repaired and regulated to eliminate the current refuse problem? — F. H.

A — City Engineer Robert Cunningham said he would investigate your concern over the reported disrepair of the alley. The refuse problem could be lessened if all the residents complied with the city ordinance and placed their trash in 30-gallon containers covered with lids, he said.

Q — Why are cars allowed to park on both sides of east 24th in the 100 block? There are used or junk cars parked partially on the road on either side most of the time. — Mrs. W.L.

A — Police Chief William Miller said the owner of the junk cars is violating a city ordinance prohibiting such activity. Miller said the Police Department will investigate the situation and order the removal of the cars, if necessary.

If the owner fails to comply, Miller said, the cars will be towed away by the city at the owner's expense.

Concert Is Planned at Sudent Union

The Fine Arts division of State Fair Community College will present the fourth in a series of afternoon concerts at 3 p.m. next Sunday in the Student Union. The featured artist will be Mrs. Anne Fisher Manahan, a Columbia, Mo., pianist.

She later attended the Juilliard School of Music in New York City, where she studied with Lonny Epstein and Josef Raieff. She received both her bachelor's and master's degrees there.

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SWEET SPRINGS — American Legion Post 279 here is now officially clear of all debts, it was reported Thursday. During an official ceremony this week, Seventh District Commander Clyde Hartmann and Charley Brown, Columbia, deputy sergeant-at-arms, burned a note indicated the Post's debts had been paid.

In 1968 members of the post began a building project with only $1,303 in the bank. Five years later, a new, $60,000 facility was completed and paid for.

The meeting, which also commemorated the Post's 54th anniversary, was attended by two charter members, Irvin Hoffman and Ed Eckhoff. Guests attending the affair came from Blackburn, Concordia, Cole Camp, Higginsville, Marshall, Slater and Sweet Springs.

County Judges Will Study Reassessment

The three Pettis County Court judges will get a first-hand look at the results of a recent reassessment of Johnson County when they travel to Warrensburg Monday morning, Presiding Judge Harry Walch said Friday.

The judges will confer with the Johnson County Court on the results of their recently-completed reassessment.

Hunnicutt and Associates, valuation engineering consultants, St. Petersburg, Fla., performed the reassessment in Johnson County. The firm is being considered by the county court here to reassess Pettis County.

Walch said Friday that of the two other valuation firms being considered for the project, the one in Philadelphia indicated that it was too busy and would not bid on the project. The other firm, based in Cincinnati, has not yet told the court whether it will bid on the project.

The county court hopes to start the reassessment of the county by July.

The costs of the reassessment will be split between Sedalia and the county.

Bunker Is Resigning His Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ellsworth Bunker, who has served as ambassador to South Vietnam, is resigning and will be succeeded by career diplomat Graham A. Martin, the White House has announced.

The White House Friday announced the resignation of Bunker, who has been at Saigon for six years, and the pending appointment of Martin, former ambassador to Thailand, Italy and other countries.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said that Nixon accepted Bunker's resignation with "deepest personal regret" and voiced "deep gratitude" for his "superior service to his country and the cause of peace in Indochina."

Ziegler said Bunker, 78, will take on "other duties" for the President, to be announced in the "relatively near future." This may include service as a special adviser on Indochina affairs.

Bunker is returning to the United States and will participate in forthcoming talks between Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu at the western White House in San Clemente, Calif., Ziegler said.

Before Saigon, Bunker had a long foreign service career as ambassador to several nations, including Italy and Argentina.

Martin, 60-year-old native of Mars Hill., N.C., held several diplomatic posts before his 1963-67 tour as ambassador to Thailand.

During his four years at Bangkok he negotiated with leaders of the Thai government for the use of Royal Thai air bases by U.S. bombers, at a time when Thailand was reluctant to even acknowledge the presence of the U.S. planes.

While in Thailand, Martin was the American representative to the Council of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the U.S. representative on the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia dn the Far East.

'Coon's Nose Is Blamed For Outage

FREDERICKTOWN, Mo. (AP) — A raccoon who survived to meddle again was blamed for a power outage darkening this city of 3,800 in southeastern Missouri for 55 minutes Friday night.

Two repairmen for the City Light and Power Co. said the animal climbed a utility pole, stuck its nose in a wire and blew a transformer which arced out with a brilliant, blue flash.

The raccoon, extricated from the pole by the repairmen, scampered away apparently none the worse for the wear except for a burn on its nose. It had survived 34,500 volts of electrical power.

Law Prevents Cash Benefits

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal law weights heavily on the mind of Mrs. Betty Jones, 37, who was left bedfast last month by a stroke that paralized her left side.

The law says she must wait five months after the stroke before drawing Social Security benefits.

Nine children, from infancy to 17 years old, depend on her and her $130 monthly welfare check. Three of the children are hers, four are her younger brothers and sisters, and two are grandchildren.

The family pays $95 monthly rent, and has $35 for utility bills, food and clothing. Neighbors have helped, aid also has come from the Order of the Eastern Star, the Metropolitan Lutheran Ministry and a welfare caseworker. But it's slim pickings for the family.

Herold Meyer, of the Social Security Administration's regional office, said it's unfortunate that the law requires a waiting period for benefits, "But there is really no other way to determine whether there are permanent injuries."

Meyer explained that a dentist who sprains a wrist is disabled, but in a few weeks he will be able to work again.

Pipeline Explosion Fatal to 5 Workers

LOERRACH, Germany (AP) — Five construction workers were killed and one was missing, presumed dead, when a gas pipeline near this Black Forest town exploded late Friday night, police reported.

The pressurized gas blew out a lock and threw the construction crew up to 30 yards away, police said. Four other men were injured slightly in the blast and were released after hospital treatment.

Ex-POW's Speak Out

Humiliation Cause of Torture

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Several former American prisoners of war say the North Vietnamese used torture not only as a means of obtaining military information from their captives but also to humiliate them.

"They did everything they could to humiliate a man. If someone passed out, they might laugh at it. They obviously enjoyed the degradation," Air Force Lt. Col. Richard P. Keirn said in an interview Friday at his Tampa, Fla., home.

"They were inferior, and they realized it. This was one reason they beat us so. They wanted us humiliated before them," said Air Force Major Thomas E. Collins III of Clinton, Miss.

Collins told a Jackson, Miss., news conference "to my knowledge, every man in North Vietnam was mistreated" prior to 1969, when he said conditions improved. Keirn also was among the prisoners taken before 1969.

Additional details of how Americans survived the years in the camps continued to flow Friday from news conferences and interviews held across the country by repatriated prisoners.

Navy Cmdr. Charles Nels Tanner, for example, said he was kept in solitary confinement for three years and tortured to provide confessions of war guilt. Tanner showed newsmen in Covington, Ky., the scars left on his wrists by his captors' ropes.

An American civilian prisoner of war said Saturday on his arrival in the Philippines that he was tied for 2½ years in stocks and for 3½ years was chained so that he could not stand up.

Ernest C. Brace — a 41-year-old, rugged ex-Marine — told newsmen at Clark Air Base that his punishment for trying to run away also included being buried up to his neck in a hole for a week.

Keirn, a career pilot shot down in July 1965, spent 7½ years in Hanoi, first at the prison dubbed the Hanoi Hilton and later at the one called The Zoo.

"They broke me many times," he said. "I'm no hero. A man who says they can't get him to do what they want is lying. A person can take only so much."

Meanwhile, Melvin R. Laird, former secretary of defense, told newsmen in Milwaukee, Wis., that the Pentagon knew U.S. POWs had been tortured but decided to remain silent rather than cause anguish for POWs' relatives.

Laird said six POWs freed while he was a member of the administration said they were tortured by their captors seeking antiwar statements.

Spending Cut By Greeks Is Announced

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek government announced Saturday a spending cut and other economic measures to combat inflation.

Deputy Premier Nicholas Makarezos said public expenditures would be reduced by about $333 million but the industrial, agricultural and tourist sectors would be exempted from the reduction in public investments.

The measures include increases in the real estate transfer tax and in the building tax.

The deputy premier also stated there would be a tightening of the government attitude toward commodity price increases.

A decree pegging down prices has been in effect since 1971; but since last December, appeals for price increases have been accepted. Out of 200 submitted so far, half have been approved.

Makarezos said that, for the time being, wages and salaries would not be frozen. A request by the Greek General Confederation of Labor for a 20 per cent increase in wages is under consideration.

Knob Noster Candidates Are Announced

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KNOB NOSTER — A mayor, city marshall, city collector and three aldermen will be elected Tuesday by voters here.

Contests this year are in the race for city marshall and first and second ward aldermen. In the contest for marshall, Charles Norman opposes Richard Olds. First Ward councilmen candidates are Adams Judd, incumbent, and Jack Ferraer with Don Gunter and Jim Hayes trying for the Second Ward council seat.

Don Bruns is unopposed in his bid for mayor. Also unopposed are city collector candidate Mrs. Alice Cowan and Tom Charrette, Third Ward candidate for the city council.

In addition, two special ballots to continue current tax levies will be voted on. One ballot concerns a 25 cent levy for general municipal purposes and street repair. The second calls for the continuance of a 5 cent levy to finance the city fire department.

Voting will be held at city hall here.

Report critical of vo-tech education

Most comments on that recent report by a Department of Health, Education and Welfare task force—"Work in America"—have centered on its examination of the alleged gripes of blue- and white-collar workers.

Another section of the report, however, both attacks the current federal emphasis on career education and "debunks high school vocational education in general," points out The Compass, the journal of the Association of Independent Colleges and Schools.

Vocational education, which may cost up to 75 per cent more than other high school curricula, has very little use, argues the task force.

Only a small proportion of beginning jobs for high school graduates requires the specific training and skills offered by vocational education, and vocational graduates, more often than not, take jobs for which they were not trained.

Also, neither their unemployment records nor their pay are better than most other high school graduates.

If work skills are learned best on the job or in post-secondary programs, what role is left for occupational training in high schools? asks The Compass.

For one thing, suggests the HEW task force, secondary schools can prepare young people "for the transition from dependency to self-support" and dispel some of the current "unreal expectations" about work.

General education for work should emphasize basic skills and promote the capacity for working with other people.

"Information-rich" alternatives would include courses in such areas as institutional management and self-employment.

"Action-rich" alternatives might modify vocational offerings into practical courses available to all students — typing, mechanics, crafts and domestic skills, for example.

Other possibilities include the simulation of work environments, expansion of cooperative education and more effective career counseling.

Another important reform would be "to draw educators out of the schools, boards of education and offices of education" and periodically place them into the world of work—which is sometimes known as the school of hard knocks. (NEA)

Phasing out OEO is proving costly

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Tough-talking Howard Phillips, brought in to dismantle the Office of Economic Opportunity, is actually hiring more than 300 new employes at a cost to the taxpayers of $1 million.

Many are right-wing cronies, with his same Young Americans for Freedom background, who are now pulling down fancy, $100-a-day wages. Others are refugees from the Committee to Re-Elect the President who had been looking for some way to tap the GOP money machine.

Even as Phillips was explaining to Congress how much he is doing to save money by closing off programs for the poor and firing veteran anti-poverty workers, he asked the Civil Service Commission to let him hire more employes. Estimates from administration budget officials are that Phillips' final hiring spree will cost the government $1 million by the time he shuts down the OEO on June 30.

What the splurge amounts to is hiring people to fire people, a clear violation of the spirit and perhaps the letter of Civil Service regulations.

The erratic Phillips has even given some of his favorites temporary promotions and managerial jobs so they can collect higher wages when OEO finally closes and they move on to claim other federal jobs available to deserving Republicans. Almost as incredibly, Phillips is actually providing some of his new hands with shiny new furniture from the General Services Administration, at still more cost to the taxpayers.

Asked about Phillips' odd way of closing down the OEO, a spokesman said OEO was short of clerical help and needed experts to make sure employment rights were protected and to see that the closedown took place "in an orderly manner."

Footnote: Phillips has also found enough money to buy 30 American flags and stands for his patriotic lieutenants at a cost of more than $50 each. A spokesman said they were bought to counter anti-Nixon, "anti-American" posters at OEO headquarters.

The Ocean Mammals Act is supposed to protect our disappearing seals, whales and other sea animals from extinction. Yet the loopholes in the law are allowing commercial groups to capture more of the mammals than was possible before the law was passed last year.

The largest loophole recognizes "economic hardship" as an excuse for raiding the deep. But "economic hardship," as defined by the Commerce Department, has become so broad that one oceanarium will haul off 82 ocean mammals, including four rare killer whales, from Puget Sound on the Washington coast this year.

Under state law, no ocean mammals were removed from the sound for commercial purposes last year. But the state statute has now been superseded by the new federal law, with its "economic hardship" clause.

The raid on Puget Sound's sea life has now been made possible by an "economic hardship" permit granted to Ocean World. This is a California-based oceanarium, which pleaded with the Commerce Department that it had just built a $17 million facility in Florida and had no ocean mammals to fill it.

Ocean World, of course, is a private operation and will charge admission to see these natural wonders. But the soft-hearted Commerce Department granted the hardship request.

Other companies have now rushed in with their hardship appeals and conservationists fear West Coast waters will be picked clean of seals and whales. The removal of large numbers, it is known, can damage the reproductive habits of those left behind.

Because no one knows the precise effect of the commercial raids on mammal life or, for that matter, how many killer whales are left in the world, conservationists have asked the Commerce Department to conduct research into the ocean mammal question.

The department, however, has shown no interest in how the mammals affect the ocean ecosystem. Rather, it is studying, as its only research, how to keep the sea animals alive after they are captured.

The Commerce Department, apparently, is more interested in helping oceanariums turn a profit than in protecting a natural resource.

Footnote: A spokesman explained that the hardship clause was intended to protect commercial outfits that had laid out investments in sea life exhibits before the law went into effect. The clause, he said, will automatically expire in 1974.

The "Tax Avoider of the Week," chosen for us by ex-Sen. Fred Harris' Tax Action Campaign, is the giant, multi-national meat combine, Swift & Co.

For the three-year period ending in 1971, Swift paid an effective tax rate of 20.5 per cent on profits in excess of $140 million at a time when the statutory corporate tax rate was 48 per cent. Harris' accountant, who examined the tax records for us, explained Swift was able to reduce its tax liability through subsidiaries with oil and real estate write-offs.

A corporate spokesman complained to us that "the figures quoted included Swift's worldwide pretax income and related this to current U. S. taxes only." The company paid about $13 million in foreign taxes during the three-year period, he said.

Under U. S. tax laws, however, foreign profits are taxable income, with foreign taxes deductible.

No equal opportunity in Mafia

WASHINGTON — Every time a newspaperman does a piece on the Mafia, he hears from hundreds of law-abiding Italian-Americans who are angered that only Italian names were used in the article. As one lady wrote to me after a piece I did on the Mafia's bitterness at not getting any royalties from "The Godfather": "I am sick and tired of this whole degrading, damaging stereotype that writers such as you have perpetrated on the Italian-American. It is insulting, defamatory and downright cheap."

Buchwald

Now the main problem for writers when discussing the Mafia is that while all Italian-Americans are not members of the Mafia, ALL members of the Mafia are Italian. The anger of the decent, hard-working Italians should be directed against the Mafia and not the people who write about them.

The solution to the problem, as I see it, is that the Mafia has to open its membership to other ethnic groups regardless of sex, creed, religion or color.

For as long as the Mafia has been operating in the United States, it has been lily-white and open only to males of Italian extraction. This not only is un-American but is in violation of the federal law.

If the Mafia were just a social club, they would have every right to say who should and should not belong. But it is a proved fact that the Mafia is engaged in interstate commerce and is a profit-making organization dealing with the public.

It is time the members of the syndicate open their doors to women and blacks and people of Irish, Jewish, Polish and German descent.

According to all statistics, the Mafia runs the biggest business in the United States. If this is so, then they should be subject to the Equal Opportunities Act.

The Mafia has maintained that they could not run their enterprises except with Italian help. This is a 19th-century idea which has been passed down to the present Mafia families. They are trying to maintain an aura of mystery around the syndicate. They are keeping out people who are as well qualified, if not better, to do anything that a member of the Cosa Nostra could do.

What is the big deal about running gambling and numbers rackets, white-slavery rings and drug syndicates? You don't even need a college education to do most of the jobs that the Mafia requires of its members.

By opening the Mafia to non-Italian blood, I honestly believe the Mafia would be doing themselves a great service. They would get fresh ideas, inspired leadership and youthful vigor that the organization so badly needs.

Why does a godfather always have to be the head of a Mafia family? What would be wrong with having a godmother?

The Mafia will tell you, "This is the way we've always done it."

But times are changing. Everyone wants and deserves a piece of the action. There is no room any more in this country for an underworld organization that discriminates against a person because he is not of Italian origin.

Although the Mafia is probably the greatest example of free enterprise in this country, I think it's time for the government to step in and say, "If you won't hire women, blacks, Mexicans, Indians or WASPs, then we're going to close you down. That is the law of the land."

Meat prices and farming

Women, not men, are complaining about prices of GOOD meat. Why farmers keep trying to defend themselves for the prices I can't understand.

These same people buy clothing, especially children's clothing, at prices you wouldn't believe. Everything — sheets, curtains — are twice the price we paid only a couple of years ago. Cereal, washing powder too.

Why complain about one thing so important to the health of the American public — meat ? To provide meat today is an expensive business for the farmer. Getting a vet to the farm today is almost as expensive as sending someone to the hospital.

Our farm is 200 acres, so we have to specialize. We sell breeding stock. Many 4-H and FFA boys and girls get their start in hogs or cattle here. It is disheartening for them and for us when they receive so little profit after paying their expenses — bedding, feed entry fees and other expenses. Only a few decide it is worth the struggle to stay on the farm.

Believe me, this is heartbreaking for lots of farmers who need their sons to help keep their land profitable.

Don't forget meat is very necessary to health and has not exceeded the rise in price more than anything else. It was only slower in starting to rise. If you buy cookies you ought to understand that some things are even higher than meat, and not nearly so good for you.

Caroline Richings (Bernard), the great prima donna, with her troupe, entitled "Ye Olde Foks," will appear at Smith's Hall on Wednesday evening. Lovers of good music (interspersed with comicalities) will heartily enjoy the entertainment given by this troupe.

Each new day

How great that I once more can see
The leaves, soft green, budding on the tree,
That I can hear the birds as they sing,
That I can feel the magic of God's spring,
How wonderful that I am still aware
Of life awakening 'round me everywhere,
The glistening raindrops on my window pane
And I can smell the freshness of the rain,
Too, there are days with skies very blue
And in my house I see the sun peek through,
I'm grateful that I still can climb my stairs
For there are some I know who can't climb theirs,
How glad I am, oh God, that I am free
In my own simple way to worship thee,
That I am free to listen and to talk,
That I am free to laugh and take a walk,
That soon I'll spend so many happy hours
There in my garden with your lovely flowers,
That I possess no prejudice or hate,
No bitterness, no stress to agitate,
I'm only grateful for the gifts you give
The kind of life that I'm content to live
The beauty that surrounds me everywhere,
I question not, because I know you're there
And as so many blessings now I weigh
I'm thankful for each one and each new day.

Battle of checkout counter

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — The battle of the checkout counter has almost reached the bombing stage. The price of food has become the chief topic of conversation even among the most highbrow intellectuals. It is no longer small talk to discuss the roast beef rebellion or that hamburgers, franks, and even beef liver are rationed by the housewife. Protein foods in other varieties are substituted — macroni and cheese, spaghetti with cheese and tomato sauce (sans meatballs), soups seasoned with bouillon cubes instead of meat stock are finding their place at the table, and eggs appear in every variety.

Health food stores are increasing and the new devotees are growing fond of soybeans, yogurts, cornmeal fresh from the mill and other products their grandmothers used as everyday diets.

Housewives come home with the weekly market bags furious with how little they got for their food money. One remarked that the fathers in the family should go to the supermarket and stand in line at the checkout counter with their wallets full of bills; they would soon discover that the wallet had shrunk. They would gang up and protest to the economic specialists.

A letter to the editor in a daily newspaper chastised Virginia Knauer, the President's consumer adviser, for admonishing the beseiged housewives for being the cause of the high prices. She gives advice and suggestions that every woman who feeds and clothes a family already knows. Who reads every advertisement in the local papers on the food page and collects every coupon that promises a few cents saved? The woman who feeds her family. Virginia may read them, but does she put them on the President's desk? Is she up on Capitol Hill lobbying like any other politician against the abuses that affect the grocery bills?

Eating tunafish casserole or salad has taken the place of the fish even for the dedicated fish eaters, for even the price of fish in a city and suburban market has gone sky high.

A young mother with two children remarked, "I am going to sell our seashore house before the crash, because I cannot afford to use it even for a brief vacation, and renting it requires constant repairs." Crash — what does she mean? Is doomsday approaching on Wall Street, somewhere, or everywhere?

Doomsday is the subject of a current exhibition at the University of Maryland. Art based on the apocalyptic visions of St. John the Divine, the last book of the New Testament, depicts all the horrors, plagues, the Four Horsemen, the bottomless pit, the snakes and wild beasts. Some of the paintings suggest sections of Michaelangelo's ceiling in the Sistine Chapel.

But like the ceiling, the Lamb of God is there among the paintings as well as the angels, the madonna on the crescent moon and the Golden City itself. Even in the doomsday exhibit one finds the glittering hope.

Amidst all the gloomy surroundings of food prices, maligned press, political scandals, one can escape occasionally because spring is here. Nature has come alive again, the annual reminder of new birth. As Easter approaches, we know that we must live through Holy Week with its celebration of the Last Supper and the agony of the cross on Good Friday, but then the dawn of Easter arrives with its message of eternal life. Christians throughout the world will hear the repeated music of Handel's Messiah — "I know that my Redeemer liveth, and because he lives, I too shall live."

Opening lead—♣ 2

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We wind up our IMP match with a hand that illustrates both luck and skill. At one table North decided to open with an irregular three-diamond call. Irregular because his hand was too good.

East refused to be shut out and bid three spades which West raised to four. Four spades was not an unreasonable contract for the East-West cards, but with the bad spade break and the misplaced king of clubs East had to play carefully to get out for two down.

This might not have been a bad result. At the other table North opened one diamond and South arrived at three no-trump on the bidding shown in the box.

West doubled and if the defense had attacked spades South might well have brought home nine tricks.

However, West didn't lead a spade. Obviously, East didn't have much strength for his vulnerable overcall. Hence, he almost surely held a two suiter.

What was his second suit? It couldn't be hearts because with a spade-heart two-suiter East would have shown this by a Michaels cue bid. Hence, his second suit was clubs.

West opened the deuce of clubs. East took his ace and returned the suit. After this start all South could do was to take his king of clubs and dummy's six diamonds.

People of Hanoi Given New Drive and Hope for a Better Future

EDITOR'S NOTE — For 10 years Horst Faas was an AP photographer of the war in South Vietnam. He took time out last summer for a brief trip to China. This month he had a chance to go into North Vietnam while American prisoners of war were liberated. Here is his report on life in Hanoi.

HANOI (AP) — Hard manual labor, a regimented existence, low salaries and benefits just sufficient so one can exist and work more, almost no luxuries, few and simple pleasures—these have been features of the common man's quality of life in Hanoi for a generation.

But the knowledge that peace may really have come and may even last seems to have given the people of Hanoi new drive and hope for a better future.

Longtime foreign residents observe a change since Hanoi's citizens were told that the Paris agreements can secure peace and are the greatest achievement of their long hardships. The man in the street appears relaxed, friendly, easy with a joke, ready for chitchat with visiting Americans and eager to work harder to build a better life, this time for himself.

He is also determined to amuse himself more in the beer gardens, theaters and parks—something frowned on in the austerity years of total war.

The human ants that made it possible to survive America's air war and at the same time wage war in South Vietnam turn out to be real humans after all—now that they hope they are laboring to improve their own lot and the end of the war's hardships is in sight.

It is almost like a new beginning, as in 1954, when the North Vietnamese took over an undeveloped, bankrupt and war-battered country from the French.

North Vietnam's self-admitted backwardness and dire economic situation are not a result only of American bombings and the bloodletting in the war in South Vietnam, where thousands of North Vietnamese soldiers died.

"For 14 years we had to be vigilant and prepared for war," says the mayor of Hanoi, Tran Duy Hung.

War had priority over all other aspects of life in North Vietnam. Progress that was made, the industries that were built, the roads and rails, much-improved educational systems, increased agricultural production—all this indirectly served the war effort. It was the war, the needs of the front line and the American bombing that slowed or stopped development.

Now, officials say, reconstruction, national planning for a peace economy and industrial and agricultural development are the new priorities—assuming that peace lasts. The man in the street keeps his fingers crossed because this is his first chance in a lifetime for a normal life.

The municipality of Hanoi has a population of slightly more than 1.2 million, with 750,000 living in four central districts. The population has almost tripled since the French days. The geography of Hanoi has doubled.

Despite all this, Hanoi has the character of a half-French, half-Oriental provincial city, left behind in the 1930s. Ordinary people live in old, neglected buildings along tree-lined streets left from the French days in the heart of Hanoi or in drab apartment blocks of three or four stories, mostly built during the late 1950s in new suburbs.

The administration of Hanoi and North Vietnam's government are established in well-kept but almost unchanged stately colonial buildings and palaces that were used by the French colonial administration. High-ranking visitors are housed in the former palace of the French governor of Tonkin, now North Vietnam.

Small and medium-size industrial enterprises are scattered throughout Hanoi, mainly in the suburbs. The mayor says the more than 200 factories in the area produce one-third of North Vietnam's industrial output.

Much of this industry was dispersed during the air war. Workers left the city. But since only a few industrial plants were destroyed, most evacuated workers and industries are operating back in Hanoi.

According to the mayor, one confectionary factory was destroyed, a textile plant was heavily damaged, a cigarette factory was partly destroyed. Several repair yards, especially the railroad repair yard, were destroyed and the power station was damaged, but they already have been fully repaired.

Officials admit that no modern, fully mechanized or computerized industry exists in Hanoi.

"We still have to make use of all resources we have, manual work, old machinery from the French days and new machinery," one official said.

Another official, discussing what form of aid the United States might give, said, "What we want are American techniques. We want our technicians to go there and study them."

Lack of tools and machinery means back-breaking labor for the Hanoi worker. Timber and bamboo are pulled in carts with wooden wheels to reconstruction sites in bombed areas.

A large crate, obviously too heavy to be loaded on an ox or man-pulled cart, is slowly moved downtown on two rolling wooden logs. It took an hour to move it two blocks.

Chunks of ice are delivered to a meat shop cooperative in a bicycle taxi that must have been operating in colonial days. Women carry heavy loads of vegetables, fruit and other foodstuffs to central downtown markets in large baskets suspended from shoulder poles.

Industrial produce, plastic goods, crates, paper products, machinery, even railway tracks are transported in oxcarts, pedicabs or hand carts.

At the sites of massive bomb damage to civilian areas in Hanoi—the Kham Thien district and the Bach Nai hospital—no construction machinery is in sight. All work is by hand.

Before delivery of new bricks to these construction sites, women laborers, some teen-agers and a few men are clawing through the debris to collect bricks that can be salvaged for future construction.

Men and women seem to have achieved full equality in hard labor. They get the same wages for the obligatory 48-hour, Sunday's off, week. The urgent priority is construction of temporary housing for those who lost their homes in the December air raids and repair of damaged industries. Many workers volunteer for overtime and extra work on Sundays, according to local officials.

Just getting to work in Hanoi is exhausting. Almost all workers, clerks and even officials and soldiers commute on bicycles. Around 6 a.m., there is an almost noiseless flow of hurrying bicyclists and three-wheeled pedicabs, often five abreast, in the dimly lit street below the window of the Peace Hotel, where foreigners stay.

Occasionally a Chinese or Russian-made truck equipped with noisier horns than any Western vehicles, blasts the eerie silence and honks its way angrily through the bicycle crowd. The city has no privately owned passenger cars or trucks. The only traffic jams occur when a vehicle breaks down on the 1½-mile bridge across the Red River.

The two-lanes-plus railroad bridge was built at the turn of the century and proves insufficient even for North Vietnam's needs: one broken-down car can stop traffic flow for hours.

The flow of bicycles never lets up, except for a three-hour lunch and siesta period and after 10 p.m., when Hanoi's streets are deserted. There must be more bicycles per capita in Hanoi than in any other city in the world, even the bike-riding European countries like Holland and Scandinavia, or China, where public transport is more evident.

In downtown Hanoi old wooden street cars have rambled on since the French days. A ride costs less than a cent, and police don't mind when kids take a free hitch by hanging on to the back.

Camouflage-painted buses that survived the war, when they had to ferry troops, war materials and evacuees, have come back to the city and bring people back and forth to the suburbs.

But the bike remains the means of transport in Hanoi and possibly the most valuable possession of a Hanoi resident. A bike costs 80 dong, or $22, six weeks' income at the average worker's salary of 50 dong a month.

Rationing and government controls keep down rents and prices of basic foodstuffs like meat, sugar rice and vegetables. Meat and sugar are rationed. The quantity and variety of foodstuffs available in China are not seen here.

Still, nobody in Hanoi seems to starve. Children show no signs of malnutrition.

Meals in restaurants are very expensive if one is paid a North Vietnamese salary. A meal of four local dishes plus soup in a better downtown restaurant costs 12 dong.

Still, big parties gather around round tables to dig with chopsticks into many-course meals and gulp down a variety of rice wines and sweet liqueurs. Often the diners are a group of workers spending bonus money for good work.

More fitting for the ordinary Hanoi pocketbook is a beer garden on Hoa Kiem Lake, with wooden tables under shady trees and kegs of draft beer, not unlike a Bavarian beer garden.

A big glass of beer sells for three hao, about eight cents. Ten Hao make a dong.

People these days get happily sloshed early in the afternoon and nobody minds when a father shares a pint with his 1-year-old baby boy, who squeals happily after a few sips.

Women and old men squat around the beer garden selling sweets and Dien Bien cigarettes in a package picturing the victorious flag raising at Dien Bien Phu.

Those who cannot afford beer sit on the many park benches and gaze over the calm Hoan Kiem Lake at the multitiered century-old pagoda on a small island in the lake.

Young men like to play table tennis on the stone plate tables in the park. Broken bricks replace the unavailable net.

For those who cannot buy Vietnam's official Nahn Dan newspaper, large blackboards at newstands give the latest news. In one week the release of American POWs made it three times as the No. 2 news item.

What North Vietnam has to offer in consumer goods can be seen in one large, cavernous, dimly lit department store.

Compared with the average North Vietnamese income of $15-21 a month, prices are very high for anything that has a touch of luxury, like simple plastic toys, toilet articles, colorful textiles.

A quilted jacket costs about one week's salary. Some articles, like plastic flowers, sell rapidly.

Hanoi knows no advertising, there are no neon lights and only a few shop windows are lit in the early hours of the evening.

Sidewalk merchants bring bustling life to shopping streets. At night they place oil lamps beside their meager display of goods. These are the leftovers of private enterprise. All other shops are organized in cooperatives or partly owned by the state.

One kid sells ice cream, another buttons, combs, cheap rings and patches of cloth. Many goods are second-and third-hand, carefully repaired. Nothing seems to be thrown away.

Among shopping housewives are women soldiers of the Peoples Liberation Army and local militia, dressed in baggy jacket and pants and the omnipresent pith helmet — but not without female charm. Many wear their hair to the waist, woven into two braids or tied with a rubberband at the neck.

Women wear no cosmetics. The classic Vietnamese dress, the ao dai with its pantaloon pants and tight-fitting, split-side robe, has disappeared from the street scene.

In Hanoi's great theater the favorite songstresses wear tight-fitting, glittering ao dais when they sing of love between the soldier in the North and his girl on the southern side of the demilitarized zone.

There is no night life or television. People have to get up early. Work begins at 6:30 a.m., with a break at 11 a.m. It resumes from 2 to 5:30 p.m. After 10 p.m. streets are deserted.

A few couples embrace on benches in a dark park and then the man takes the girl home on the back of his bike.

A few armed soldiers walk up and down near government buildings. In daytime they retreat to guardhouses.

The many militiamen and women that used to stand by to shoot at American planes have stored their weapons at home. If the air raid sirens don't call them back to duty, each morning will bring a more normal life to the man in the streets of Hanoi.

Paper ballots were used in 1634 in Massachusetts. They were provided by the voter himself and were not necessarily marked in secret.

Martin Walkout Only a Stroll

Billy Martin...
...changed his mind

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Billy Martin, fiery by nature and controversial since he first donned a baseball uniform, returned as manager of the Detroit Tigers Saturday after a 24-hour walkout.

Martin, who led the Tigers to the American League East championship last season, stormed out of a conference with General Manager Jim Campbell Friday, claiming he was quitting the job paying him a reported $70,000 a year.

However, Billy had a change of mind, knocking on Campbell's motel room door at 7 a.m. Saturday. The field boss and the general manager had an office meeting scheduled for 8 a..m, but Billy beat the clock.

"Billy came to my room and we held a brief meeting, only three, four or five minutes," Campbell said. "Everything is the same as it was 24 hours ago. Billy is our manager."

With a notice on the bulletin board warning that it costs any player $100 for failing to report in the clubhouse by 10 a.m., Martin showed up promptly at the designated hour.

"I just had to get away for a day and think things over," Martin said. "It was something I had to do. I had said I was quitting and I had to get away to make up my own mind. Everything is okay now. The club is the same as yesterday—good."

Martin, whose temper and hard-hitting fists have resulted in headlines since he first came up to the major leagues, was arrested early in the week by Lakeland police after an incident involving Detroit outfielder Ike Blessitt in a cafe. He posted a $32 bond, which was forfeited.

Apparently still upset, Martin got angry when slugger Willie Horton left the ballpark Thursday night after not being listed in the starting lineup for an exhibition game with the Boston Red Sox.

Horton was hit with an undisclosed fine. Then, in a meeting among Campbell, Martin and Horton Friday morning, the manager stormed out.

"Yes, I increased the fine," Campbell said. "However, I don't know what caused Billy to walk out. Something just triggered it. I think maybe it was something that happened a couple of weeks ago. Then things built up.

"We consider this just a lost 24 hours, a bad day, rather an emotional thing. There definitely is no fine on Billy, no reprimand, none whatsoever. Billy is anxious to go back to work. In other words, we're just going back to where we were 24 hours ago."

Tip-in

Doug Sanders of Ironshore, Jamaica, isn't breaking the rules by giving his putt a little help since he's playing on a practice green. The third round of the Greater Greensboro Open was postponed Saturday due to rain. Providing some attractive assistance with an umbrella is GGO hostess Pat Pope. Sanders was tied in third spot with veteran Sam Snead at 9-under after two rounds of competition. (UPI)

'. . .don't make no difference'

Snead Unconcerned About Legs

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — San Snead isn't overly concerned about the rain-delayed double-round windup of the $210,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"That don't make no difference," drawled the old West Virginia hillbilly after steady rains washed out Saturday's play and forced officials to schedule two rounds on Sunday.

"My legs are in good shape," said the legendary Snead, who first won the Greensboro Open title in 1938.

"I just hope I keep on playing good. That's the only thing I'm concerned about."

The incredible Snead was only two strokes off Billy Casper's leading pace after two rounds over the hilly, rain-soaked, 7,021-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

Sam had rounds of 66 and 67—missing only one green—for 133. Casper, trying to fight his way out of a long victory famine, was 11-under-par at 131.

Lou Graham, who has finished one stroke out of the lead in the last two tour events, was in second place at 132.

Snead, an eight-time Greensboro Open winner and the current U.S. Seniors titleholder, was tied with Doug Sanders at 133.

The group at 134 includes Chi Chi Rodriguez, Canadian George Knudson, Ken Still and Rod Funseth. That put eight players within three strokes of each other going into the last 36 holes of the chase for the $42,000 first prize.

Lee Elder, the first round leader who slipped back to a 136 total, was engaged in his last chance to gain a spot in the Masters. Elder, seeking to become the first black player to compete in the famed tournament at Augusta Ga., must win to do it.

Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino were at 137.

Day-long rains, coming on the heels of showers that lasted all week, made the course unplayable Saturday. None of the 74 players got off the tee and the round finally was called off at 11:30 a.m. EST. The first of Sunday's two rounds will begin at 6:22 a.m.

A few years ago, Snead, then in his late 50's, was in the field here when a round was washed out and 36 holes were scheduled for Sunday. Halfway through that double windup, Snead, paired with a couple of 40-year-olds, was still walking briskly while his playing partners were lagging.

Snead dropped to his belly in the fairway and began doing push-ups while waiting for them to catch up.

"Let's go, let's go. Time's a wasting," he yelled at them.

Ford Pleads for BJ

(Editor's Note — Tom Ford of 1321 South Ohio, who has been involved in baseball for most of his 73 years, mailed this letter to the Sedalia Democrat-Capital sports desk Saturday, pleading for help in retaining the Sedalia entry in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League.)

Gentleman,

(I'm) begging your help in (an) effort to again field an entry in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League.

(I) have learned they need a park to play (their) home games. Gentlemen, we cannot let Ban John die (in Sedalia); it's a splendid program. After boys get out of Senior Babe Ruth, they have no place to go.

Have you noted in our town no boy who plays baseball gets his name in (the) paper (for) robbery, rape, smoker or purchaser of "pot." Space will not allow me to name all of the players from the Central Missouri Ban Johnson program who have gone on to the majors, but here are a few — Lumpe, Higgins, Hagan, Retzer, Spriggs, Tekotte, Schiner, Hunt, and more recently Gerlecz.

Please gentlemen, help them find a field to play on.

Respectfully,
Tom Ford

St. Louis Down To 25 Players

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)–The St. Louis Cardinals trimmed their roster to 25 players Saturday by announcing that right-hander Mike Nagy has been traded to the Texas Rangers for pitcher Mike Thompson.

Thompson will be assigned to the Cardinals' Tulsa farm club in the American Association, a spokesman said, and Nagy will be sent to the Rangers' Pacific Coast League farm club in Spokane, Wash.

The trade also eliminated the necessity for the Rangers to send a player to the Red Birds as part of a trade earlier this year that sent left-hander Charlie Hudson to the Texas team.

Jayvees vs. Stover

The Smith-Cotton junior varsity baseball season is scheduled to open Monday with a home doubleheader against Stover.

The games will either be held in Centennial Park or Liberty Park Stadium.

Reds Hope to Dodge Jinx

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds aren't as worried about the other teams in the National League's West Division as they are about the jinx that has struck down all of the division's defending champions.

Supremely confident in their ability, the National League champions, who won the West last year by 10½ games over Houston, would become the first team to repeat as West Division titlist if they win again in 1973.

Division play came to baseball in 1969. The Atlanta Braves were the first West Division champions and first to feel the jinx. They tumbled to fifth in 1970 with a 76-86 record.

The Reds ran away with the 1970 title. The following year the jinx struck them. Bobby Tolan twice ruptured an Achilles tendon and was out for the season. Johnny Bench suffered a season-long slump.

The Reds fell to also-rans in 1971, finishing fourth at 79-83. San Francisco captured the 1971 title, but found the jinx too much to handle. Willie McCovey and Juan Marichal were injured and the Giants dropped to fifth, their record a miserable 69-86.

"The key to our repeating is our starting pitching. If the starters do the job, we can repeat," said Reds' captain Pete Rose.

If so, then the jinx has already made its presence felt. Gary Nolan, 24 years old, but a six-year veteran, is out indefinitely with a sore arm. Nolan almost single-handedly kept the Reds in the race through the early days of 1972 before arm trouble hit him. He finished 15-5 with the league's second best earned run average of 1.99.

But he isn't throwing or being counted on by Cincinnati.

With Nolan out, the starting pitching is questionable.

Billingham, 12-12 last year, believes he's improved because of a newly-developed changeup. Nelson comes to the Reds from Kansas City where he overcame arm trouble to put together an 11-6 record.

McGlothlin fills Nolan's spot and will try to better a 9-8 record.

The Reds don't doubt their offensive ability. Beginning with Rose and going to Joe Morgan and Tolan, who combined for 100 stolen bases last year. Morgan hit .292, finishing fourth in the Most Valuable Player voting, while Tolan was Comeback Player of the Year with a .283 average.

Johnny Bench, the MVP, home run and runs-batted-in champion, appears fully recovered from winter lung surgery, and is being counted on, along with Tony Perez, to provide the power.

Denis Menke at third, Cesar Geronimo—moving to center with Tolan shifting to right—and either Dave Conception or Darrell Chaney are used at shortstop by Sparky Anderson because of their defense.

USBWA Choices Include Walton

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — UCLA's Bill Walton heads the 1973 United States Basketball Writers Association All-American team announced Sunday.

Walton, a 6-foot-11 junior, is joined by teammate Keith Wilkes on the honor team and UCLA Coach Johnny Wooden was voted Coach of the Year by the writers.

Walton was selected Player of the Year in the voting by the 600 members of the USBWA.

Central States Bout Heads Card

A Central States title bout between champion Roger Kirby and challenger Abe Jacobs headlines Tuesday's professional wrestling program at Convention Hall.

Also on the five-event card is a tag team match, featuring two three-man teams. In that one, Omar Atlas, Ronnie Etchison and Mike George will go against Bob Brown, Benny Ramirez and the Great Togo.

Three single matches round out the program. Atlas will meet Brown, while Etchison takes on Ramirez and George clashes with Togo.

The opening event is set for 8:15 p.m. Tickets are now on sale at Zip's Drug Store and the Coffee Pot Cafe.

Ali Loses To Norton On Split Decision

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Ken Norton broke Muhammad Ali's jaw in the first round and gave him a taste of his own brand of mocking medicine in a 12-round split decision Saturday over the former world heavyweight champion.

The loss all but slammed the door on Ali's plans to challenge George Foreman, the current heavyweight king.

As Ali sat in his dressing room hitting his head and fists against the wall, declining to meet newsmen, his trainer, Angelo Dundee, said: "I wanted to stop it in the second round but Ali wouldn't let me. The commission doctor told me he had broken his jaw."

Dundee said Ali would be taken to a hospital for an examination that may determine his future. He said the break was under the left side of the jaw.

Dundee took Ali to Clairemont General Hospital where the fighter underwent 90 minutes of surgery to repair his broken jaw.

Dr. William Lundeen said Ali's jaw was broken on the lower left side. He called it "a clean break, all the way through."

Ali said little in the hospital, according to the doctor. "He was in considerable pain. If he broke it in the first round, as his manager says, I can't fathom how he could go the whole fight like that. That's real guts."

The surgeon said Ali could be released from the hospital late Sunday or Monday. "I see no reason why he can't fight again after it heals."

"I know I broke it," the 28-year-old relatively unknown Norton said. "I think it was in the first round. I don't know which punch did it.

"He didn't have a punch at all," said Norton, a 5-1 underdog who was outweighed 221-210 and who suddenly becomes a primary challenger for Foreman's title.

The first round of the fight was even and no real damaging blow was noticed by most observers. Ali bled slightly from the inside of his mouth midway through the fifth round and the first effective blow didn't appear until Ali was dazed with a haymaker right hand in the sixth.

During the fight, Ali, who often chides an opponent, was straight-faced. In the seventh round, Norton chided Ali, "Whip it on," and in the eighth, he uttered, "Gimme a fight."

Referee Frank Rustich favored Norton 7-4, judge Hal Rickards scored it 5-4 for Norton and judge Fred Hayes had it 6-5 for Ali. The Associated Press had Norton ahead 7-4.

Norton, an ex-Marine who scored his 29th victory in 30 fights, earned $50,000, which was $42,000 more than for any other fight. Ali received a guaranteed $210,000 for only the second loss in his career of 43 bouts. He lost a 15-round decision for the undisputed title to Frazier two years ago.

There were no knockdowns in the bout that saw Norton the aggressor most of the time.

Ali, who displayed his dance-like style in only three rounds, but even then often was backpedaling, landed plenty of sharp jabs but rarely threw an effective right, although Norton's left-hand guard was usually low.

Norton, from Jacksonville, Ill., but fighting out of San Diego, entered the bout ranked as high as sixth in the world but was rated a 5-1 underdog to the 31-year-old Ali, who had won 10 fights since his only previous defeat, the heavyweight title match against Joe Frazier two years ago.

Norton, at 6-feet-3, stood as tall as Ali but at 210 pounds weighed 11 pounds less than the seemingly sluggish favorite.

He had never gone more than 10 rounds in his 29-1 pro career and appeared to tire in the 11th when Ali's punches seemed to carry more sting and brought blood from the inside of Norton's mouth.

But the underdog came out in the 12th still trying for the knockout over Ali instead of settling for a decision.

Hearing the shrieks of encouragement from the crowd, he took the offensive, backing Ali into the ropes and whaling away with both hands for the sixth time in the fight.

Ali, now 41-2, was guaranteed $210,000 for the fight. He waged a fairly even battle without a damaging blow until Norton connected with a right that dazed Ali 40 seconds into the sixth round.

Norton also dominated the ninth and 10th, although Ali scored at end of the 10th. Ali backpedaled much of the fight but rarely resorted to his circling, dancing motions, using them only in the third, eighth and 11th rounds, which he appeared to win.

The scoring was done under the California five-point maximum system, the winner of a round getting 1-5 points and the loser receiving none.

Norton, ranked eighth by the World Boxing Associatoon, No. 7 by Ring Magazine and No. 6 by the World Boxing Council, made Ali his 13th consecutive victim since his only defeat, a disputed eighth-round knockout by Jose Luis Garcia in 1970.

POWs Had 'Superbowl'

DALLAS (AP) — American prisoners of war held a volleyball Super Bowl in the Hanoi Hilton—complete with dressed up "cheerleaders" whose antics sent North Vietnamese guards scurrying to their commanders in dismay.

Lt. Col. Samuel R. Johnson told The Associated Press: "They let us outside the last six months of our imprisonment and we tried a little basketball. But playing barefooted on concrete kind of tears your feet up.

"So, we formed volleyball teams and had competition between rooms. In our big playoff game, some of the guys dressed up like girls and formed a cheering squad. You don't think the gooks didn't think that was something?

"The guards didn't know what to do. They went and got the camp commander. He came rushing out and looked around then he laughed. The guards decided it would be a good idea to laugh so they laughed."

Col. Johnson, 42, of Plano, Tex., who was shot down in 1965, said: "The cheerleaders sure did look funny. They used old pieces of cloth and mops for wigs. The gook commander asked one of them: 'Are you married?' We didn't know whether he meant as a 'woman' or a man."

Col. Johnson said the POWs were starved for sports news. "People shot down late in the war had their brains picked for as much sports news as we could get," he said.

The long hair on athletes caused the POWs to do a double take.

OSU Cindermen Win Triangle Meet

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Backed by the stellar performance of Dennis Schultz, Oklahoma State defeated Wichita State and Arkansas here Saturday afternoon in a triangular track meet.

Running the meet in chilly winds which gusted from 15 to 20 miles per hour the Cowboys tallied 83 points followed by Wichita State's 64 and Arkansas' 32. Last week the Cowboys ran their initial meet on the school's new synthetic track in a constant rain.

Schultz won the 100-yard dash in a wind-aided time of 9.1. He is co holder of the school record of 9.2 in the event along with former 'Poke standout Earl Harris. The Pond Creek, Okla., senior also won the 220-yard dash with a time of 20.6.

The 'Pokes, who won ten of the event's 17 events, had two other double winners in Mike Marks, who won the shot and the discus, and Mike Manke, who won the 880 and the mile.

Wichita State got top performances from Temore Terry, Randy Smith Val Dunn and its mile relay squad.

Terry won the long-jump, took second in the triple-jump and ran the second leg on the Shockers winning mile-relay foursome.

Smith won the three-mile with a time of 14:53.7. Dunn used a tailwind to take the triple-jump with a leap of 42-2¼, and won third in the long-jump.

In the high jump Wichita State's Steve Cano won with a jump of 6-3.

BULLETIN

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Blues gained a Stanley Cup playoff berth with a 7-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Penguins before a National Hockey League audience of 20,009 Saturday night.

The triumph, before the largest announced crowd ever in the NHL, was sparked by little Fran Huck, Phil Roberto and Garry Unger, all of whom scored two goals.

Royals Trimmed For First Game

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — The Kansas City Royals reduced their squad to the 25-player limit Saturday, assigning pitchers Tom Murphy and Al Fitzmorris and infielder Frank White to the minor league camp at Sarasota, Fla.

Fitzmorris, 27, had a 2-5 record last season, pitching mostly in relief. Murphy, also 27, was 4-4 with the Royals and 4-6 with the Omaha farm club.

hartbeats

now is the time to act

by vaughn hart
sports editor

Judging from Missouri State High School Activities Association figures, it seems that now is the time to act, if girls regional and state volleyball play is to ever get off the ground.

This year, 192 high schools in Missouri are playing girls basketball; that's 29 more than are playing girls volleyball. In 1971-72, 181 high schools in Missouri were competing interscholastically in girls basketball.

Undoubtedly, the move by the MSHSAA to sanction state competition in girls basketball this year has accounted for some or all of the increase.

In the 1965-66 school year, volleyball had a slight edge over girls basketball, with 235 schools (junior and senior high combined) participating in volleyball. Two-hundred and twenty-nine schools (junior and senior high combined) had girls basketball programs.

There were three more junior and senior high schools (238-235) participating in girls basketball than those playing volleyball in 1962-63.

Over the years, with the standardization of girls basketball rules in Missouri, and the fact that there is now regional and state recognition in the area of the sport, more schools have gone to it.

It stands to reason — girls deserve as much recognition as boys in athletics — if they can't get it in volleyball, they're going to go to basketball, or another sport that offers recognition.

However, the Kaysinger Conference coaches' move of recommending to the administrators of the league to initiate petition action on the establishment of regional and state girls volleyball play could halt or at least slow down, the mounting dominance of girls basketball in Missouri.

But a number of things have to be done before the MSHSAA is even going to consider establishment of regional and state-level volleyball competition.

"We have no standardized plan for the type of volleyball that could be played," said MSHSAA assistant executive secretary Jack Miles Friday. "The national federation (of high school athletics) is working on one now, but nothing has been completed," he added. "Some schools in Missouri play eight-man competition (like the ones in this area), and some play six-man power volleyball . . . I'm not saying that once the MSHSAA adopts a standardized volleyball plan that it will be six-man, but I feel this is the way the national federation is leaning."

Be that as it may, the current problem is to act on girls volleyball NOW, before it's too late.

With girls basketball on the regional and state level now being played, unless something is done, interscholastic girls volleyball may be a thing of the past.

Last season it was Mike Best, who transferred from Hannibal to Sedalia and bolstered the Smith-Cotton basketball attack.

Next season the Tigers will have another transfer student — Dane Henningson, the younger son of newly-hired superintendent of schools Dr. Allan C. Henningson.

Dane, who played football at Lebanon as well as basketball, was named recently by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association to the honorable mention list in the MSSA's vote of the all-Central District basketball teams.

Henningson is 17 and will be a senior next year at Smith-Cotton.

Everybody's Not in Love With Aaron

ATLANTA — (NEA) — Somebody down there doesn't like Henry Aaron. From a town in Tennessee comes this post-card to him:

"You can hit all dem home runs over dem short fences but you caint take dat black off yo face. Rite on."

From Arkansas, this letter:

"Some blacks we admire and respect — but can't tolerate cocky niggers like you."

From Boston:

"Everybody loved Babe Ruth. You will be the most hated guy in this country and elsewhere if you break his career home run record of 714."

Not all of Henry Aaron's voluminous mail is so vituperative. The fame that has come with his 673 home runs elicits varied letters.

From New Jersey, for example: "I'll speak to you straight. I don't really like the Braves, but you are the greatest player I have ever seen in all my life on this earth of 6½ years."

And from Florida: "I am writing to say I hope you break Babe Ruth's home run record. You are a true credit to the game; not only as a player, but also as a good human being. I have seen the way you cooperate by giving autographs after the game and treating the young with patience and kindness."

Perhaps 90 per cent of Henry Aaron's several hundred letters a week are kindly disposed to him and his pursuit of Babe Ruth's career home run record, according to Carla Koplin, Aaron's private secretary.

Miss Koplin may be the only private secretary ever hired by a major league baseball team to handle all the correspondence and screen the phone calls and appointments for one player.

The Atlanta Braves began to believe their own publicity department which says that "this greatest record of all records is now being challenged," and that "The greatest sports story in history is now taking place in Atlanta." So two years ago, as the mail mounted when it was realized that Hank Aaron was encroaching on the record, the Braves asked Miss Koplin, who had been working in another department in the Braves' front office, if she would like the job of being Aaron's girl Friday. Yes, she said, without hesitation.

She now sits in an office with a large black-and-white poster of her boss on the wall behind her. He is hitting a home run. "HANK!" reads the poster. "There's nobody else exactly like him."

"It's true," she said. "He never raises his voice. And he always says, 'please' and 'thank you.' Very few people in this world do that."

Miss Koplin says she is swamped daily with mail. But almost all the mail is answered. Much of it is from kids who want autographs. So Miss Koplin gets all those letters together, with pictures of Aaron, and then waits for him to come to the office where he signs them all. "If a child takes time to write him," she said, "then Hank thinks the least he can do is take time to sign an autograph personally."

Miss Koplin begins her workday at 9 a.m. She sorts the mail into four categories: (1) Those asking for autographs only; (2) Unusual fan letters, mostly from kids; (3) Letters of appreciation from older fans; and (4) "fan letters" with a question mark.

"The last are those ugly letters," she said. "He doesn't answer them. But he won't let me throw them away. He just says, 'File them.' He has some purpose in keeping them. I'm not sure what it is. Maybe he is going to include them in a book of his life."

Not all of the category four letters attack Aaron solely. One from Connecticut, for example, said: "I saw you today on TV and I think you are full of bull. You and all the baseball players are overpaid. Go to work as a janitor for $2.50 per hour and you'll see how good your $200,000 a year salary is. Comparing yourself to a doctor. Man, you're out of your mind. The best thing for America — abolish baseball. Back to the salt mines."

Kids are a great deal more sympathetic, it seems. "I am writing this to tell you how good a player you are," wrote a boy from Dix Hills, N.Y. "I feel sorry for you because you must get tired of going around the bases so many times."

And from Canada: "We collect baseball cards ... The boy next door wanted to trade me for your picture. I told him if he gave me a million cards or dollars, he couldn't buy your picture from me. I wish I lived next door to you so you could teach me how to play baseball. When I play baseball I pretend I am the 'GREAT HANK AARON.' I wish I could meet you. I would be so happy I would walk upside down."

He also receives such intimate outpourings as this: "I am a switch hitter. I strike out lefty or righty..."

And: "My dog loves you. When my dad watches one of your games, she sits and wags her tail hard."

Also, advice such as the one about the television commercial Aaron does for "Oh! Henry." It is one of Aaron's favorite letters: "That candy bar commercial doesn't do a thing for you. If you want to get a shot of your face, and show the product, tell why you like it and take a big bite out of it. And be sure to let the chocolate drool down your face. People like gooey candy. However, you must warn teen-agers against eating too much of it. Chocolate causes craters (the finer term for pimples)."

Then there is the card Aaron received last December. It was mailed directly to his home. The printed card read, "With warm best wishes for a joyous Christmas and a Happy New Year. The President and Mrs. Nixon."

He probably would have been flattered if he hadn't found the envelope so funny. It was hand-written and addressed to "Mr. Frank Aaron."

One can only wonder: Did Herbert and Mrs. Hoover ever send a Christmas card to "Mr. Gabe Ruth"?

Celtics Rebuilding Old Invincible Image

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston's Celtics, near-unbeatable in pro basketball playoffs during the Bill Russell era, attempt Sunday to begin rebuilding that image of invincibility in the Dave Cowens era.

This winningest regular-season team in Celtic history meets the Atlanta Hawks in the opener of a best-of-seven National Basketball Association series in the Boston Garden.

Boston had a 68-14 regular season record as the 6-foot-9 Cowens, a sharpshooting giant who plays with the intensity of a little man, won the Most Valuable Player award in a vote of NBA peers.

The Celtics won 11 NBA championships in 13 seasons through 1968-69 with the 6-foot-10 Russell in the middle, but began suffering with the also rans when the big guy retired.

Then came Cowens from Florida State, combining with superstar forward John Havlicek, and the Celts began to blossom again. They were back to respectability last year and now sit among the playoff favorites.

The other three first-round NBA playoffs began Friday night with defending champion Los Angeles edging Chicago in an explosive 107-104 overtime game.

Milwaukee continued its mastery of Golden State with a 110-90 romp and the New York Knicks got strong backcourt scoring from Walt Frazier and Earl Monroe to go whip Baltimore 95-83.

In Sunday's second games, Baltimore plays at New York, Milwaukee hosts Golden State and the Lakers are at home against Chicago with the three series favorites looking for a 20 edge.

In the American Basketball Association playoffs, Eastern Division powerhouses Carolina and Kentucky opened with triumphs Friday night. The Cougars beat New York's Nets 104-96 and the Colonels smashed Virginia 129-101.

The second Carolina-New York series was played Saturday night before action was to shift to the Nets' home floor Tuesday night. The Kentucky-Carolina battle continues Sunday night in Louisville.

In a Saturday afternoon game, the ABA defending-champion Indiana Pacers whooped the Denver Rockets 114-91 in Indianapolis to take a one-game lead in the West Division playoffs.

In the West's other firstround pairing, San Diego is scheduled to begin its series against Utah with a Monday night game on the Stars' home court at Salt Lake City.

Says Practice Toss Was Best—73 Feet

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Shot-putter Brian Oldfield swears he tossed the shot 73 feet while warming up for the International Track Association's professional meet Friday night.

"It was fantastic," Oldfield said. "The shot landed right against the hay that they had back there. It was a good 73 feet, the farthest anyone ever has thrown. It absolutely blew my mind."

When the competition started, Oldfield hit 69-7 on his first throw and 68-8½ on his second. The latter was a career best in competition and gave him first place, with $500 plus $100 for breaking the professional record of 68-4½ that he set last week in Los Angeles.

Karl Salb was second with a career best of 67-2½ and world record holder Randy Matson was third at 65-7.

Jim Ryun and Kip Keino competed here Friday night, but not against each other. Ryan won the mile in 4:06.5 and Keino easily won the two mile in 8:46.0.

The attendance was 7,435, compared with 12,280 last week in Los Angeles and 10,400 in Pocatello. The long-established Oregon indoor track meet held each winter in Portland usually draws about 9,000.

Ryun said he planned to compete on a weekly basis, noting he ran his fastest races between 1965 and 1968 while competing on a heavy schedule.

Cards Down Kaycee, 1-0

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals overcame strong Kansas City pitching Saturday to beat the Royals 1-0 in exhibition baseball. The Cards got the victory with only one hit.

Steve Busby worked seven innings for the Royals, allowing no hits and no runs, and retiring 17 men in a row.

The Cardinals couldn't get anything going until the eighth inning, after Busby was replaced on the mound by Gene Garber. Garber gave up a single to Cardinal catcher Ted Simmons, who stole second and went to third on an infield out. Simmons scored the game's only run on another infield out by Luis Melendez.

Scipio Spinks pitched seven innings for the Cardinals in his best effort of the year, giving up five hits, striking out six and walking one. Spinks was in real trouble only twice.

In the sixth inning, Paul Schaal singled with one out and, after Amos Otis struck out, John Mayberry singled. Schaal should have scored on Mayberry's hit but seemed to stumble and was forced to hold up at third. Hal McRae then popped up to end the inning.

In the seventh, the Royals managed to get runners on first and third with two out before Fred Patek flied out to stop the threat.

Rich Folkers relieved Spinks in the eighth inning but was wild, walking Schall and and John Mayberry. Wayne Granger came in with one out and threw one pitch to McRea, who hit into a double play.

Lou Piniella opened the Royals ninth inning with a single and went to second as Steve Hovley grounded out. Piniella took third on a wild pitch and might have scored after John Andrews relieved Granger and served up a ball that Kurt Bevacqua hit to right field. But a good catch by Dwain Anderson and a strong throw home held pinch-runner Keith Marshall at third.

Mike Tyson then went behind second base for pinch-hitter Carl Taylor's grounder and threw him out to end the game.

Smith, Laver Win Easily

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rod Laver and Stan Smith romped past semi-final opponents by the identical scores of 6-3, 6-3, in the second annual $50,000 Holton Tennis Classic Saturday to bring together the top two players of the World Championship "A" tour for the second successive Sunday.

In a match of left-handers that opened the program, top-ranked Laver, former Australian now playing out of Corona Del Mar, Calif., beat ninth-seeded Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia in 55 minutes.

In the second match, second-seeded Smith of Pasadena, Calif., subdued a clowning Cliff Drysdale, former South African now residing in Austin, Tex., in 77 minutes.

Sunday's televised finals, beginning at 1 p.m. (EST), matches the top money winners on the WCT tour. Laver, who has three titles and $53,200 to his credit, has 43 points. Smith, winner of two finals and showing $41,300 in earnings, has 25 points. Smith beat Laver at Atlanta last Sunday, 6-3, 6-4.

After his victory, Laver said, "It was good to have an easy one. I will be fresh and fit for tomorrow's match."

Laver broke Pilic's service to begin the match and then held the service.

Ryun Claims No Regrets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jim Ryun chose the Cow Palace boards two years ago to begin a comeback that ended in yet another dark day for him at the Olympic Games in Munich.

He returns to the arena Sunday night with the Olympics apparently behind him, since he's running as a professional. He says he has no regrets.

"I have training and competition first in my mind for the first time since I was in school," says the former University of Kansas miler. "I've also been able to spend more time with my family lately."

Ryun will compete here against Kenya's Kip Keino, the man who upset him in the high altitude of Mexico City in the 1968 Olympic Games' 1500-meter run.

Ryun quit track for more than 18 months, working as a photographer, before starting a comeback here in January of 1971 with the 1972 Olympics in mind. But last summer at Munich, he fell when clipped on the heels by a pursuer during a qualifying race and failed to make the 1500 finals.

The Kansan claimed he was knocked down. The aftermath of the incident left him bitter. "The most disgusting part of it was that no one showed any concern about it," he says. "I wanted to protest, file a petition, but I got no help."

Pupfish Makes Big Comeback

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California scientists are acclaiming the return of a tiny desert fish thought for 20 years to be extinct but now flourishing in three carefully guarded pools.

"This is a success story in an otherwise generally gloomy picture," Almo J. Cordone, senior fishery biologist for the California Fish and Game Department, said Friday.

The Owens pupfish survived for eons in a changing environment — from a vast inland lake to a string of shallow desert pools where water temperatures may vary between freezing and 100 degrees — but it very nearly did not survive its brief contact with modern man.

The Owens pupfish — whose natural range was only about 70 miles along the bottom of the narrow Owens Valley, northwest of Death Valley — is less than two inches long. Males are irridescent blues and purples with black bars and fin edges. Females are a mottled brown.

They evolved from pupfish common in a prehistoric lake that covered much of the Death Valley-Southern Nevada desert.

Isolated in pools and streams as the big lake dried up, the pupfish became capable of living in both alkaline and saline waters and of surviving sharp temperature changes in the shallow pools of the desert. They feed on algae, plankton, insects and smaller fish.

Plentiful as recently as 50 years ago, the fish were virtually wiped out by the intrusion of modern man, who drained their habitats and introduced alien species of fish that ate both the pupfish's food and the pupfish.

The pupfish declined sharply during the 1920s and 1930s. In 1942, scientists were unable to find any more, and the little creatures were considered extinct until 1956, when several hundred were discovered in a pool fed by overflow from a spring-fed drainage ditch.

Extending Phase 3 Gets Little Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has failed to win much labor support for extension of Phase 3 economic controls with his meat price lid, leaving open the possibility of a wage rebellion at this year's bargaining table.

AFL-CIO President George Meany insisted Friday that any new measures to curb the cost of living must be accompanied by controls on all farm products, rents and interest rates.

"The President's action does not go far enough," Meany said. "The damage has already been done."

And he again urged Congress to impose tighter controls as a condition of AFL-CIO support for extending the Economic Stabilization Act beyond its April 30 expiration.

Meany has an ally in Democrats on Capitol Hill who say they will push for a 60-day, across-the-board freeze on all prices and interest rates, and some rent rollbacks.

A number of labor leaders, including Meany, warned earlier that rapidly rising grocery prices would enlarge labor's appetite at the bargaining table. "If food prices aren't brought down, there is no way union members are going to let their unions settle for a wage increase that won't even pay for their increased food bill," Meany told the House Banking Committee on Wednesday.

Labor contracts involving 4.7 million workers in the auto, rubber, electrical, trucking and railroad industries expire this year, and the Nixon administration had been saying that its anti-inflation efforts would mean more moderate wage demands.

But that was before the sudden and sharp surge in food prices, particularly at the meat counter.

Some labor sources were already saying Friday that if Phase 3 is extended without tougher controls, wage settlements may go to at least eight per cent this year. The administration has set 5.5 per cent as its voluntary guideline for holding inflation down.

Even before Nixon's announcement Thursday night, the United Rubber Workers said in opening bargaining talks with the Big Four rubber companies this month that it would seek "a substantial wage increase—to be specific—in excess of eight per cent."

AP Survey on Gunshot Deaths Shows 40 Per Cent Increase

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In one week this month, 345 men, women and children in the United States were shot to death. Some were the victims of armed robbers, some were policemen killed in the line of duty, some were shot during family quarrels.

Other gun deaths were more bizarre: a bartender machine-gunned as he sat in his car at a Boston intersection, a teen-age couple executed as they kneeled by a sleeping bag in the Arizona desert.

The 345 deaths, counted in an Associated Press survey the week of March 4-11, represented a 40 per cent increase over those counted in the last similar survey four years ago.

In each of three previous AP surveys, gunshot deaths totaled about 200: There were 199 in June 16-23, 1968; 192 in July 7-14, 1968, and 206 in June 15-22, 1969.

The dates for the AP surveys were chosen at random. The first two were taken in the wake of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The third came a year later after passage of a federal gun control law.

In the latest survey, 236 deaths were classified as homicides, 89 as suicides and 20 as accidents. While the total number of gunshot deaths rose 40 per cent since the 1969 survey, homicides climbed 44.5 per cent, suicides 33.7 per cent and accidental deaths 20 per cent.

The weapons included the small, cheap handguns called "Saturday night specials" and often used in holdups, a father's revolver in the hands of a curious infant, the family shotgun grabbed during a quarrel.

In most states, there are no attempts to compile comprehensive, statewide records of gun deaths until weeks or months after they occur. And, in many cases, the type of weapon is not always listed immediately.

But in the 345 gun deaths counted March 4-11, at least 128 — or 37.1 per cent — of the weapons used were handguns. Handguns were responsible for at least 41.4 per cent of the homicides, 25.8 per cent of the suicides, and 20.5 per cent of the accidental deaths.

Ten persons were killed during holdups, and five robbery suspects were killed by police.

In Washington, D.C., a bank robbery suspect pointed a gun at a police officer and pulled the trigger five times; each time the gun misfired. Before the man could pull the trigger again, the officer fired, killing one of two armed men who had fled from the scene of the robbery.

The 1968 federal gun control law banned interstate mail order sales of rifles, shotguns and all types of ammunition. It also banned most over-the-counter sales to out-of-state residents.

The 1968 law also banned imports of cheap, small caliber pistols, but a number of U.S. firms sell "Saturday night specials" assembled locally from parts shipped in from overseas.

Attempts to get tighter controls have failed in Congress.

Last year, the Senate passed a bill to prohibit the sale of easily concealed handguns, ranging from the cheap "Saturday night specials" to expensive, snub-nosed handguns. But the House took no action on the bill, and its chief sponsor, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., says he sees no point in reintroducing it this year unless there are signs the House will pass it.

One bill reintroduced this year would require registration of all firearms and licensing of owners. The bill, proposed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., failed 78-11 last year.

No hearings have been scheduled in either of the houses on any of the proposals.

In the latest AP gun death survey, California reported the most deaths — 42 — during the week. Next came Texas with 33, Michigan 28, New York 25, Illinois 22, Ohio 19, Virginia 17, Louisiana 15, North Carolina 14, Georgia 12.

Of California's 42 deaths, 20 were homicides and 22 were suicides.

Michigan reported the most homicides — 22, followed by New York with 21, California 20, Texas 18, Illinois 16, Ohio 13, Georgia 13, Virginia 12, Pennsylvania 10, Florida 9, Louisiana 9.

Seven states reported no gun deaths during the period: Colorado, Kentucky, Minnesota, Nevada, New Hampshire, Vermont and Wyoming.

Recruiter Addresses Local Club

Major Quintin Seitz, commander of the U.S. Army's Recruiting Mainstream, Kansas City, addressed a noon session of the Lions Club at Bothwell Hotel Wednesday about an all-volunteer army.

Due to an increased pay scale, widespread job opportunities and training offered in various fields the Army is attracting enough qualified men and women to support a volunteer army, according to Seitz.

In addition, said Seitz, the army is upgrading the quality of its soldiers. A quota of at least 70 per cent high school graduates has been instituted for new recruits.

Maj. Seitz praised local recruiting Sgt. Lee Cutshall, who lead all recruiters in Maj. Seitz's district in new men attracted to the Army. The district comprises half of Missouri and almost all of Kansas.

Lion president Bob Maxwell presided over the session and Brice Bell Jr., introduced the program.

Down on Taxes

Who cares? That's what Ken Collyer wants to know as he stands in front of the State House in Boston protesting taxes and wondering when the politicians are going to do something about reducing them. He wants an elimination of waste in government. (UPI)

Colorful Effect

Experiment with facial color. Many women can wear blusher several shades darker than their skin complexions. Also, eye color can delve into the pastel areas, with pinks and yellows, as long as a light touch is used. The effect is an unlifting highlighting one.

MRS. COURTNEY MCINTYRE
Miss Cheryl Molden

Cheryl Molden And C. McIntyre Wed

Burn's Chapel Freewill Baptist Church was the setting for the March 24 wedding of Miss Cheryl Molden, daughter of Mrs. Frank Molden, 127 East Hogan, and Sgt. Courtney McIntyre, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McIntyre, Kansas City.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. W. L. Jackson before an altar decorated with floral arrangements of yellow gladioli and blue mums. Miss Karen Jones and Miss Alice Kemp provided traditional selections for the afternoon.

Given in marriage by her brother, John Molden, the bride wore a floor length A-line gown of Chantilly lace over white bridal satin with an empire waist, V-neck, and puffed sleeves of Chantilly lace fitted at the wrist. Her fingertip Chantilly lace veil hung from a headband of tiny white daisies.

The bride carried a nosegay of yellow pom pon mums and blue mums with light blue streamers.

Miss Carol Ray, dressed in a floor length gown of light blue bridal satin was maid of honor. She carried a single blue carnation with blue streamers.

Miss Regina McIntyre, sister of the groom, and Miss Lola Williams, niece of the bride, were bridesmaids and wore dresses identical to the maid of honor's except one being yellow. Each carried a single carnation corresponding to the color of her dress.

Harold Ray Thomas served as best man and groomsmen were Jeffrey Williams and Bobbie McPhail.

Miss Juanita Chess was flower girl in a floor length gown of yellow bridal satin identical to the bridesmaids' dresses. She carried a yellow basket filled with yellow petals.

The rings were carried on a white satin heart-shaped pillow by Christopher Molden.

A church reception followed the ceremony where a three tiered cake centered the bride's table and glass candleabra held yellow and blue tapers. Decorations were in yellow and blue with yellow and blue wedding bells.

Serving were Mrs. Nancy Williams, Miss Lynn Jones, Mrs. Lillie Lee, Miss Karen Jones, Mrs. Pearl Kemp and Miss Alice Kemp.

Mrs. Maxine Dixon attended the guestbook.

Following a honeymoon to Los Angeles, Calif., the couple will reside in Sedalia where the bride is a teacher's aide in the Headstart School and works part-time at the C. W. Flower Company. The groom is stationed at Whiteman AFB.

TIPTON — Wedding vows were exchanged Saturday afternoon in a double ring ceremony at Green Grove Baptist Church in Latham by Miss Connie Sue Garber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Garber, Tipton, and Stephen R. Hays, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn D. Hays, Tipton.

The Rev. James D. Cooper officiated before an altar lighted on either side by seven-branch candelabra and Mrs. Homber Garber, pianist, accompanied the vocalist, Mrs. Evan Wall.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire styled bridal gown of imported polyester sata peau with Venise lace trim. The smooth fitting bodice was trimmed with Venise lace and edged with ruffled peau from the shoulders to the waist. A high ruffled neckband was trimmed with lace and the long full sleeves were banded at the wrists and trimmed with lace. The A-line skirt draped into a wide chapel length train with a deep ruffle flounce trimmed with lace at the hemline. A Parisian styled Venise lace bridal cap embroidered with tiny seed pearls held the bouffant veil of silk illusion and the bride carried a cascade of white daisies, lavender carnations and green fuji mums centered with a lavender cattleya orchid and highlighted with baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. James D. Nirens and the bridesmaid was Miss Linda Hays, sister of the bride. Both wore floor length gowns of sibone with a floral chiffon overlay, high rounded neckline with a stand up collar and leg-o-mutton sleeves. A velvet ribbon sash accented the empire waistline tied in back with streamers. Mrs. Nirens' gown was lavender and Miss Hays' was green.

Both wore matching headpieces of illusion which formed a long divided veil and was accented with a lavender ribbon. They carried cascades of lavender daisies and carnations with green fuji mums.

Lighting candles for the ceremony were Jerry Garber, brother of the bride, and Charles Fulks, cousin of the bride.

Patrick Snorgrass was best man and the groomsman was Randy Garber, brother of the bride. Performing ushering duties were Edwin Dean Knipp and Walter Self.

Miss Melissa Oehrke, cousin of the bride, dropped daisies from a lace basket as the flower girl and Rodney Fulks, cousin of the bride, was the ringbearer.

A church reception followed the ceremony where the bride's table was covered with a lavender cloth and white overlay. The three-tiered wedding cake with staircase and lighted candles centered the bride's table.

Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Ben Harris, Mrs. Danny Wolfe, Mrs. Hughe Scherff and Mrs. Edwin Dean Knipp, sister of the groom.

Mrs. Amos Glen Oehrke, aunt of the bride, presided at the guest book and Miss Rita Fulks and Miss Rhonda Fulks, cousins of the bride, were in charge of the gift table.

For traveling on a honeymoon to an undisclosed destination the bride wore a red and white pantsuit with a green carnation shoulder corsage.

The couple will reside in Tipton where the groom is employed by the Oakwood Oil Company. The bride works for the California Manufacturing Company.

Canada — Latin America Great Decisions Topics

Foreign policies which should be pursued by the United States in meeting its economic problems with Canada and Latin America were discussed last week by the local Great Decisions Study Groups sponsored by the American Association of University Women.

The first of two questions asked members on opinion ballots was "What economic policies should the U.S. follow toward Canada?"

Seventy-five per cent of the group agreed with the policy that the U.S. show greater sensitivity to Canadian fears of U.S. economic domination. Seventy-one per cent agreed that the U.S. should treat Canada the same as any other friendly nation and only one-sixth of the respondents agreed with the policy that U.S. subsidiaries in Canada should be subject to relevant U.S. laws while no one favored maintaining existing barriers affecting U.S. trade with Canada.

The second question "What economic policies should the U.S. follow toward Latin America,?" netted 67 per cent of the respondents agreeing with the policies to show greater sensitivity to Latin American fears of U.S. economic domination and to increase "Latinizing" the U.S. business operations in Latin America, giving countries concerned increasingly larger share of management and ownership. Nearly 70 per cent agreed with the U.S. policy of treating Latin American nations the same as any other friendly nation while one half of the respondents favored the policy of creating international arbitration machinery to mediate disputes between U.S. companies and the Latin American countries in which they operate.

Only one-sixth favored discouraging U.S. investments in Latin America while none favored the policy of abolishing aid to Latin countries.

The Middle East after the Soviet withdrawal from Egupt will be the final topic to be studied in the series by the Great Decisions Study Groups.

NFO Votes 'Recess' in Holding Action

By GORDON HANSON
Associated Press Writer

Members of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) have voted to "recess" from their two-day marketing action in which livestock was kept on farms in protest of declining hog prices.

But NFO President Oren Lee Staley, claiming a price-restoration victory for the NFO, said members also agreed at 15 meetings in the midwest and east Friday night to "maintain a vigilant alert to any future tampering with the markets."

Staley said at Corning, Iowa, "The NFO is calling a continuing series of meetings starting Monday and Tuesday nights to discuss market developments and keep the membership ready for immediate action if any renewal of price depressing tactics shows up in any of the markets anywhere in the country."

Staley, speaking earlier to an estimated 1,000 persons attending the NFO meeting in Des Moines, Iowa, said, "The threat to hog and cattle producers has been met by the NFO."

He noted that hog prices dropped 25 per cent in seven days and that cattle prices also began to slump.

Staley blamed the wildly fluctuating hog market on governmental action, statements by AFL-CIO President George Meany and the threat of a meat boycott by consumers.

In the face of this, Staley said, "The NFO advised its members to stop selling hogs, cattle and lambs at the greatly reduced prices."

But he said "prices have been restored" because of the NFO's withholding of livestock from markets Thursday and Friday.

The series of meetings followed by one day President Nixon's order to place a ceiling on prices for hogs, cattle and sheep. The ceiling is on prices paid by meat processers, wholesalers and retailers and is not directly aimed at the farm level.

At Des Moines, Staley was strongly critical of the President's action, which he said "was clearly a discrimination against the American farmer."

There was no mention in Nixon's order, Staley said, "of a ceiling on wages, no mention of a ceiling on prices, no mention of an excess profits tax, and he put every bit of the responsibility of meeting the inflationary problems of this nation directly on the backs of the American farmers."

Staley also lashed out at Meany, saying he was "astounded" that Meany "should call for price ceilings on raw agricultural products to cut the cost of food."

Staley said that when Meany "gets into our business like he did, I think we should ask him to tell his butcher unions to lower their wages by 25 per cent in seven days just like the hog markets were lowered by that much for farmers."

Preserving Skin Seen As Possible

By C.G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP) — Doctors may one day be able to preserve the skin of dead persons for use later in grafting over burns and other wounds of the living, a researcher says.

This possibility was held out Friday by Dr. William T. Summerlin of the Sloan-Kettering Institute, New York, at a science writers seminar sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Summerlin emphasized that, while human skin has been preserved and transplanted to other humans and the method has succeeded in animals, the work is still experimental.

Understanding why cultured skin tissue can be transplanted from one person to another while fresh skin cannot may lead to a better understanding of cancer immunology, Summerlin said.

If the method becomes clinically feasible, skin ulcers and other wounds might be repaired with the cultured skin, he added.

Asked how long it might be before hospitals would have human skin banks, he replied: "Years."

Summerlin said he has succeeded with transplants of other persons' skin with six patients, and he has worked with more than 500 mice.

He said his findings have been duplicated by researchers at Stanford University, in Boston, in Albany, N.Y., and in Holland.

Summerlin's human patients have retained grafts of others' skin for up to four and a half years.

Ordinarily, human skin transplanted from one person to another is rejected. But Summerlin said he has has found that, if the skin to be transplanted is placed first in a laboratory medium containing nutrients for four to six weeks, it can be successfully transplanted.

During this period of preservation, the skin loses some of its cells, but three or four days after transplant it is reconstituted on the body of the recipient, he said.

The largest graft of cultured human skin so far tried has been 1½ inches by 1½ inches.

Advises Girl To Forget the Guy

Dear Ann Landers: I wrote my boyfriend two rather personal letters last week. (We are both 16.) I said some things that could be taken lots of different ways by someone who didn't know us. Unfortunately, Rick's mother got hold of the letters and she didn't give them to him until yesterday. When she handed them over she said, "I want you to invite the girl and her mother here so the four of us can have a little talk." Naturally, Rick darned near fainted and so did I when he told me about it.

I'd rather go to Alcatraz than sit down with our mothers and discuss those letters. I told Rick how I felt and his answer shocked me. He said, "Me, too. Goodbye and good luck with the next guy, you dumb dodo."

Please tell me what to do, Ann. How did I know his mother was such a sneaky creep? I really dig this guy and I want him back. — Kicking Myself

Dear Kicking: You've bollixed it, kiddo. My advice is to leave Rick alone for now. Maybe Father Time will be the great healer. Meanwhile, hide the writing paper and stamps from yourself and if you MUST write letters that can be "taken lots of different ways," feed them to the nearest goat or mail them to me.

Dear Ann Landers: We are a middle-aged couple who moved recently from a $20,000 cottage to a $55,000 home in suburbia. This was to be our dream house but it is developing into a nightmare.

Mini-bikes are all over the place, on our lawn and in the driveway. Fireworks go off all year round, including some in our mailbox. Fathers and sons shoot birds and squirrels with BB guns. Dogs run loose in packs of six and seven even though there is a leash law.

Minors are out at night till eleven o'clock, yelling and screaming, making sleep impossible for those who wish to retire early. Halloween was a horror.

We don't want to move again. What can be done without causing bitter feelings? We'd have to talk to the parents and, this would mean trouble. Or we'd have to call the police, which would be even worse. Any suggestions? — Constant Reader

Dear C.R.: Before you talk to anybody you must identify the offenders. When you are certain, talk to THEM. Don't go over with your hair on fire and yell your head off. Keep it low-key and appeal to them as good neighbors and decent citizens. If you get nowhere, then go talk to a lawyer. Learn what your rights are, and proceed from there.

Dear Ann Landers: I have had the same cleaning woman for ten years. If she had one more brain she would be an imbecile. I don't know why I've put up with her for so long. Maybe I'm the imbecile. Please don't tell me to let her go. I can't do it. She has five children and needs this job. Also, when I was in the hospital she was here every morning at 7:30 through snowstorms and blizzards.

Problem: Yesterday she tried to vacuum the carpeting on the steps with the large sweeper because she was too lazy to use the small attachment. The sweeper got out of control, fell down the steps and broke in twenty pieces. The repair bill will be $48.

Should I make her pay for it? Answer yes or no. — Mad In Missouri

Dear Mad: No. Even smart people do stupid things now and then. From your description, the woman gave YOU special consideration, and now it's your turn.

How much do you know about pot, LSD, cocaine, speed, meth, uppers and downers, glue and heroin? Are all these drugs dangerous? Get Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope On Drugs." Emphasizes Experience On Council

Stressing his experience and qualifications, George Dugan, Republican city council candidate from the Fourth Ward, garnered support from party faithful in his ward Friday night at a rally at Horace Mann School.

Dugan, introduced by Republican City Chairman Dr. James Bryden, addressed a gathering of 16 persons. He referred several times to his five years of service on the City Council. He was defeated in a close re-election bid two years ago by councilman George Lockett, who is not seeking the post this year.

Dugan also cited his nine years service on the Planning and Zoning Commission and Police Personnel Board as qualifying him for service in city government.

Noting again his council experience, Dugan said, "I know the ropes," of being a councilman. He told the gathering being a councilman "isn't knowledge you are born with," adding, "you have to have been there before."

Dugan also claimed to have researched programs now before the council, read minutes of past council sessions and studied the city budget. "It is unlikely that problems would come up or ordinances brought up that would be new to me," Dugan stated.

He cited several areas suitable for revenue sharing funds. Dugan called for an increase in police and fire fighting personnel, a new fire house, updating streets and street lighting as well as a city wide clean-up every month in place of the semi-annual clean-up now offered.

Dugan said if revenue sharing funds were used to pay off old hospital bonds the city taxpayer could save five cents on the $100 assessed valuation.

Later, Harry Walch, presiding judge of the Pettis County Court, commended Dugan for his service to Sedalia. He had earlier declared that Dugan's opponent Ray Hendricks, "wasn't knowledgable of even a subject such as revenue sharing," at a League of Women Voters "meet your candidates" session.

Tom Kerr also spoke on Dugan's behalf, calling him an "aware" candidate with a proven record.

Ohio NFO Okays Boycott At 'Any Time'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The National Farmers Organization of Ohio authorized its board of directors Friday night to call a boycott of market sales "at any time they feel it necessary."

The action came after NFO members could not agree on an immediate "withholding action" urged by NFO leaders early this week.

Some 500 Ohio farmers rallied at the state fairgrounds here as part of the national NFO protest of President Nixon's announcement Thursday placing a ceiling on meat prices.

Calling the farmer movement "one of the greatest struggles in the history of American agriculture," Shelley Robertson, national NFO official, termed Nixon's action "just another step to deplete the number of American farmers."

Winter of 1973 Fell Early and Harshly Across the Middle West

By R. F. HARVISON
Associated Press Writer

The winter of 1973 fell early and harshly across the heart of the Middle West, leaving in its wake sizeable losses in livestock and crops.

A Cape Girardeau, Mo., farmer's grandmother saw an eagle in December — a traditional omen of a severe winter and a bit of folklore come true as disclosed by an Associated Press survey of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska.

In addition to losses of crops and cattle, the four states reported more-than-usual seasonal damage to streets and highways, and electric utility equipment, much of it resulting from December and January ice storms.

Farmers in all four states sustained losses from a wet fall which found sorghum and corn crops still in the fields. Muddy conditions this spring have hampered pre-planting preparations for next year's crops.

In Nebraska, farmers reported an estimated 7 per cent of the grain sorghum acreage, or some 100,000 acres, never was harvested.

The Division of Agricultural Statistics said what is left in the fields is deteriorating more each day with heads beginning to mold.

A similar story came from Oklahoma, where harvest of soybeans and cotton was seriously delayed by wet weather. Water standing in fields also delayed plowing and fertilizing — and now there is a problem with weeds.

Larry Robinson, Oklahoma Department of Agriculture information officer, reported that at the end of February, 25 per cent of the soybean crop remained in the fields. Harvest usually is completed by the end of November.

Winter moisture was good for wheat, but many farmers were allowing cattle to graze on the wheat so they could get a good return in high beef prices instead of on the wheat market.

The Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service reported sorghum appeared the only crop with measurable loss, although there was no actual estimate of crop damage.

Ray Hancock, reporting service spokesman, said there was no damage at all to the wheat crop but that corn and soybean estimates were revised downward at the end of January to take into account the bad fall weather.

Hancock noted the wheat crop was planted before the severe weather set in and that wheat generally is not affected by weather after it is planted.

Spring oats and barley were a different story. As of last week, Hancock said, only 7 per cent of the Kansas spring oat crop was planted, compared with an average 33 per cent by this date. Barley, he said, was only 9 per cent seeded, compared with an average of 17 per cent.

"Farmers are behind in preparing their spring land for seeding," Hancock said, "but with modern equipment, it doesn't take long for them to prepare the soil once it dries out."

In Missouri, Glen Peterson, marketing director of the 47,000-member state farm bureau, said Missouri farmers also were unable to properly fertilize fields last fall. Fuel shortages, he said, have affected supplies of fertilizer this spring and muddy fields have hampered preplanting preparations.

A severe December ice storm in southwest Missouri was especially hard on dairy farmers, many of whom were without electricity for 10 days.

Cattle perhaps were the principal victims of the severe winter. There appeared to be no over-all figures on cattle losses for the four state, but they were large. A sharp increase in the price of feed went along with the losses.

Ellis Freeney of the Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association said the feed price increase was as much as 25 to 50 per cent, adding "no one knows for sure about a death count on cattle.

"We do know we lost some of the lightweight feed cattle shipped in from the south. They normally have respiratory problems.

"I have heard some of our cattle producers say they expect a 5 to 10 per cent drop in calf production this year because of the weather," Freeney said. He added, however, Oklahoma "still will produce more beef this year than last."

In Kansas, above-normal feedlot deaths were reported in January and February. Hancock said the crop and livestock reporting service has no figures, but expressed belief losses actually were not as bad as had been feared.

Glen Peterson, marketing director of the Missouri Farm Bureau, said mud had reduced the weight gain of livestock, adding that if the moisture continues through the spring, even higher meat and grain prices can be expected.

Highways took a severe beating in all four states.

Nebraska's highways may be in their worst conditions since the advent of paving, said Walter Witt, State Roads Department.

"A number of our district engineers have told me we've never had it like this before. I'm sure it's one of the worst years for a long time, and as far as I can detect, it could be the worst."

Excessive moisture last fall, early snow, poor drying conditions and a continuing cycle of freezes and thaws combined to create havoc to the roadways.

Richard A. Ward, director of the Oklahoma Department of Highways, reported that by mid-February, the bill for weather damage was $5,906,347. Ward emphasized that figure was over and above the amount normally programmed for road maintenance. Other highway officials said more wet weather since has caused an additional $1 million damage.

John D. McNeal, Kansas highway engineer, said that state will require a good deal of maintenance patching, although no long sections of highway will need resurfacing as a result of weather damage.

Early fall wet weather prevented Kansas highway crews from getting some of the road sections waterproofed—patching cracks and filling seals.

"This is where the problems come from," McNeal said. "We didn't get this work done, so we've got more deterioration than usual."

Overtime paid Kansas road crews from December through February to keep roads clear was three times the amount paid for the same period the previous year.

Missouri highway officials say damage to roads and bridges resulting from bad weather is expected to be the worst in 10 years. Large-scale road and street damage also was reported in metropolitan Kansas City and St. Louis.

Paul A. Watkins Jr., public information officer for the Missouri Highway Commission, said the bill for snow and ice removal already has exceeded $3.8 million and should surpass the $5.4 million set last winter.

Streets of both Kansas City and St. Louis were riddled with pot holes and a lengthy early spring wet spell afforded no chance to fill the holes. Extensive damage also was reported to trees on streets and in the parks of the two cities, resulting primarily from ice storms.

Paul Spelbrink, St. Louis streets director, reported that by Jan. 15, the city had used as much salt on its streets as had been used all of last winter. The freeze-and-thaw pattern, affecting moisture accumulation in joints and cracks, severely damaged many streets, he said. The Kansas City Parks Department estimated 10,000 trees, or one in nine on city land, damaged. Private-land tree damage appeared comparable, all resulting from ice storms.

Monetary damage to trees on private property in Kansas City was estimated at $870,000. It also will cost an estimated $500,000 to remove limbs from damaged and downed trees.

Electric power interruptions and fuel shortages were another burden of the long, cold winter.

In Oklahoma, some areas recorded below-freezing temperatures from Jan. 4 to Jan. 12. Oklahoma Natural Gas Co., reported that by industry standards the season from Sept. 1, 1972 to March 13, 1973, was 14.6 per cent colder than normal and 10.3 per cent colder than the same period last year.

The company said that during the subfreezing period in January, service was curtailed to some industrial customers, while Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., reported similar curtailments to industries and schools for slightly more than a day during the same period.

There were widespread electrical and telephone outages in central Oklahoma during the first week of 1973, resulting from a severe ice storm.

A. C. Burrows, general manager of the Missouri Electric Cooperatives Association, said ice in southwest Missouri caused some $350,000 damage, including loss of about 500 utility poles.

The winter, severe as it was, was not a record break for Missouri. Although the state recorded 20 inches of snow and ice from November through February, the figure failed to top 1960, when there was 16 inches of snow on the ground at one period.

The prolonged cold, however, resulted in severe fuel shortages that in turn affected industry in some areas of the four states, especially in northwest Missouri.

Bitterly cold early-winter weather in Nebraska prompted Gov. J. J. Exon to plea for conservation of fuel by all citizens. The first week of December was especially cold with a temperature of 32 below zero recorded Dec. 6 at Agate, Neb.

The temperature moderated later in the winter, easing the fuel crisis somewhat. But it prevented artifical drying of grain, which increased crop losses.

Finally Reunited

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Singer Patrice Munsel has been reunited with her six-foot-long pet boa constrictor, which she inadvertently left behind for a day in a motel room.

"I just don't know how I could have forgotten it," Miss Munsel reportedly told Michigan State University officials when she learned of her loss.

Miss Munsel appeared in the musical "Applause" at MSU Tuesday and Wednesday.

Food Boycott Wins Support Here

A 68 to 31 per cent majority of The Democrat-Capital's readers who responded to the latest survey said they were in favor of a national boycott to bring food prices down. The survey was taken prior to President Nixon's announcement Thursday night that a ceiling on meat prices was being imposed.

Specifically, the survey asked: "In the face of rising food prices, some communities have organized boycotts to combat the increased costs of food stuff, especially meat. Do you sympathize with such action?"

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Phillips Jr., 2601 East 12th, wrote, "We feel that boycotting the supermarkets can and will help lower the high prices. We have already cut down on our meat buying and plan to boycott meat completely the first week of April. We also plan to continue longer, if necessary."

James Westermier, Route 1, had a different view. He wrote, "I think it is ridiculous to boycott food stuffs. The prices farmers receive . . . have increased 6 per cent in 20 years. Therefore, the high prices must be caused by labor. Has anyone hired a plumber or electrician lately? Or inquired as to the wages of a meat cutter or iron worker? Even take cigarettes — has there been a boycott on them?"

A reader who signed only initials on her letter, said, "Everything seems to be going up except Social Security and wages. I am very much for the boycott. I am for anything that will help lower food prices . . . Something should be done to stabilize or lower prices."

A letter of opposition came from Mrs. Elmer Helmig, Otterville. She and her husband operate Helmig's Hog Farm and she wrote, "When cattle were 48 cents and hogs were 40 cents, we were just getting 78 per cent of what our city cousins got. Why doesn't anyone complain and even boycott wages that carpenters, plumbers, electricians, doctors, lawyers and other people make?

"These women that complain about high meat prices don't complain about wigs, cothes, cigarettes or liquor. What's the difference? I would gladly invite them out to our farm to feed, water, move hogs, grind feed, put straw out for bedding, move the feeders. . . These women that complain about meat prices don't know how much the feed, feeders, fences and the equipment that it takes to feed hogs cost," she said.

An unidentified response said simply, "I have been wondering how high prices had to go before people started wanting to do something about it."

A reader who wants prices lower, but who asked to remain anonymous, wrote, "Yes, we are in full sympathy with the organized boycott movement — or any other civilized act which may help to curb or lower these food and utility prices."

Mrs. J. W. Twenter, 1907 South Quincy, wrote, "With a family of 12 you can well understand my feeling when I go to the store to get hamburger, only to find it has gone up again. In one week's time it went up from 69 cents to 85 cents per pound. My husband hasn't gotten any increase in wages, but the cost of living goes higher and higher. You cannot expect a hard-working man to work on a bowl of soup or stew and keep up his strength. He needs the nourishment of meat and other foodstuffs. . ."

Another writer opposed to the boycott asked to remain anonymous, but wrote, "I hadn't planned to get into this boycott over high prices. . .That is, until I read Tuesday's paper where a woman from North Carolina was reported as saying they couldn't afford meat in their household on a $12,000 income with a family of four.

"That's pure hogwash," she continued. "We raised a family of five and my husband makes more money now than he ever has — which is still half of what this North Carolina family has. Our children are married and have two and three children (of their own). None of them make that type of money. They all eat meat twice a day, make payments and have much more than when they were growing up at home."

She concluded with, "I think it's a darn shame the farmer has to be the culprit." She and her husband live on a rural route near Versailles.

Reduction In Prices Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Enforcement of the government's new meat price ceiling begins Monday, with President Nixon saying he wants meat prices to come down, not remain at their present level.

"You understand that it is a ceiling. We want them to come down," Nixon said Friday evening in arriving in California for a stay at the Western White House at San Clemente.

"They aren't going up, at least today," Nixon said in reference to his order Thursday putting price ceilings on beef, pork and lamb.

Meanwhile, some administration economists predicted the ceiling will continue through the summer when demand for cook-out meat is high.

The Cost of Living Council said Friday in announcing the enforcement start that 250 agents from the Internal Revenue Service will begin helping the council's regular staff of 2,500 enforce the ceiling.

Meat retailers will have another week, until April 9, to post meat ceiling prices.

A spokesman for the council said housewives themselves will be the main enforcers of the ceiling, they being the ones who can make sure a retailer is not selling above his ceiling price.

Suspected violations should be reported to local IRS offices, council director John P. Dunlop said.

Asked if controls would continue through the summer, one spokesman said: "That is one of the real possibilities."

Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns told Congress Friday that the ceiling will help tremendously in curbing food cost increases.

This Week in Business

Rising Prices Biggest News

BY DAVID BURKE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The uproar over rising meat prices captured the business spotlight the past week as President Nixon slapped price ceilings on wholesale and retail prices and housewives across the nation planned for a weeklong boycott.

Nixon imposed a ceiling on beef, pork and lamb prices which would keep them at around current levels while he seeks a permanent cure to spiralling food costs.

Meat boycott organizers said they still planned to carry out their consumer boycott beginning Sunday, charging that Nixon's action didn't go far enough. They are seeking a rollback in prices.

Meanwhile, farmers and meat raisers were planning meetings to decide what action to take. Earlier in the week, the influential National Farmers Organization told its members to withhold livestock from the market when news of the consumer boycott began driving down prices.

Besides meat prices, some stability appeared to develop with interest rates under a new plan for a dual prime lending rate by banks. Prime interest rates at most banks setled on 6½ per cent as the Nixon administration began working out a system that would allow banks to raise corporate lending rates according to market conditions but would keep a lid on rates for smaller borrowers.

A spokesman for the Committee on Interest and Dividends said guidelines for the dual rate would be issued within the next few weeks.

In other economic news during the week, members of the United Steelworkers of America, the nation's second largest labor organization, approved a far-reaching agreement with management that they said could do away with strikes and eliminate crisis contract bargaining.

The agreement calls for the industry to open negotiations on a new three-year contract seven months in advance of the expiration of the current contract. It provides that any issues not resolved by mid-April be submitted for binding arbitration. The agreement would also prohibit strikes during negotiations, except in cases involving local issues.

Economic reports out of Washington during the week presented a mixed picture. The government reported that its composite index of leading economic indicators rose 1.8 per cent in February, signalling the likelihood of continued strong economic gains in the months ahead. This reading followed a revised 1.4 per cent increase in January.

Negative news, however, came with the Commerce Department report that the U.S. trade deficit worsened in February to a seasonally adjusted $476.2 million from January's $303.8 million level. Exports rose 1.8 per cent to a record $5.06 billion, seasonally adjusted, but this was offset by a record climb in imports, which advanced 4.9 per cent to an adjusted $5.54 billion. Observers said the poorer showing in February was partly due to the Feb. 12 dollar devaluation, which resulted in higher import prices.

Financial Empire To Nothing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Financier Bart Lytton once had an empire with assets of $750 million, and his personal wealth at one time was estimated at $15 million.

Lytton died in 1969, but his estate wasn't closed until Friday. The final accounting: insolvent.

Lytton's widow, Beth, reported to Superior Court Judge Earl F. Riley that his only remaining wealth was his half-interest in the couple's community property, which totals $307,434.38 and includes a $201,000 house now being rented.

Mrs. Lytton said she had paid all her deceased husband's bills but had no money left to pay his heirs or their daughter, Mrs. Timothea Stewart, whom he owed $522,823.50.

Lytton, who lost control of his Lytton Savings & Loan Association and Lytton Financial Corp. in April 1968, died of a coronary condition his doctor said began when his financial empire began to fall apart.

More Farmers Participate in Program

By JACK SCHICHT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Despite new national policies designed to encourage farm production, more Pettis County farmers signed up for "set aside" wheat and feed grain programs this year than last year.

A total of 1,241 of the estimated 1,970 farmers in Pettis County enrolled in one or both of the programs this year, according to Dick Dalton, county executive director of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service. Sign-up for 1973 ended March 16.

Dalton compared this year's sign-up to last year, when about 1,200 Pettis County farmers participated in one or both the ASCS programs. "We're a shade higher than last year," he said.

Two set-aside plans were available to farmers under the 1973 feed grain program: a 25 per cent plan and a zero per cent plan. Last year farmers could exercise a number of options to set aside as much as 45 per cent of their total feed grain base in return for federal money.

With smaller set-aside requirements this year, the ASCS is encouraging more production of certain crops to level or reduce spiraling crop prices.

About 90 per cent of the farmers enrolled in this year's feed grain program chose the 25 per cent plan rather than the zero per cent option, Dalton said.

Under the zero per cent plan, farmers are not required to have any set-aside acreage. They must, however, maintain a conserving base and restrict their planting to no more feed grain acres (corn, milo, barley) than they planted last year.

Higher financial payments are available to farmers under the 25 per cent option. Besides a conserving base, farmers were required to set aside acreage equal to one-fourth their total feed grain base.

Since farmers enrolled in the zero per cent plan cannot plant more feed grain acres in 1973 than they actually had certified in 1972, the balance of the cropland may be planted in any crop other than feed grains.

According to Dalton, the zero per cent plan enables farmers to receive ASCS payments and yet utilize all their land, except the conserving base, in a high cash crop such as soybeans. In other words, the zero per cent plan encourages soybean planting in hopes that a larger supply of beans this summer might reduce the present high price of beans.

The MFA Central Cooperative here is presently paying about $5.80 per bushel for soybeans. The price quoted at the large markets is about 25 to 30 cents higher. Earlier this year soybean prices spiraled to an all-time high of about $6.40 per bushel.

If bean prices are still extremely high, and if the zero per cent program encourages soybean planting, why didn't more farmers enroll in the zero per cent program? Dalton said there are four possible reasons:

Federal officials didn't decide until Feb. 2 to come out with the zero per cent program. Many farmers didn't fully understand the program, partly because the local ASCS office could not sponsor any public meetings on the program due to the late date it was introduced, Dalton said.

The plan would not be advantageous to livestock raisers since they usually leave land out of production for pasture anyway, he said. Thus, many livestock producers signed up for the 25 per cent option in order to utilize their set-aside acreage as pasture land next winter and still get paid for the set-aside acreage.

A third reason, according to Dalton, is the fear that overproduction of soybeans may force a decline in the present market price.

And similarly, the fear of limited soybean seed and the high seed costs may have caused some farmers to consider the advantages of the 25 per cent plan.

Sam Young, MFA exchange manager, said he doesn't expect the demand for soybeans to exceed the supply here. However, he said there may be a shortage of the costlier, higher-yielding seed bean.

Another co-op manager, Norman Trautman of AG Co-op Services Inc., also predicted that area farmers would be able to purchase as much seed as they desire. Trautman, however, said that the demand for soybean seed may increase if recent wet weather delays or halts early corn planting.

He said sales have been brisk in soybeans so far this year even though the seed beans are selling for about $8.50 to $9.50 per bushel. Last year, he said, seed beans were selling for a half or less than current prices.

Young said one reason why the demand for seed beans may be unexpectedly low (due to the high market prices) is because farmers today are becoming more varied in their crop selection and are less likely to devote their entire acreage to one crop. Young said many farmers also have "a lot of beans left in their bins" to meet their seed demands.

Four in Race For School Board Seats

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KNOB NOSTER — Voters here Tuesday will select two of four candidates to fill vacancies on the local Board of Education this Tuesday.

The candidates are Ray Morris, Chuck Foffel, Roger Boyle and John Bill Hurd.

There will be no school levy increase proposal on the ballot this year, it was announced. Voters will cast their ballots at city hall.

Golden Agers Hold Dinner Gathering

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LaMONTE — A contributive dinner was held for the LaMonte Golden Agers Wedneday night at the Christian Church here, with 65 of the members attending.

Included in the program was a music presentation by the junior high girls whose songs centered around the subject of ecology. Following the songs, Professor Ordell Sholl and Howard Blakely gave talks on the school levy to be voted on during Tuesday's elections.

April 16 was declared "Spring Clean-Up Day." Those persons requiring trash pickups should contact Theresa Forbes.

The next meeting of the Golden Agers will be May 25 at the Methodist Church.

House Passes Bill For Longer, Heavier Trucks

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The Kansas House passed a pair of bills Friday that would allow longer and heavier trucks on the state's highways, while the Senate passed a total of 26 bills and two resolutions, including one resolution calling for a legislative study of operations and conditions in the state's four penal institutions and 11 state hospitals and juvenile facilities.

Besides the truck bills, the House gave tentative approval Friday to a bill designed to increase the amount of money the state collects in interest in its inactive funds and another measure that would bring members of the legislature into the Kansas Public Employes Retirement System (KPERS) on a contributing basis.

Both measures will be up for final roll-calls in the lower chamber Monday.

Both houses of the legislature were in session all day Friday, as the legislature concluded its next-to-last full week.

The truck bills, passed 94-24 and 88-29, now go to the desk of Gov. Robery Docking for his signature.

One of the bills would increase the maximum length for a truck tractor and semi-trailer from 55 feet to 60 feet. The other would increase the maximum permissable axle weight from 18,000 to 20,000 pounds for a single axle and from 32,000 to 34,000 pounds for a tandem axle.

Opponents of the measures contend that the heavier trucks would tend to accelerate the deterioration of the state's roads and highways.

The House also passed and sent back to the Senate for consideration of House-added amendments a bill setting up procedures for the governor and lieutenant governor to be nominated and elected as a team. The measure also spells out elective four-year terms for state treasurer and insurance commissioner as well as for the constitutionally elective offices of governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and secretary of state.

The elections bill, passed 76-45, was designed, in part, to implement the Executive Article approved by the state's voters last November.

The House also passed a bill authorizing the issuance of state indentification cards to non-drivers 16 years of age or older who request them. The bill also provides for optional use of a black and white picture of the person on his driver's license or identification card for an additional 50 cent fee.

Suggests Soyburger

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "I'm glad meat's high," says Lynne Morvant, a former stockholder turned health food restaurant owner. "It's a vegetarian's market now."

She suggests a soyburger instead—for health's sake and for price.

Her French Quarter restaurant, "Jerusalem Gardens," offers a 50 cent special meatless meal.

"Meat's dangerous, anyway," she said. "Meat is not easy to digest, has uric acid and is shot full of harmful hormones and antibiotics."

There are plenty of healthy, high-protein meat substitutes for the beleaguered housewife who wants to join a nationwide meat boycott, Miss Morvant said. With the substitutes, the old food budget would get a new look, she added.

"Money could be tucked away at home instead of some grocery store cash register," she said.

Soyburgers for example.

"Just get some soy flour at a health food store, mix it with water, onions and any seasoning you like, make patties and fry them," she explained.

What about an avid hamburger eater? Would he like soyburguers?

"Well, they would taste different, but good. And after a couple of them, they'd taste better," she said.

"We make meals here exciting and good. Vegetarians enjoy meals so much as any fat gourmet, and are much better off —both in the pocketbook and healthwise."

As for the pocketbook, soybean flour goes for 50 cents a pound. "And, I don't have to tell you what a pound of hamburger costs," she added.

How about health?

"That's the whole thing," said the 31-year-old businesswoman. "I mean, I was really sick a couple of years ago, gulping tons of coffee, booze, eating hamburgers all the time, and getting sicker. I feel great now."

Say 2 Sites Possible For Nuclear Plant

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The search for a place to build Union Electric Co.'s first nuclear generating plant has been narrowed to two possible sites, but the sites will be kept secret until a choice is made, the company's executive vice president said Friday.

Earl K. Dille said the company had considered about 30 sites before narrowing the search to two locations. He said the two final sites being considered will be kept secret to prevent land speculation.

Ben Senturia Jr., executive vice president of the St. Louis Coalition for the Environment, charged at a federal hearing in St. Louis earlier in the week that Union Electric had already chosen its site. He said it was a tract of land north of the city, possibly as far as Hannibal.

"He's wrong," Dille said Friday. "We were considering a site in that area, but it's been ruled out."

"The only thing I can say is that neither of the two sites still under consideration are near the metropolitan area," he said.

Would you like to earn $10,000 to $17,000 a year as a salesman? You can do it right here in the Sedalia area. No overnight travel. We offer a comprehensive two year training program. There is an opportunity for rapid advancements.

We pay a guaranteed starting salary of $650 a month. A bonus plan makes it possible to earn in excess of $10,000 and more during the first year. Many of our people earn a substantial amount of money over these figures.

A sales background and a college education are desirable but certainly not essential. We have no particular requirements. We are looking for honest, hard-working married man who has an excellent appearance and meets people well. An interest in sports will help.

Take a few minutes and write me a letter and tell me about yourself. Larry Hoffman, R 2, Sedalia, Mo. 65301

PRESTIGE OPPORTUNITY
Every so often, perhaps only once in a lifetime, an opportunity presents itself to the individual which may never occur again. Frequently, the person who has gained wealth, independence, respect, and security in his community through his business, has done so simply by virtue of being in the right place at the right time, and having at that moment, the common sense and timing to take advantage of his opportunity. How many times have we looked at others around us, seemingly more fortunate in life than we, yet certainly no more able or intelligent, and asked ourselves — why that person? Many times the answer is — being in the right place at the right time, or getting in at the beginning, or making a decision when a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity appears. We have that opportunity to offer to the individual who can meet our requirements. If you have the required minimum investment of $2500, and would like additional information, send your name, address and phone number to: The Thomas Company, 1400 E. Touhy Ave., Des Plaines, Ill. 60018. Or, call, 312-298-7880.

Baby Still Missing

The nightmare that began Jan. 20 when 11-month -old Thomas Michael Lauver Jr., right, was kidnaped by a knife-wielding abductor, sketch at left, hasn't ended for Mrs. Francis Lauver, who is still waiting for some word from somewhere about her baby. At the time of the kidnaping in a shopping center parking lot in Modesto, Calif., Mrs. Lauver was asked for her address by the abductor who said he would return the child if she did not report anything to authorities. Since then there has been nothing to do but wait. (UPI)

Spokesman SaysFood Stamp Talk Nonsense

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is hearing complaints that poor people are using food stamps extravagantly at meat counters, but a welfare-group spokesman says the talk is nonsense.

A boost in food-stamp benefits, amounting to an extra $4 per month for a family of four, will go into effect July 1. Critics of the program, in letters to the department, claim that such increases only fuel higher supermarket prices.

"I don't believe that," says Mrs. Johnnie Tillmon, executive director of the National Welfare Rights Organization. "People don't abuse the bonuses (extra stamps), because they aren't all that much."

Further, Mrs. Tillmon said, the increased stamp benefits will not offset higher food prices. Those, she said, have already outstripped the increase.

The Food and Nutrition Service in USDA, which administers the food-stamp program, says the number of complaint letters is relatively small but is increasing. A typical example:

"If you will just walk behind them (food-stamp shoppers) in the grocery store, you will see them at the meat counter selecting the most-choice meats. They don't even look at the prices, they just load the buggy to the top. You don't even hear them complain about prices."

Mrs. Tillmon, who described herself as a one-time stamp user, said those claims are made by people who do not realize that food-stamp users shop only twice a month, and that often they have to feed large families.

The food-stamp program, now serving about 12.4 million persons, has been expanded greatly since 1969 at the insistence of Congress. Under it, qualified families can buy a specified amount of stamps and then receive bonus coupons to increase their purchasing power in grocery stores.

Officials say the number of complaint letters has increased substantially in recent months, a time when retail food prices—particularly for meat—have risen the sharpest in history.

State Fair Community College Needs Your Support!

VOTE YES!

FOR THE SFCC TAX LEVY ON APRIL 3

YES ☒
NO ☐

A "YES" VOTE TO RETAIN THE PRESENT LEVY WILL NOT INCREASE YOUR TAXES

The present levy is not an increase in taxes. By state law, when a Junior College District exceeds $100 million assessed valuation, the Board of Trustees may levy only 30¢ on the $100 assessed valuation. State Fair Community College has now reached that level and voter approval is necessary to maintain the present 40¢ level of support.

ALLOW SFCC TO CONTINUE TO PROVIDE LOW-COST EDUCATION

Studies have shown that it costs less to attend college at State Fair, rather than attending educational institutions located in other parts of the state.

VOTE AT YOUR LOCAL SCHOOL ELECTION POLLING PLACE

If you are in doubt about the location, call the County Clerk's Office. Benton County—438-7326. Pettis County—826-5395.

The annual college budget has increased over the last five years while local tax rates have remained at the same level. The percentage of local support has decreased from 60% in 1968-69 to 23% during 1972-73. The proposed levy would require no increase in local taxes and would maintain the same level of local support.

SFCC HAS GROWN FROM 240 STUDENTS IN 1968-69 TO A PROJECTED TOTAL OF 1000 IN 1973-74

SFCC OFFERS THESE COURSES TO DISTRICT RESIDENTS

Community college programs include freshman and sophomore college transfer courses; remedial and developmental courses; adult and continuing education; and vocational-technical career courses, including instruction in the areas of agriculture, health, industrial technology and business. These programs produce skilled, educated persons who fulfill vital local needs.

FOR WALTER CRONKITE

I'm 17 years old, and I've already decided what I want out of life—your job. How did you get it, and what do you recommend I do to acquire it?—Jack Pfister, Midland, Texas

● I'm all for you going out after my job. I got it through a lot of luck—and being in the right place at the right time. But I also had the background to take advantage of that break, and that means a broad general education, and a lot of experience as a newspaper and press-service reporter. I don't know any other course to recommend to you.

FOR ELIZABETH ALLEN of "The Paul Lynde Show"

Of all of the people you have worked with, who was the most fun?—J. Lang, Vancouver, Wash.

● Peter Ustinov, who directed me in my first Broadway play, "Romanoff and Juliet." [Editor's note: By a curious coincidence, Elizabeth Allen replaced Elizabeth Montgomery in the "Romanoff" cast. Elizabeth is the ex-wife of Bill Asher, who is now producing the Paul Lynde show! That's show biz!]

FOR WILLIAM PETER BLATTY, author of "The Exorcist"

Are there any plans in the near future for filming "The Exorcist"? If so, would it have to be watered down in order to present it on the screen?—B. McFann, Buena Park, Calif.

● We've been filming "The Exorcist" since September and it should be released in the late fall of 1973. I have written the screenplay and am producing it. It won't be watered down. It will offend only the ignorant and humble of brain.

FOR ANTHONY QUINN

I read somewhere you're a holy terror with your kids' teachers. True?—Mary Paulsen, Pittsburgh, Pa.

● Probably—with some "art" teachers. I've made it a law: Don't touch my kids as painters! In one school my son was told to paint a house, and he did—a very wild drawing. The teacher told him: "That's not a house. A house has a roof, a chimney, a door, a path here, a tree there." I was furious! That scribble was my son's language. And I want him to speak it, not someone else's.

FOR DENISE NICHOLAS, costar of "Room 222"

Do you think of yourself, first of all, as a black?—M.L.J., Ft. Worth, Texas

● First I consider myself a woman, then an actress, thirdly a black person.

FOR PETER FALK, actor

I have watched many of your "Columbo" series shows where you say something about your wife. Yet there's never any sign of her. How come?—Kathy Maynes, Wappingers Falls, N.Y.

● So far there's been no need to see a Mrs. Columbo in any of the scripts. Maybe it's because, with Women's Lib, I'd have to let her help me solve cases.

FOR SENATE MINORITY WHIP ROBERT GRIFFIN (R-Mich.)

I read that plenty of workers lose pensions because their bosses go out of business. How many?—J. N., Kenosha, Wis.

● One study says 25,000 every year. It has been pointed out that this is only about one-tenth of one percent of all the workers covered by pension plans. But which is more important, statistics or lives?

FOR WILLIAM SCHUYLER, JR.,
former U.S. patent commissioner

I've perfected an invention that I'm convinced could make me rich—but I hear that the Government is out to kill patent-ownership protection. True?—F. R. D., North Platte, Neb.

● Unfortunately there are persons trying to convince Congress that inventors shouldn't have ownership over their inventions. If they're successful, I can't see why small inventors like you (who own about 21 percent of patent grants) will have reason "to build a better mousetrap."

FOR FAYE DUNAWAY

I hear you worked as a cocktail waitress for a while. How did you handle men when they became fresh?—Jean Davis, Columbus, Ohio

● To discourage them, I usually wore a wedding ring. If that didn't do the trick, I told them I had to get home right after work to look after my three children.

Three Tours of Disney World for People Who "Just Don't Have Enough Time"

So you'd like to take the family to Disney World this year. But you're wondering: Is it really worth it? Will you have enough time to take in all the sights? How much will it cost?

Here are three planned "visits" or "tours" of Disney World—for one day, two days and three days. Read these suggestions and plan accordingly.

ONE-DAY TOUR

For a one-day visit to Walt Disney World, the famous Magic Kingdom with its 35 adventures and shows will probably occupy all of your time. The Magic Kingdom is the focal point of the 2,500-acre Disney World.

For tickets, in-the-know visitors suggest the eight-adventure ticket book (priced from $4.40-$5.40, depending on age) for the average visit, or the 12-adventure book (priced from $5.30 to $6.30) for a complete morning-to-evening tour.

What will you do? Well, at Walt Disney World, of course, part of the fun is getting there, since you have a choice of unusual transportation from the main parking area across or around the 250-acre Seven Seas Lagoon, to reach the entrance of the entertainment area. There are old-fashioned ferries reminiscent of Staten Island or San Francisco Bay, sleek electric monorail trains or intriguing motor-drawn trams leaving constantly.

A guided tour is especially recommended for adults on their first visit. It costs $7.20 for a three-hour tour that includes seven of the top adventures and passes through each of the six major lands – Main Street, Adventureland, Frontierland, Liberty Square, Fantasyland and Tomorrowland.

Since Magic Kingdom hours vary by the seasons, you'll do well to check them the day before you arrive.

TWO-DAY TOUR

For an overnight stay at Walt Disney World, you may choose the Contemporary Resort hotel, the Polynesian Village or Ft. Wilderness Campgrounds. Even if you choose to stay at a hotel off the grounds, you should mark the Disney World hotels on your calendar for dining and entertainment.

Showboat Cruises on side-wheelers carry visitors around Disney World.

Each hotel has a show. The Top of the World at the Contemporary features a dinner show with top-name entertainment.

Want to stay at the campgrounds? Fine. Monorails and colorful launches connect you with all the other entertainment and recreational spots in the park.

One popular after-dinner activity is the Showboat Cruise on an authentic side-wheel steamer around the waters of the "World." And if you are in the campgrounds, you'll enjoy the nightly campfires beginning at 7 or 7:30, according to the season. The campfire is literally that, with singing, dancing and storytelling in an audience-participation format, topped off with a Walt Disney feature film.

Plan your next day in advance. You may want to play golf on one of the two 18-hole PGA courses, or go horseback riding in Ft. Wilderness, or go sailing or motorboating, or go back to the Magic Kingdom for adventures missed the first day. Special two-day ticket and admission books are available to hotel and campground guests.

THREE-DAY TOUR

A two-night stay in the Vacation Kingdom gives you wide freedom of choice. For instance, you can enjoy the Polynesian Village's luau one night and the sophistication of the Top of the World the next.

When you arrive, pick up a copy of the Walt Disney World News. This will give you a complete schedule. There are also special Guest Activities hostesses in the hotel lobbies. These girls can help you choose and make reservations.

Here is a sample three-day schedule that allows for easy rearranging to suit your taste.

First Day: Arrive at Contemporary Resort hotel at 3 p.m. Check in, make plans and reservations, then take monorail to Magic Kingdom. Feed children in Magic Kingdom before departing, but save yourself for a later dinner. Back at hotel, arrange for babysitter for younger children at the Musketeer Clubhouse, or leave older ones in Exhibitorium for double-feature Disney movies and cartoons.

Adults head for Top of the World dinner show, enjoying excellent cuisine, as well as a breathtaking view of the Kingdom at night.

Next morning, save time by eating at one of the buffet services in either hotel –or at the excellent buffet at the Top of the World. Then it's back to the Magic Kingdom. You'll be way ahead by arriving as close to opening as possible. Enjoy things like "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" submarines, the Country Bear Jamboree or Jungle Cruise as early as possible to avoid waiting.

Later in the morning, you'll have time to catch features like "If You Had Wings," "It's a Small World" or the Mickey Mouse Revue. You'll also want to see two brand-new attractions –the impressive Walt Disney Story and adventurous Tom Sawyer Island with its mysterious caves, climbing rocks and hiking trails reached by big log rafts.

Toward noon, head back to the hotel and a quick lunch before dividing up for favorite sports.

An authentic South Seas luau on the beach at the Polynesian Village is on tap for the second night. You will also have a chance to see Walt Disney World's famous Electrical Water Pageant with lighted sea serpents. There's also an after-dark water-ski show across the lagoon.

For a late-night treat, there's a moonlight Showboat Cruise aboard a romantic side-wheel steamboat.

The third morning will give you a chance for a final look at the Magic Kingdom and shopping in the intriguing stores, where you'll find everything from antique chess sets to Mickey Mouse ears. You can also see some of the adventures you may have missed earlier, including the Enchanted Tiki birds in the Sunshine Pavilion, Peter Pan's Flight and the Skyway journey high above the whole world of Disney creations.

A Chiropractor's Treasury of HEALTH SECRETS

Yes, Dear Friend:

How would you like to sit down with licensed Chiropractor, Dr. Samuel Homola, and ask him such vital questions about your health as:

"Can I erase the wrinkles on my face?"
"Can I get a thicker and healthier head of hair?"
"Can I strengthen my eyesight and vision?"
"Can I rejuvenate my glands and organs?"

. . . and have him give you full, honest, detailed answers to everything you want to know? Now, admittedly these things are contrary to commonly accepted medical thinking. And yet Dr. Samuel Homola says they are within the realm of possibility for the average man or woman. And he reports on all these things—and more—in "A Chiropractor's Treasury of Health Secrets".

Here's What A Medical Doctor Says About These HEALTH SECRETS

Paul-Emile Chevrefils, M.D. says in the Foreword to this book: "As a practicing physician, I recommend A Chiropractor's Treasury of Health Secrets to anyone who wants to add years to his life. Every page is based on scientific principles."

75 Photos And Drawings Illustrate Self-Help Methods Anyone Can Use!

In These Pages, Dr. Homola Says—

- "You don't have to suffer from constipation . . ."
- "You can reduce your blood pressure . . ."
- "You can get rid of that nagging backache . . ."
- You can try a secret that "will give you a 'new' pair of feet"
- "You should literally erase the wrinkles on your face . . ." with one of these secrets
- You may use this same secret "for a thicker and healthier head of hair . . ."
- You can "cope with arthritis effectively and painlessly. . . . New facts suggest new treatments for quick relief of symptoms...soothing relief for sore and swollen arthritic joints."

"Immediately following one of these methods," says Dr. Homola, "it's not at all uncommon for a patient to say that he can 'see better'."

And all these "Health Secrets" are yours for the reading. Simply fill out and mail the No-Risk Coupon—and you will receive Dr. Homola's book to read from cover to cover, without your risking a single cent!

But first I'd like to tell you more about this book, for that is the only way you will be able to judge its usefulness to you. In reporting its Contents, we make no claims—but rather invite the readers—FREE OF RISK—to examine it and discuss any or all of it with their own doctors.

In these pages, you'll discover . . .

"How To Improve Your Health And Relieve Your Aches And Pains"

Here, in Chapter 1, Dr. Homola states: "All of the home-treatments in this book can be carried out without expensive equipment or medication . . ."

"All of the various methods described in this book have been found to be safe and effective," says Dr. Homola. "Anyone can use them without fear of pain or injury."

"Every chapter outlines a complete self-help technique for a specific ailment," he promises. "If you are stricken with acute pain or illness, you should, of course, see your doctor," he says, to make sure self-help measures would help you. "In the care of certain ailments, they may be more effective than medication, in providing relief from symptoms."

In these pages, Dr. Homola reports on—

SPECIAL CARE FOR VARICOSE VEINS—The drugless treatment that Dr. Homola reports on "may be done easily and conveniently," he says, and is "an effective way to reduce swelling."

HOW TO CARE FOR HEMORRHOIDS—"Since rectal hemorrhoids or 'piles' are also really varicose veins," says Dr. Homola, this same technique "will help drain the accumulated blood" to help relieve discomfort.

A SKIN IMPROVEMENT SECRET—Dr. Homola reports on a common food substance that may prevent dry skin and brittle hair and nails. He also reports on a health secret he says "will improve skin tone". One lady who used it following her regular bath reported that her skin took on the "loving glow" of a baby.

AN APHRODISIAC—Dr. Homola reports on a certain tea that he says, "contains hormone-like (testosterone) substances that stimulate the male sex glands" and is available from health food stores . . . and also a common candy which he says is "believed to have a stimulating effect on female estrogenic hormones."

ARM & SHOULDER PAIN RELIEF—"Pain in some portion of your shoulder, arm, or hand . . . can very often be relieved" with a simple method requiring little more than some ordinary string and sand.

RELIEVING HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE—"You can . . . reduce your blood pressure and slow your heart rate," reports Dr. Homola. And he reports on a number of methods said to do this; one, for example, a common seasoning that he says "tends to lower blood pressure as well as prevent hardening of the arteries."

Elsewhere in this book, Dr. Homola reports on "How to Banish Recurring Headache," "Relieving Cramps and Gas Pains," "How to Strengthen Your Heart for Longer Life and Better Health," "How to Strike Out the Common Cold," "How to Use Home Treatment to Cure Your Backache," "How to Improve Your Health with Leg and Foot Care," "How to Stop Needless Suffering from Hernia," as well as methods said to relieve ulcers, gall bladder trouble, insomnia, anemia, and poor circulation.

There is even a method with which Dr. Homola says "you can take in a proportionately greater number of calories without gaining weight."

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr. Samuel Homola is an outstanding authority on the treatment of common and uncommon ailments through drugless healing. A graduate of the Lincoln Chiropractic College, he is the author of four books, including Backache: Home Treatment and Prevention, Muscle Training for Athletes, and Bonesetting, Chiropractic and Cultism, as well as over 200 articles on backache, physical fitness, and related subjects for professional and health magazines.

In addition to maintaining a full-time practice in Panama City, Florida, Dr. Homola is a staff writer for Strength & Health and Muscular Development and contributes articles regularly to such magazines as Scholastic Coach.

Dr. Homola is a well-known authority on the training of athletes, and has developed many new and original techniques for building better health.

Here Are Some Of The Many Case Histories Reported In Dr. Homola's Book:

STOMACH CRAMPS RELIEVED—"A traveling salesman who suffered from stomach cramps whenever he had a bad day could relieve his discomfort" by using a method described on p. 28, says Dr. Homola.

COLITIS & HEADACHE RELIEVED—"In another case a school teacher who suffered from colitis and headaches could relieve her symptoms" by following this same method, writes Dr. Homola.

RIDS SELF OF CONSTIPATION—Malcolm E. took laxatives regularly. He was addicted to them and felt he could not do without them. He was sleepy, tired and "bloated" all the time, and appeared to be getting worse. "I took this patient off laxatives," reports Dr. Homola, "and suggested he follow the recommendations in this chapter . . . After several weeks he was normal once again."

RELIEVES HEART PAIN—"Bill C., an attorney, was only 45, but he had already suffered a slight heart attack. His doctor actually recommended many of the measures outlined in Chapter 6 . . . and after faithful adherence to this program . . . his blood cholesterol was back to normal and he no longer had chest pains when he exerted himself."

RELIEVES LEG PAIN—Mrs. M. S., a 43-year-old supermarket cashier complained of leg pain. Yet after using a simple method Dr. Homola tells you about in Chapter 10, "all of her aches and pains were relieved with a single treatment."

RELIEVES ARTHRITIC SYMPTOMS—"A 68-year-old retired railroad man complained that he was so stiff when he got out of bed in the morning he could hardly move. And the more he rested, the stiffer he became. He relieved his stiffness, however, with a method described in Chapter 7. 'I feel much better now," he remarks, and he is able to take walks and go swimming."

STIFF FINGERS RELIEVED—"A 52-year-old cosmetics sales lady who tried this technique said that it relieved the soreness and stiffness in her fingers when nothing else seemed to help," reports Dr. Homola.

SHOULDER & SPINE PAIN RELIEVED—"A postal clerk, 38 years of age, who had to stand long hours sorting mail, complained of 'pain and pressure' in the portion of his spine between his shoulder blades. After using this method, he reported complete relief from pain," says Dr. Homola.

RELIEVES BACKACHE—When all else had failed, a 68-year-old retired business executive who had suffered a compression fracture in his spine many months earlier "was able to relieve his backache as well as his leg pain," with a method revealed in Chapter 9.

"Simple self-help measures," says Dr. Homola, "can save you time and money as well as relieve pain and disability. . . . Every chapter is filled with effective self-help methods."

As More Examples, Dr. Homola Reports On . . .

"HOW TO RELIEVE PAIN OF MIGRAINE"—Do you suffer from recurring headaches of unknown cause—accompanied by nausea, weakness, restlessness or irritability? Do you see a kind of hazy aura or "spots" before your eyes—just before a bad headache? When it begins, it is usually on one side of the head, with a swollen, painful artery sometimes visible on that side? If so, you may be suffering from migraine, Dr. Homola says. In these pages, he reveals simple methods migraine sufferers have used for relief of symptoms.

"A CASE HISTORY OF LEG PAIN"—"A 68-year-old judge complained of pain in his calves when he walked more than a few yards. 'I can walk about a block,' he said, 'and then my legs start aching. After I sit down for a while, I can walk another block before they start aching again.' X-ray examination of his legs revealed that the arteries traveling down the back of his knees and calves were so hard and calcified that they could be clearly seen . . . his calf muscles simply ached from poor circulation and lack of oxygen," reports Dr. Homola. By following a method reported by Dr. Homola, he relieved this condition and increased the endurance of his legs so that he could walk several blocks without trouble.

"HOW A MOTHER RELIEVES HER 'FEMALE TROUBLES'"—A 31 year old mother, complaining of pelvic trouble and painful menstruation, according to Dr. Homola, "was able to relieve her symptoms" by using a simple device that can be made easily or purchased at a store inexpensively—which "restored circulation by removing pressure" from her abdominal organs.

"HOW TO STOP NEEDLESS SUFFERING FROM HERNIA"—Charlie B. suffered from a hernia, as did Bonnie J. Mr. B., a salesman, began to experience a little soreness and swelling in his right groin, for no apparent reason. The doctor told him, "If that bulge gets any bigger, it may have to be repaired surgically." Mr. B. was flabbergasted. "How could I have a hernia?" he asked. "I haven't done anything to strain myself." Bonnie J., a housewife, also developed a hernia in the groin. "I thought only men had hernias in that part of the body," she said. "Luckily," writes Dr. Homola, "both were able to 'cure' their hernias using the simple secrets described in this chapter."

In Our Land of Breathtaking Highways...

Are These Roads Our Most Scenic?

By T. K. Irwin

One of the nation's last frontiers, a thousand square miles of wild beauty, opened up to vacationing motorists last Labor Day when the brand-new North Cascades Highway was finally completed. Cutting through the North Cascades National Park, the spectacular road connects north central Washington with the Pacific Coast. In this area, often called the American Alps, fur trappers and gold prospectors once made their way by foot or horse over the rugged terrain. Now touring motorists drive on the paved highway along deep-blue lakes, glacier-strewn slopes above flowering meadows, the awesome Pasayeten Wilderness and steep cliffs where the roadway seems suspended in midair.

Exciting? You bet. Elsewhere in the nation other highways offer different breathtaking panoramas that make driving on vacation both enjoyable and rewarding. And in this automotive age, pleasure driving, according to the President's Council on Recreation and Natural Beauty, has become the leading recreation in the U.S., accounting for 42 percent of all outdoor pastimes.

You and millions of other Americans can enjoy these trips largely because modern highway builders are being careful to save and enhance the environment of areas involved. In the Federal Highway Administration's program, one out of every eight Federal-aid dollars spent on improving roads goes to landscaping, conserving wildlife, creating parks, roadside rests and other recreational amenities.

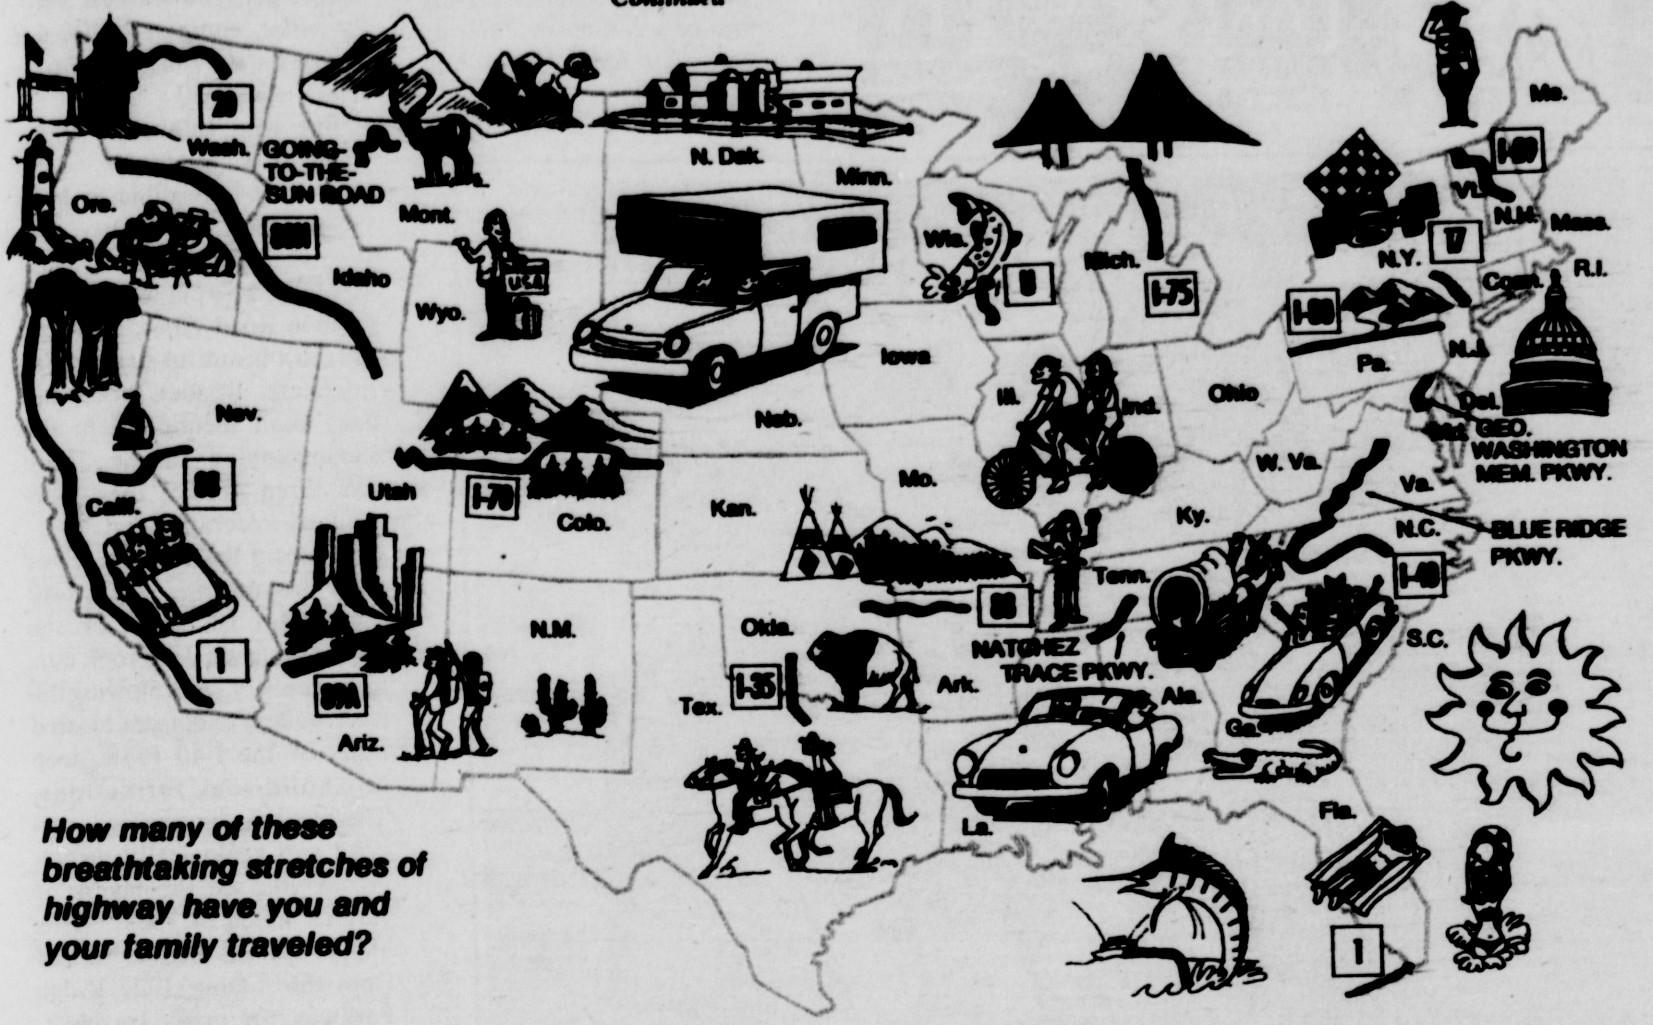
Are These America's Most Scenic Roads?

Continued



How many of these breathtaking stretches of highway have you and your family traveled?

To get the most fun out of your family's driving vacation, you should know where to go for radiant views from the road as well as for stimulating places to visit along the way. For the past five years the U.S. Department of Transportation has been staging annual beauty contests for the most noteworthy aesthetic results in retaining roadside ecology. Some of the winners are among the following roads, rated by the environmentalists and highway planners as among the most magnificent in the United States.

Arizona. Running south from Flagstaff, U.S. 89A winds through Oak Creek Canyon. Flanked by brilliant cliffs and dense forests, the highway has been acclaimed as one of Arizona's prettiest.

Arkansas. State Highway 88 meanders through Ouachita National Forest in western Arkansas. In the 1.5-million-acre forest, partly in Oklahoma, you will come across historic Indian lands, medicinal springs, mountains and lakes.

California. The longest coastal road, State Route 1, passes through the Monterey Peninsula, Carmel and the famous Big Sur coastal area south of Salinas. Stop at San Simeon, the dramatic hilltop castle of William Randolph Hearst. One section of #1, the "Avenue of the Giants" in the north, spirals through large groves of giant redwoods in Humboldt Redwoods State Park. You may also want to explore award-winning State 89 after it crosses into California from Nevada south of Lake Tahoe, then goes on to historic Carson Pass into Hope Valley.

Colorado. I-70 serves as a major gateway to Denver. Driving west you'll see the Rockies in overpowering splendor. Don't miss the fantastic geological display of countless tilted layers of multicolored rock, graphically illustrating the natural forces that created the mountain chain.

Florida. In the Florida Keys, U.S. 1, known as "The Overseas Highway," spans about 120 miles from Key Largo to Key West. The elevated causeway goes through Grassy Key, Kay Colony Beach, Marathon and Pirates' Cove. Great fishing, enticing beaches.

Montana. The sublime Going-to-the-Sun Road in Glacier National Park, from St. Mary to West Glacier, straddles the Continental Divide at Logan Pass (alt. 6,664 feet) and includes awe-inspiring sights of the Lewis Range and Lake McDonald. Glaciers, a great profusion of plants and animals, miles of natural wonders.

New York. Driving along the two-level State Route 17 in south central New York, you'll appreciate the quiet beauty of the Catskill Mountain valleys. On the way, stop by Mark Twain's home near Southport, the Watkins Glen auto races and baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown.

North Carolina. The Blue Ridge Parkway will be an enriching experience as you leisurely drive 469 miles through the Blue Ridge mountain range from Shenandoah National Park to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

Oregon. Interstate 80N offers superb sights of the Columbia River Gorge. The river, followed by explorers Lewis and Clark in 1805-06, flows toward the Pacific. This highway juts off from cross-country I-80 in Salt Lake City, traverses southern Idaho and northern Oregon to Portland. While in Oregon, note that U.S. 101 follows the state's 400-mile coastline, with inspiring vistas, access to beaches, lighthouses and Pacific vacation spots.

Pennsylvania. Take the "Keystone Shortway," I-80 —a 312-mile segment of the 2,900-mile transcontinental I-80 (from Stroudsburg at the New Jersey border to Sharon, Pa.)—which takes you through the picture-book Poconos and across the Susquehanna and Allegheny rivers. Pause to study the astonishing rock formations in the Nescopek Pass, southwest of Wilkes Barre.

Tennessee. The 35-year-old Natchez Trace Parkway stretches 450 miles from Nashville, Tenn., across Alabama, to Natchez, Miss. An "elongated national park," the highway follows an old Indian trail that once was a vital route for early Americans.

Utah. Although it's incomplete, I-70 enters the state near Harley Dome and ends at Cove Fort. As it coils through the San Rafael Swell you'll meet spectacles of raw nature, especially from the "Ghost Rocks" safety rest area.

Vermont-New Hampshire. Amid Vermont's majestic rolling mountains, I-89 runs 191 miles from Concord, N.H., to Montpelier and Burlington, Vt., close to Lake Champlain, then to the Canadian border.

Virginia. The George Washington Memorial Parkway near Washington, D.C., wanders along the Virginia bank of the Potomac for 31 miles, from McLean to Mount Vernon. Incomparable views of the Potomac, with the capital as the backdrop.

Washington State. Take North Cascades Highway (State 20). If you plan to drive the 92 miles from Winthrop on the east of North Cascades National Park to Marblemount on the west, give yourself at least half a day in which to do it. At Winthrop, a Western frontier trading post has been reincarnated, complete with horse-watering trough and boardwalks. There are breathtaking lookouts from Washington Pass (north of Winthrop), hiking trails at Rainy Pass, recreation sites and campgrounds along the way. You'll drive by mountain peaks bearing such forbidding names as Mount Terror, Mount Fury and Mount Despair.

Wisconsin. County Highway "U" over Knapp's Creek in Richland County won an award for an outstanding road in its rural setting. It holds a special lure for fishermen. Here, highway designers and fish specialists combined talents to improve the trout habitat and retain the serenity of this peaceful valley.

Of course, this is just a partial roster of the nation's aesthetically attractive highways. They all prove that modern roads can be both utilitarian and beautiful, fitting harmoniously into the environment. All for your driving enjoyment. Have a happy trip!

California's Route 1 curves about a beautifully rugged shore.

Three Interstates Map-Makers Most Admire

Everyone knows the Interstate Highway system gets you there in a hurry. (Fact: It has reduced long-distance driving times between major cities by 30 percent since 1960.) And that Interstate Highways are safer. (Fact: The Interstate network records a mere 2.6 deaths per 100 million vehicle miles, compared with 6.9 deaths on the roads the Interstates replaced.)

But who thinks of Interstates as being scenic?

Well, it is possible to have speed, safety and beauty, too. We asked the people at Rand McNally, who put together the famous Road Atlas, to name the most beautiful stretches of Interstate. Besides those that have been mentioned in the accompanying article, here are three routes they particularly recommended:

• Along the Pigeon River near Waynesville, N.C., I-40 passes through some of the "most fantastic deep rock cuts in the country." In following the river valley, engineers blasted miles of the I-40 route deep into solid-rock formations. The result is "impressive, colorful and geologically revealing as you see the layers of various kinds of rock." This area is also on the way to and from the famous Blue Ridge Parkway for many travelers.

• South of Oklahoma City, Okla., to Texas, I-35 winds and rises and dips through the lovely Arbuckle Mountains. Just south of Davis, Okla., Turner Falls Park and Price Falls Park are noted for rugged scenery and waterfalls. The Road Atlas also shows in the same area the Arbuckle Recreation Area, the 912-acre Platt National Park and a sulphur springs area.

• Finally, I-75 in Northern Michigan traverses a region of forests and excellent fishing lakes and streams, climaxed by a trip across the world's largest suspension bridge. The five-mile-long bridge connects the state's upper and lower peninsulas across the sapphire-blue waters of the Straits of Mackinac. There are also ferryboats to historic Mackinac Island. I-75 continues north across the Upper Peninsula, an area famed for its historical mining towns, fishing, camping, hunting and scenery, to the shipping locks at Sault Ste. Marie, where ore freighters can be observed making the more than 20-foot descent from Lake Superior to Lake Huron.

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen took a trip to wine country and brought back three recipes. She says: "Recently my husband and I vacationed near the famous vineyards of New York's Finger Lakes. Among the souvenirs we brought home were these recipes using the light bouquet of rosé."

Cooking Ideas From Wine Country

When it comes to wine production, California boasts the two largest producers. The third is in upstate New York's Finger Lakes region.

You and your family might enjoy visiting this picturesque area. Abundant in history, it is the home of the Seneca Indians. The area's main features are its peaceful farm country, its shimmering waters, its hills bowed with rows of growing grapes, and its ample opportunities for sports. The largest winery is at the foot of Canandaigua Lake, the western-most of the Finger Lakes, 28 miles southeast of Rochester. Most wineries give regular taste-tours.

4. Reduce oven heat to 350°F. and bake 1 hour longer, turning once and basting occasionally.

People Quiz

Do You Understand the Psychology Behind Vacations?

True or False: Women are the most likely to change their minds at the last minute about vacation plans. (See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Most people would prefer to spend their vacations just taking it easy in some idyllic spot where they could feel completely "away from it all."
2. The introvert enjoys traveling more than the extrovert, because it enables him to get out of himself.
3. Women are the most likely to change their minds at the last minute about vacation plans.
4. The exercise you get on an enjoyable vacation will do you a lot more good than the equivalent amount of exercise taken at home in the form of push-ups, etc.
5. Husbands and wives often have different ideas regarding the most enjoyable way to spend a vacation.

ANSWERS

1. False. A survey has shown that, for the majority of Americans, the ideal vacation is keynoted by action: taking in all the sights, activities and points of interest in the area traveled to—and postponing the "relaxing and resting up" until they get home.
2. False. The introvert is not too interested in "getting out of himself." He likes it there—and finds himself more interesting than most people. He may enjoy travel if he can avoid crowds, but he doesn't enjoy it as much as the extrovert, who thrives on meeting new people and seeing new places.
3. True. Psychological studies show that women's reputation for changeableness is well earned. This includes suddenly changing their minds about where to go on vacation ("Dear, I know we've made all the arrangements for that cabin in the north woods, but I've just been wondering if the seashore wouldn't be more fun after all"). As studies have shown, women's preferences in just about everything—even the colors they like best—are subject to change far more than men's are.
4. True. University studies have shown that exercise you take just because you feel you should in order to keep fit doesn't do you nearly as much good, mentally or physically, as exercise engaged in for sheer fun and enjoyment (mountain climbing, skiing, surfing, and so forth).
5. True—as many a husband or wife will testify. A man's idea of an ideal vacation, as studies have shown, is more likely to center on various sports activities. He is likely to take a jaundiced view of any vacation locale that doesn't offer excellent facilities for the sport he favors. His wife, on the other hand, may regard sports as something she could do without. Another possible bone of contention: Surveys have shown that women are far more interested than men in spending all or part of a vacation visiting with friends and relatives "back home."

RICHARD WIDMARK:
This "Tough Guy" Really Hates Guns

"It may seem ironic that I've made my living playing characters handy with a gun, but in reality I hate guns. In fact, I strongly favor an adequate gun law. But it is not enough just to be for gun control. We really have to get out and do something about getting a law passed. Maybe we should even march on Washington—the matter calls for that kind of drastic action." Widmark, star of the TV series "Madigan," continues: "Politicians are always talking about gun control to catch a few votes. But then, even though 75 percent of the public favors controls, nothing is done about it in Congress. I would like to have a very strong law that would license and regulate the ownership of all guns. After all, you have to have a license to own a dog! I never have owned a gun, not even a BB gun as a boy. I hate hunting, hunting rifles and all forms of hardware of that ilk. All of us who feel that way just have to make a concerted effort to get a gun-control law."—Interviewed by William Wolf

The Diet Watch

How to Pick Vacations That Will Help Your Figure!

How can you keep weight down on a vacation when it's tempting to forget about dieting and enjoy yourself? One way is to keep in mind that you'll actually enjoy yourself more by eating less: Part of life's enjoyment comes from looking good and knowing it, and feeling easy in your clothes.

Overindulging in food on vacation can put on a couple of pounds in 24 hours, and the clothes that fit when you arrived can become tight enough to make you faintly uncomfortable. One good way to eat less on vacation is to keep your interest in activities so high that you won't be so concerned with eating. It also helps to pick a vacation in which you can get plenty of activity: Be wary, for instance, of a ship's cruise, which is a floating smorgasbord, with little chance of physical exercise. Opt for a camping trip, hiking, beaches or mountains—any vacation where you can concentrate less on the food, more on the action.

Jobmanship

Does Your Job Suit Your Personality?

You may have the ability to do a certain kind of work but not the personality for it. When this happens, you may do well in the work, but you're dissatisfied. You may even develop job-created mental or emotional disturbances. Basically you have to discover which of the two different kinds of job personalities you have. One kind of person needs people and enjoys working with others. People like this usually conform to others around them and don't take criticism and personality clashes to heart. This kind of person is happy in selling, executive positions or any job that is done in a group. The other kind of person often has the intelligence for executive work, but he is vaguely dissatisfied with it. He is upset by people-friction and is not a conformist. This type of person is happiest working at some kind of specialty where he can concentrate on his task, not on people. The professions are good for him. So might be research or the arts. Many of us drift into work that is wrong for our personality because of some kind of pressure. A shy child who has not yet grown in confidence might enter a by-yourself kind of work when he really needs a people-filled one. The individualist who is a school leader may be pushed into people-involved executive work when really his school leadership is the result of excelling at school projects—which suggests he might be happiest in a more private career. Finally, many people end up in the wrong job simply because of family pressure. And they regret it the rest of their lives.—By S. R. Redford

Come. Take home some memories.

This old gambling hall and sporting house has its share. To share with you. So does a parade of Colorado ghost towns and frontier trails, towering mountains and shining waters.

There are the usual hazards. Souvenir hunters. Occasional thoughtlessness. Things we can overcome together in an American partnership to protect the land and its histories.

Colorado has so much to give—so long as we take away only those shared memories.

Which leaves something to return to.

Report to the FW Woman

Resolved: To Look Beautiful, Even When Traveling

This week, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya suggests some resolutions designed to make beauty-on-the-go an effortless adventure.

BE RESOLVED to follow a Bare Essentials Beauty Checklist:

1. A glossy lipstick
2. Moisturizing lotion
3. Cover-up foundation stick (to cover up blemishes, blend in white circles left by sunglasses)
4. Eyebrow pencil
5. Mirror (for seeing the back of your hair and close-up viewing)
6. Comb and brush
7. Suntan lotion
8. Shampoo
9. Deodorant
10. Body powder

Beauty Notes: "Double-up products" cut down on packing: Coty's Equasion cream has a whipped light cream for skin in the outer ring and a center core of concentrated eye oil. Love cosmetics packs a smart Lucite compact, Sunset Shadows, with four color-coordinating shades.

Carry your cleanser, freshener and nail-polish remover in foil packets—lighten the load for your return home.

Suntan products, reports Coppertone, are available in cream (most water-resistant), lotion, foam (for smooth-spreading), oil (for those who tan easily) and now "shade" (for the sun-sensitive or fair-skinned).

When heading for vacation country, your hairdo can represent nine-tenths of all grooming problems.

King: 19 mg. "tar," 1.4 mg. nicotine; Super King: 19 mg. "tar," 1.5 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report (Aug. '72).

Big tension going up...only freedom coming down. And now you can relax with the full-bodied flavor only one cigarette delivers...

This...is the L&M moment.

RICH, RICH L&M

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

BE RESOLVED to get a superb cut prior to your trip (short hairdos are in, look more fashionable this season), one that you can manage easily and that need only be blown dry. Get it done once at your hairdresser and ask him to show you how. A hand-held blow-dryer will eliminate sleeping with rollers or spending time under the hooded-variety dryer. If you don't have naturally wavy hair, get a professional body perm. And, for an emergency, have a wig on hand, especially one of the new-generation "capless" wigs.

Beauty Notes: Great for traveling are Helene Curtis' Everynight unbreakable miniature shampoo flasks of organic Balsam shampoo, that both cleans and conditions. Each one contains 1.5 fluid ounces, good for two complete shampoos. Easy-care Dynel wigs come in "capless" versions, feel like hair, and hold their set permanently.

The scales may weigh you in at 130 lbs. but your feet, an intricate design of 28 bones, 112 ligaments, 20 muscles, will, by virtue of your movements, have carried the equivalent of thousands of pounds before the day is out.

Consider this: On an average day your feet will take about 18,000 steps, to cover approximately three miles. On vacation, unless you spend most of your time lying under the sun, your feet will carry all those pounds about six miles daily.

BE RESOLVED to get your feet in condition before you go on vacation. Here are suggestions from Scholl's, the foot-care people:

Walk around in exercise sandals at least ten minutes a day to help tone muscles in legs and feet.

Consider using telephone time to riffle the pages of your phone book with your toes. Walk around on the outside of your feet to strengthen the arches, or on the tips of your toes. Give yourself a pedicure.

Don't break in new shoes on your vacation. Do take two pairs of walking shoes and extra changes of hose.

If you are going to Europe where some streets are cobblestoned, take gum-soled shoes. Or add a foam innersole.

When you're sightseeing, find a spot to prop your feet up. Ideally it helps to do this ten minutes for each hour you've walked. When a day of touring is done, massage feet with a cream or lotion. Also shake the foot from the ankle down to relax the muscles.

Beauty Note: Start your vacation day with a foot refresher that sprays on powder or lotion.

By Rosalyn Abrevaya

This is the perfect dress to take you into spring, when you shed your overcoat. Put it under "priority" dressing, too, when you're planning to travel. Simple, but attractive, it sports front and back yokes, a front-button closing and graceful long sleeves that gather at the cuff. Make it with or without patch pockets in a wrinkle-proof polyester or cotton blend. Size 12 takes 3⅛ yards of 44-inch fabric. Standard body measurements for size 12 are: Bust 34, Waist 25½, Hips 36.

Famous Travel-Lovers Confess: "Here's My Pet Peeve"

Can't some genius figure out a way to avoid these nuisances...?

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Few people travel more—and love traveling more—than performers. In fact, if a star didn't love travel he'd have a hard time being happy in his job. But even the most avid traveler finds petty nuisances along the way. Recently, when FAMILY WEEKLY asked these famous people to tell what bugs them most on the road, we got these reactions:

RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN
He Over-Tips—And Hates It

"Tipping. Usually I tend to overtip because I want to make sure I am giving enough. But I don't like the whole idea of it.

"In the first place, tipping is confusing because in more and more countries all over the world there is a service charge added on to your bill. Sometimes you are told about it, sometimes you have to look carefully to spot it. And even when it is there—anywhere from 10 to 25 percent—often you are still expected to tip. Occasionally tips become part of an employee's wage, as is stated in a number of restaurant chains in this country. In other instances, not all of the money goes to the waiter who serves you but is divided among a lot of employees you don't even see and, I am told, not too rarely a portion of it goes to the management.

"But tipping is also degrading. I would much prefer that instead of being expected to tip, my bill would be that much higher and people would be paid a bigger salary. Moreover, I don't even think the idea of tipping works. Generally speaking I found the friendliest service is given by stewardesses on planes — who are not allowed to accept tips!"

MITZI GAYNOR
The Leaning Tower of Who?

"It's a source of bewilderment (and often amusement) to me that most natives of any city I visit usually don't know their own cities too well. I would say in 75 percent of the cases, when I ask directions to certain landmarks, either theatrical or historical, they always look at me rather confused—from desk clerks to waiters, people who should know their cities. I've learned it is most expedient to ask a policeman or a cabdriver."

JOEY HEATHERTON
A Lapful of $10,000

"Because I don't want my clothes for my nightclub shows to wrinkle, and because they're so valuable—more than $10,000 worth usually—I don't check them through but insist on carrying them on the plane with me, along with tote bags and a variety of other things. At least one time out of three, this gets me into an argument with the people at the check-in counter, and I end up having to talk whoever is in charge into letting me carry them on the plane. And because the bags are too big to fit under the seat, I have to hold them on my lap during takeoffs and landings. I don't say it's the airlines' fault — they have their rules and regulations. But for an entertainer who depends on freshly pressed clothes, it is difficult!"

RICHARD CRENNA
The Pain in Spain....

"I have two peeves that bug me most in Italy and Spain where I've made a number of pictures. In these countries they still have siestas, and everything comes to a stop. All the stores are closed at the time of day when most American travelers want to go shopping. I could understand this in the old days, but today when the guy who owns the store has to get in his car and fight traffic for an hour to get home for lunch, and then turns around and comes right back to open the store again, I think it is kinda outdated. The other gripe is really more peculiar to Spain, where you can't get a dinner at most restaurants before 10 p.m. If I have to go to work the next morning, I simply can't eat that late. As a result, I had most of my meals in my room."

JAYNE MEADOWS
Actress and president of the Jayne Meadows Travel Agency.

Smoke Gets in Her Eyes

"I love to fly. It's the one time I can totally relax. But invariably there is a man with a cigar sitting close by. And it doesn't seem to make any difference where I sit, even in the nonsmoking section, because somehow I end up with cigar smoke in my nose!"

GENE HACKMAN
Any Guy Here Named "Extra Large"?

"Laundry services—or rather, the lack of them—is what annoys me most when I travel. Invariably when you send things out to be washed, you're two minutes past the 'same day service' deadlines. Half the time there's a weekend in between or a holiday, so you have to ask for special attention—which costs 50 percent extra. And then they usually end up calling everything 'special' and charge you the extra 50 percent even if you don't ask for it! If you're lucky, you get all of your own laundry back. I hate to think how many guys are running around in my shirts."

Bad Case of the Grip....

"I hate packing and unpacking. I don't know which one is worse. I start packing a week ahead of time to be sure I don't forget anything. Since most of my traveling is done professionally, I can't trust anyone else to pack for me. The worst are engagements that last one or two weeks, because I have to take so many things. If you perform a day at a time, you only need a few outfits, since the audience will see only one performance. Unfortunately, that's the exception in my travels."

This child has a good home, nice clothes, a loving mother– and Pin-Worms!

A tormenting itch in the rectal area, nose-picking and fidgeting are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. It can happen to anyone in any family—young or old, rich or poor. It's so common, medical authorities say that 1 out of 3 children examined, and many parents, have Pin-Worms without knowing it. And because Pin-Worms bring on itching and fidgeting, they can distract children and affect their school work!

What's more, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system. For a free informative pamphlet giving medical facts about Pin-Worms, send name and address to Jayne's P-W, Dept. A3, Box 400, New York, N.Y. 10016.

PROVEN SUCCESS

Now from Oxford, the medical capital of Europe, comes one of the most potent, powerful diet aids to be sold on the market without a prescription. The scientific energy packed Oxford Slim Disc weight loss programme is spreading throughout Europe. Scores of men and women throughout America are enjoying similar success. This is not a low calorie starvation diet.

THE COMPULSIVE EATER

There is no answer in our opinion, of satisfying the compulsive eater by forcing him or her to go around hungry with an empty stomach. Starvation diets will only prove to be a failure for this type of individual within a very short time. The compulsive eaters must constantly have a full feeling in their stomachs, and a pleasant taste in their mouths. This is where the amazing Oxford Slim Discs take over.

OXFORD SLIM DISCS

How can the Oxford Slim Discs Fat Loss Programme play the most important role of your diet? Simply by giving you practically everything you need to diet if you are overweight from eating compulsively. First the taste in your mouth. The Oxford Slim Disc is a highly concentrated high potency vitamin and protein added tablet. It was developed and formulated for the all day nibbler. It is packed with a pleasant citrus flavor that lingers on your taste palate for hours. You chew the disc before you swallow, to release the pleasant sweet candy taste in your mouth.

AFFECTS HUNGER

Once the ingredients enter your system, the powerful tablet takes effect almost immediately. Your daily supply of Slim Discs contain 300 mg. of sodium carboxymethylcellulose, 6 times as much as most other pills on the market. Completely harmless, this expands and swells in your stomach.

UNWANTED FAT DISAPPEARS

This newly developed Oxford Slim Disc contains a daily supply of 1500 milligrams of solid natural protein. Each milligram acts as a catalyst in your body. Even porterhouse steak does not contain as much undiluted NON-FAT natural protein as one of these super protein Oxford Discs. Never before has a protein tablet contained as much energy at such a low price. NOTE — you may take extra tablets daily if you wish to help appease a fierce appetite. They contain no after effect drugs. There is as much Vitamin C in your daily intake of the Oxford Slim Discs as there is in 1½ cups of spinach, or a whole grapefruit or orange. There is as much Vitamin A in these concentrated power tablets that you take daily, as in 9 eggs or 12 glasses of whole milk. Your daily intake has as much Vitamin D as a full quart of whole milk.

ADDITIONAL AID

Your daily Oxford Slim Discs contain enough Riboflavin (B^2) as you will find in 25 glasses of whole milk, or 8 lean steaks. Riboflavin plays an important role in this program. Riboflavin, like Thiamine, aids in releasing the energy of carbohydrates. Energy can not turn to fat since it burns fat. A shortage of B^1 in your body causes tension and nervousness, which is the last thing any busy person needs while trying to lose weight.

POWERFUL—POTENT—

Let the powerful Oxford Slim Disc prove what it can do for you. Watch how this scientific energy packed disc gives you the results you never dreamed possible. You have nothing to lose but weight and inches. Surprise your friends and family with your new found trim silhouette. Now, before you gain one more ugly pound, or put on one more unwanted inch, order the Oxford Slim Disc and fat loss eating programme. You owe it to yourself.

GET RID OF UNSIGHTLY BULGES—

The Modern, Healthy, Scientific Way.

IF YOU ARE SINCERE ABOUT LOSING WEIGHT YOU MUST READ THIS SCIENTIFIC BREAKTHROUGH THAT HAS BEEN SUCCESSFULLY PROVEN THROUGHOUT EUROPE.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

MOVING SCENE

Don't make fun of the housewife who is always moving furniture around. Psychologists say this releases her frustrations. —News item

Let her move things here and there,
Switch the sofa and the chair,
Put the table by the wall,
Bring the chest in from the hall.

Do not laugh, as once you did.
Do not scorn her, do not kid.
There's a purpose, don't you see?
This is useful therapy.

Husbands shouldn't mind, for sure,
What wives do with furniture,
Where they move it, where they stow it,
Just as long as they don't throw it.

Money can't bring you friends, but it can bring you a better class of enemies.

To Miss Gloria Steinem

Dear Miss Steinem,

Recently one of the feature stories in the Kansas City News was whether or not a woman should be allowed to play golf on a public course on Saturday mornings when the course is invaded by men —several hundred of them.

My opinion is that if she's got the meals cooked, kids dressed, and all the housework and marketing done, and if she could keep her mind on the ball and play fast, I, for one, wouldn't object to her being on the course at 7 a.m.

SIMBELLA AND CUDDLES
Who gets the bottle?

If a hairy hand snatched your favorite drink away, what would you do? Simbella, a nine-week-old lion cub at a West Australian zoo, decided to keep her cool and observe the situation nose-to-nose with Cuddles, the seven-month-old orangutan newcomer who had snatched her baby bottle of milk. So okay, sharing is best, Cuddles decided. With the law of the jungle suspended, Simbella regally took her turn – relieved, no doubt, that no one had been able to make a monkey out of her.

QUOTE: Here's the American party's view of last year's Presidential election, according to candidate John G. Schmitz (who ran in George Wallace's place on the party ticket): "The principal meaning and lesson of the 1972 elections is one that all of the usual post-election commentary in our mass communications media has carefully avoided: that the two old parties (Democrats and Republicans) have lost, in the minds of the American electorate, virtually all of their significance as separate and distinct political organizations – and rightly so. . . . But there will be a challenge to the two-headed but one-bodied political Establishment that now runs both the old parties. The American party expects to put forward a considerable number of congressional candidates two years from now." UNQUOTE.

DR. BENJAMIN SPOCK
A matter of happiness

Dr. Spock on Women's Lib: "I would say that psychologically the most vehement feminists were motivated not so much by altruism toward their own sex as by an unusually fierce envy of men. They not only demanded that women have the same rights, but insisted that they are essentially the same as men—in range of personality traits, in capabilities, in drives, in emotional needs, in what they have to contribute to society. In this claim to sameness they were mistaken, I think. They were also mistaken in assuming that everything men have or do is desirable. . . . The main harm from the assumption of sameness is that it encourages an exaggerated rivalry that, I think, impairs the happiness of both sexes and the harmony between them." –From "Decent and Indecent," by Dr. Benjamin Spock (McCall, $5.95).

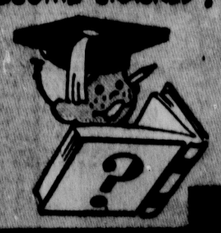
THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

KATHY NELSON OF HILLSDALE, MI, ASKS:

"WHEN DID THE LIBERTY BELL BECOME CRACKED?"



THE LIBERTY BELL WAS MADE IN ENGLAND. IT WAS BROUGHT TO AMERICA IN 1752. THE BELL CRACKED THE VERY FIRST TIME IT WAS RUNG, AND HAD TO BE MELTED DOWN AND RECAST. FOR MANY YEARS THE BELL WAS RUNG ON EVERY FOURTH OF JULY AND FOR SPECIAL OCCASIONS. IN 1835, THE BELL CRACKED WHILE TOLLING FOR THE DEATH OF CHIEF JUSTICE JOHN MARSHALL. AN ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO FIX THE BELL, BUT IT CRACKED BEYOND REPAIR AS IT RANG FOR GEORGE WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY IN 1846. SINCE THEN, THE LIBERTY BELL IS NO LONGER RUNG, BUT IT HAS BEEN STRUCK AT SPECIAL TIMES.

TIPS

DEAR POLLY—I am a foster mother who never seems to have elastics to tie a pony tail or braids. I use the ties that come on bread or freezer bags, as they come in many colors. They do not split the hair and the little ones cannot take them out as they often do with elastics. The twists are also very easy for me to unwind.—EM.

DEAR POLLY—I find that a thoroughly cleaned mascara brush is great to use for cleaning silver filigree as it gets into the most difficult places.—MELISSA

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—I lined my kitchen drawers and cabinets with tile that was left over from our new floor. They are so easy to wipe off and keep clean.—LOUISE

DEAR POLLY—I like to keep all my seed packets together with the instructions easily readable. I bought a small photo album made for jumbo pictures and placed one packet in each clear plastic pocket with the flower or vegetable picture on the front and the planting instructions showing through the back.—CRIS

DEAR POLLY—Plastic foam trays that come with packaged foods make excellent, disposable little cutting boards.—MRS. F. F.

DEAR POLLY—When you come in from the garden with streaked or grubby hands, put a teaspoon of salt into the soapy lather made as you wash your hands. Hands will be clean in a moment.—MRS. J. C. W.

DEAR POLLY—I attend a college about 100 miles from home. Occasionally I go home for weekends by train or bus. It was quite a chore to pack and carry luggage for my short stay. To save time and energy, I have now left a few changes of clothing at home as well as a duplicate set of cosmetics and toilet articles. I just hop on the train or bus, free of unnecessary luggage, with only a small satchel of homework and know that I will find what I need at home. Going home for these short stays now seems much more relaxed.—APRIL.

DEAR POLLY—No longer do I worry about getting rid of wasps' nests around my house. Late in the evening when the wasps are all gathered in the nest, I spray a bit of gasoline inside the nest and they die instantly. Do remember that this could be a fire hazard if carelessly done, so must be closely watched.—JANE

DEAR POLLY—Cover a steel wool ball with fabric and use it as a pin cushion. It will keep the pins and needles sharp and rust-free.—W. G.
